DERBY TO-DAY STIRS NATIONAL SENTIMENT

GATES BETS ON SIR MARTIN

He Puts Up $5,000—Total of American Wagers $300,000, Promising a Harvest of More Than a Million.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 25.—Probably never did a Derby arouse such a national sentiment as the race which is to be decided to-morrow is doing. The question which everybody is asking is not "What will win the Derby?" but "Will it be the English King's Minoru or the American-bred Sir Martin?"

Many knowing ones think it will probably be neither, but with the public at large it is almost altogether an Anglo-American contest.

Americans here, almost to a man, are backing Sir Martin, who will carry, on a conservative estimate, $300,000 of American money, which means, in the event of his success, winnings amounting to more than a million. Some big individual bets are talked about, and a large amount of New York money is being placed by agents here. Among others, John W. Gates sent over $5,000 the end of last week, which, I understand, was put on Sir Martin at fairly good odds. Mr. Gates is backing his opinion that "Sir Martin is the best horse ever shipped from America."

The prediction made recently that Louis Winans's horse would reach evens in the betting has not been borne out, but his steady advance is significant enough, and to-morrow's track betting will probably narrow the odds still more. His trainer declares that Sir Martin will make the race of his life.

Patriotic loyalty is largely responsible for Minoru's place at the head of the list at odds of 9 to 4, and certain members of Tattersalls are believed to have made books with a wide margin of allowance for this factor. It is noteworthy that while all the tipsters loyally name Minoru as the winner, the canny majority of them buttress their selection with a second choice, usually Louviers or Valens.

Bayardo is the dark horse of the race and he has a steady following, despite unsatisfactory rumors current about his recent work. Among those who like to gamble on an outsider, Lord Michelham's William IV. is much fancied.

To-day saw a considerable additional influx of Americans. Several hotels have been turning away dozens of applicants.

Alfred Vanderbilt's coaches Venture and Viking will both forsake the Brighton Road for Epsom. The Venture has been chartered by Clarence H. Mackay, who will have as guests J. Pierpont Morgan, Frank J. Gould, Charles Carroll, Mrs. May of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Farwell of Chicago. Alfred Vanderbilt will drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Payne Whitney will go on the Viking with Herman Douglas, Louis Larocque, Walter S. Hoyt, James M. and Lawrence Waterbury, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Stoddard, and Thomas Phelan.

THE DERBY IN AMERICA.

Sir Martin's Trial for Epsom Classic to be Bulletined in Hotels.

Interest in the English Derby, to be run to-day on Epsom Downs, was manifest everywhere yesterday and last night in New York, and, from all reports, through America, to a degree that caused orders from most of the big hotels and from great numbers of public resorts, for special news service, and the Derby result will be bulletined to-day as never was a horse race bulletined before.

The increased interest in the classic race is entirely due to the prominence in the contest of the American bred and owned colt, Sir Martin—for Sir Martin, in his solitary challenge to the best horses of England for the most famous and highest prized event of the turf, has made special appeal to American patriotism, and Americans who never saw a horse race, and who never even imagined betting on one, will hear the news with as much eagerness as the most confirmed turf gamblers.

In the big hotels simple announcement of the result will be made, with such information as may be included in the bulletin service, but a more ambitious effort is to be made at the Waldorf-Astoria. It was stated yesterday that for the Waldorf a full report of the race would be secured, if possible, and that for the first time a detailed description of the running of the Derby will be called out as the race progresses. The effort to send a description of the race while it is being run will offer great difficulties, though it may be possible.

The Derby was much talked of yesterday throughout New York, and betting men were compelled to decline innumerable offers of wagers on Sir Martin at "post odds," or even at a reduction of the odds quoted in the cabled reports of the latest betting on the Epsom classic. The difference in time between London and New York, about five hours, shut off any certainty for bookmakers, who might be willing to "scalp" the odds if they could bet off at longer prices the wagers they took in, but the offers were only of Sir Martin money, and any bets that actually were taken by New York bookmakers were exceptions to the rule.

There were many belated wagers sent abroad through brokers or their agents yesterday, and estimates of the amount of business thus transacted put the total at a large sum, but again the difference

WOMAN DIRECTS HER RESCUE.

Crushed Between Elevator and Wall, She Advises Firemen Not to Swear.

Caught fast between the net work and the side wall of an elevator in the Chesterfield apartments, 274 West Nineteenth Street, Mrs. William F. Coe, though in great agony, calmly directed the work of two firemen who worked last night to release her. The woman stood the ordeal for about an hour, and when liberated fainted from pain and shock. Her right side was terribly bruised. She will recover.

Mrs. Coe lives on the fourth floor. Returning, she found the elevator boy, Edgar Cardin, a negro, answering the hall telephone. She was in a hurry to get to her rooms and started the elevator herself. As she passed the third floor Mrs. Coe feared that she might have trouble in stopping the car at the fourth floor and took hold of the cable. She got too near the door of the ascending car, and her dress caught. This drew her toward the door, and in a twinkling she was half out of the car, with her right side jammed between the network on the side of the car and the side wall of the elevator well.

Realizing that she would be crushed to death if the car was not stopped, Mrs. Coe reached over and pulled hard on the cable. This stopped the elevator, but she pulled too hard and the car dropped several feet before it stopped. This left Mrs. Coe held fast with her right side wedged between the net of the car and the wall and with her feet more than a foot from the bottom of the car.

The screams of Mrs. Coe brought tenants, and Firemen William Kelly and Patrick Mulroy were summoned. They found the elevator boy about to start the car from the ground floor and stopped him. Had the car been started Mrs. Coe would have been crushed to death.

Kelly and Mulroy found it impossible to open the door without crushing the woman, and with tools started to take off the doors. The firemen started on the section nearest the extreme edge of the car.

"It's the other door that holds me," said Mrs. Coe quietly; "perhaps you'd better loosen that first."

The firemen had a long, tedious job to get the screws all unfastened, and throughout the ordeal Mrs. Coe kept cool.

"It won't help any to swear," said Mrs. Coe, trying to smile down at the men when one of them ripped out a few oaths because the head of a bolt broke.

The door was finally taken off and Mulroy climbed up into the car and helped Mrs. Coe out of her plight. She fainted immediately.

Dr. McClure of New York Hospital was called and he said the woman's side had been badly contused, as well as her hip. She refused to go to the hospital.

COTTON EXCHANGE ATTACKED.

Speculators in Control, Manufacturers Declare—Choose New Orleans Market.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., May 25.—Resolutions were adopted by the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which met at the Jefferson Hotel this morning, expressing approval of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange as a market for spot cotton, and deprecating the speculative element declared to be in control of the New York cotton market.

This action followed the report of a Special Committee on Cotton Exchange, presented by Capt. Elison A. Smith of Pelser, S. C. This committee has had the subject under consideration for a year, and has visited the Exchanges in New York and New Orleans. Recent changes in the management of the New Orleans market, made at the instance of the manufacturers, made that market, according to the report of the committee, almost ideal, giving an opportunity both for the purchase of spot cotton and the hedging necessary to protect future contracts.

The New York Exchange, it was reported, had not met the suggestions of the committee, and continued to operate in the interests of the speculators and plungers rather than of the manufacturers and dealers in cotton.

Resolutions were adopted asking the telegraph companies to furnish in all centres of cotton trading facilities for trading on the New Orleans Exchange equal to that now afforded the New York market.

DONNA DEL DRAGO SETTLES.

Millions in Real Estate Conveyed to Her Daughter, Mrs. Pauline Murray.

What apparently is the basis of settlement in the suit begun a year and a half ago by Mrs. Pauline Schmid Murray against her mother, Mrs. Josephine Schmid, now Donna del Drago, was revealed in a group of real estate transfers recorded yesterday in the Register's office.

Donna del Drago conveys to Mrs. Murray the dwelling 988 Fifth Avenue, adjoining the southeast corner of Eightieth Street, subject to a mortgage of $175,000, and a one-quarter interest in twenty-six other properties of an aggregate value of several million dollars. Among these properties are 411 and 413 Broadway, 78 and 80 Cortlandt Street, the southeast corner of Greenwich and Warren Streets, the southeast corner of Ninth Avenue and Fifty-second Street, and the southwest corner of Broadway and Ninety-second Street.

To Donna del Drago Mrs. Murray gives a quitclaim deed, relinquishing all interest in the property at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Sixty-second Street, 50.5 by 100.

In January, 1908, Mrs. Murray began an action against Mrs. Schmid for an accounting and to have a trust created covering all this real estate. It was said at first that this suit was of a friendly character, but it soon developed into a bitter legal controversy between mother and daughter. The trial, after having been in progress several days, was suddenly discontinued, and although it was announced a settlement had been effected, the terms of the settlement were never made public.

MORGAN, JR., IN STEEL IN ROGERS'S PLACE

ROGERS HOLDINGS SMALLER

Directors Spread on the Minutes a Strong Eulogy of Their Late Associate.

J. P. Morgan, Jr., was elected to succeed the late H. H. Rogers in the Directorate and Finance Committee of the United States Steel Corporation at yesterday's meeting of the board. The announcement, which was made late in the afternoon, was regarded in Wall Street as significant of the further intrenchment of the Morgan interests in power in the corporation. It was recalled that before the panic of 1907 rumors were afloat that the so-called Standard Oil interests in the corporation had become so strong as to threaten the Morgan supremacy in the trust. Yesterday's election of J. P. Morgan, Jr., gives the Morgan banking house four of its own members in the Steel Directorate—J. P. Morgan himself, his son, George W. Perkins, and Charles Steele. Others of the twenty-four Directors are so closely allied with the Morgan interests as to be known as "Morgan men."

In another direction importance was attached to the announcement for the presumption it carried that the amount of Steel stock held by the Rogers estate is considerably less than was the case two years ago. Wall Street figures that if Mr. Rogers had remained a large stockholder up to the time of his death, his son, H. H. Rogers, Jr., or his son-in-law, Urban H. Broughton, might have been chosen as his logical successor, rather than a representative of the Morgan interests. In many matters of policy in the past the so-called Standard Oil interests have been credited with holding contrary views to that of the banking house which floated the Steel Corporation.

J. P. Morgan, Jr., in succeeding Mr. Rogers, becomes a member of the class of Directors whose terms expire in 1910.

At the meeting yesterday Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board, and of the Finance Committee, offered the following eulogy of Mr. Rogers's work and personality, which was spread on the minutes of the meeting:

"Henry H. Rogers was a member of the Board of Directors and of the Finance Committee of the United States Steel Corporation from the time of its organization in 1901 to the time of his death, which occurred on May 19, 1909. He took an active interest in the affairs of the corporation, having attended the meeting of the Finance Committee during the afternoon of May 18, 1909, and was cordial and effective in supporting the policies which have prevailed.

"With respect to the business interests of this country, Mr. Rogers was a stalwart among stalwarts. His natural capacity, wide experience, keen perception, and sound judgment entitled him to a position in the first ranks of successful business men. In the consideration of the many complicated questions which have arisen concerning the corporation he has been of great influence and benefit. He never wasted time, nor indulged in prolonged discussion. His views were clear and clearly expressed, and while he was positive in his opinions, he was not disposed to insist upon the acceptance of his conclusions if opposed to the opinions of the majority. He was stanch and true and dependable.

"And the association with Mr. Rogers was a constant pleasure to his comrades. He was kind, courteous, patient, considerate, and generous under all circumstances. His invariable treatment of every one connected with the corporation and its subsidiary companies was such as to secure for himself their lasting gratitude. He was dignified and at times reserved, and yet was gentle and tender. Very earnest and sober in discussing and deciding important questions, he was at the same time quite disposed to see the humorous side. A great man has gone from our midst. His memory will abide in our affections."

WHEAT DEAL ALMOST ENDED.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 25.—May wheat shorts have only four days more before they must settle. The last delivery day for the May option is Saturday, and there is little indication that anything will happen to break the grip of James A. Patten on the market.

It is not believed that there is a large short interest in May wheat at this time. Mr. Patten has been peddling out his May holdings for more than two weeks at the rate of 250,000 bushels or more a day. Besides, he already has taken in more than 2,000,000 bushels of the actual grain.

Prices to-day showed that the shorts had been unduly frightened by the pessimistic reports of Monday regarding the growing crop. With the exception of May wheat all the deferred options sold about 1 cent lower than on the close Monday night. May wheat on the contrary made a new high record, which has been a daily occurrence for the last week and sold as high as $1.35¼, it did not maintain this price long after the opening, selling as low as $1.33⅝ and closing at $1.34, or just a half cent lower than on Monday.

TEACHERS RESENT INQUIRY.

Say Their Private Life Is No Concern of the City.

Many of the men and women teachers of the city are said to be opposed to the investigation of their personal affairs, such as their standards of living and the number of persons they support, which the proposed Mayor's Commission is expected to conduct.

It was reported yesterday on good authority that if the teachers as a rule did not actually resent the efforts of such a commission, they would do nothing to aid the work. The contend that the responsibilities which they have to meet on the salary offered them by the city is their affair and not the city's. This view, according to some of those who have discussed the matter since the Mayor suggested such a commission when he vetoed the Equal Pay Bill, is that they are paid for the services rendered and what use they make of their money is not the city's concern.

When the subject of equal pay was up about a year ago, the Interborough Association of Women Teachers tried to make such an investigation among its own members with a view of obtaining facts with which to fortify their fight for equal pay. This aroused a storm of protests from teachers all over the city.

INCOME TAX MAY WIN.

So Aldrich Tells the President—Insurgents Fear It Will Be Beaten.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—In the expectation of disposing of the remaining separate schedules in the Tariff bill by June 10, the Finance Committee let it become known to-day that a vote on the income tax proposition on or after that date would not be objected to.

Senators Aldrich and Crane called at the White House last night and told the President that such an amendment to the bill could be carried by a margin of two or three votes. Among the Republican insurgents, however, the impression is general that Senator Bailey of Texas has destroyed what chances the tax had of passage by separating the Democratic and insurgent supporters of it.

Senator Borah, who has been among the leaders for the income tax, still believes there is a good fighting chance, but on the Republican side he is practically alone in that belief.

Despite the committee's estimate that June 10 would see the items of the Tariff bill disposed of, to-day was given up to oratory, and no progress was made during the seven hours of the Senate's session. As was announced last night, Senator Aldrich moved the passing over of the lumber schedule to-day to permit of the rewriting of the duty on rough and sawed lumber, and for the readjustment of the differential. The sugar and molasses schedule was then taken up, and long speeches, mostly typewritten, became the order of the day.

TAFT REASSURES LOEB.

Tells Him to Keep Up Reform Work and Pledges Support.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Collector Loeb has the approval of the President in his campaign to reorganize the New York Customs Service. Mr. Loeb got this assurance to-day, when he called at the White House and spent a short time with the Chief Executive.

Mr. Taft is declared to have said that he was in complete sympathy with all that had been done, and that the Administration wanted the inquiry to go to the bottom of the conditions that had existed at the most important port in the country.

Before calling at the White House, Mr. Loeb had a final conference with Secretary MacVeagh and Assistant Secretary Reynolds at the Treasury Department. None of those who attended it would reveal the details of the plan discussed, but Mr. Reynolds declared that only the broad question of the best manner to proceed in the introduction of reforms was brought up.

ROOSEVELT BOARD ABOLISHED

Taft Revokes Order for an Arts Council That Made Congress Angry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Taft to-day revoked the executive order issued by President Roosevelt creating the Council of Fine Arts, and it is intimated that the Roosevelt Homes Commission and the Commission on Country Life will meet a similar fate. The Arts Council was created for the purpose of exercising supervision over the plans for all Government buildings, and to it was given a certain control also of the sites for such structures. President Taft's order retires a number of prominent architects and artists throughout the country to private life after a short term of official life, during which time they have had no opportunity to accomplish anything.

President Roosevelt's order bringing the Fine Arts Council into existence angered Congress, which was already displeased over the creation of other commissions, and the legislative body put into the Sundry Civil bill a proviso that hereafter no public moneys should be used in the payment of expenses or compensation of any board, council, or commission, unless such a body should have been authorized by Congress.

'KERCHOO!' WAS THE REFRAIN

Shoppers Began It and Grocer Joined—Burning Pepper Did It.

"Kerchoo!" sneezed a woman shopper in William A. Schwaneman's grocery at 2,329 Third Avenue yesterday afternoon.

"Kerchoo!" sneezed several others.

Smiling sympathetically, Schwaneman was about to remark that Spring colds were bad things when he stopped and decided to say "ker-rachooo!" instead. Then he saw two small boys laughing outside the door, and suspecting that they had scattered some sneezing powder around, ran out, sneezing and shouting, and caught them. Policeman McGee came in, too, at Schwaneman's summons.

The boys protested their innocence and sneezed so heartily that the grocer was forced to believe them. In the midst of a sneeze, the policeman saw a wisp of smoke curling up through a cellar door in the rear of the store and called attention to it by a loud "Kerchoo!"

Schwaneman replied in kind and started for the stairs. McGee followed him, both men wrapping wet rags around their noses and mouths. In the cellar they found somebody had started a fire in a barrel of pepper. They managed to put the fire out, and then threw the barrel into the street.

It's as much as any one's life is worth to say "Kerchoo!" to Schwaneman now.

CONEY ISLAND WORRIED.

Four Warrants Out and Everybody Wants to Know Whom They're For.

Proprietors of amusement enterprises in Coney Island spent a restless night last night until they felt certain that any warrants which might be out against them would no longer be served. The uneasiness was caused by the fact that it became known all over the island yesterday that Capt. Palmer of the Coney Island Station had obtained four warrants from Magistrate Tighe in the Coney Island Court for as many proprietors of amusement places.

Capt. Palmer declined to tell what four men were named in his warrants, and the names were not divulged in court. As a consequence every amusement proprietor on the island spent the day and evening in dread that he might be one of the four. Capt. Palmer said that at 9 o'clock the four men named had been notified to appear in the Coney Island Court at 9 o'clock this morning, and immediately there was a scramble to find out the unfortunates. Not a man on the island would admit that he had received one of the warrants.

It was rumored that the warrants were for men connected with one of the big parks, a moving picture show, and two Bowery games—a Japanese ball game and a "hit-the-nigger-get-a-good-cigar" affair. Capt. Palmer smiled when told of the rumor, but contented himself with remarking: "Well, you've got it almost right." He wouldn't tell why he was concealing the names of the men against whom he had got warrants.

BATTLESHIP BREAKS MISSISSIPPI RECORD

CAPTAIN EARNS A TROPHY

Son of Former Record Holder Will Present Horns to Him—Crowds Cheer the Big Vessel.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 25.—Breaking all records for big boats on the Mississippi, the battleship of the same name arrived off this city from Natchez to-night, having made 280 miles in fourteen hours. She left the Mississippi city at daybreak this morning, and for many hours kept up a clip of 22½ miles an hour. This performance has been beaten only by the crack motor boat Brer Fox of St. Louis, a craft forty feet long, with a speed of 29 miles an hour.

The Mississippi also made fast time in getting under way. In thirteen and a half minutes after leaving Natchez she was going full speed. Twenty-five minutes is regarded as good time in the navy for getting under way at sea.

At Natchez Island, a little below Natchez, there was fifty-four feet of water, and the shoalest place the Mississippi passed was forty-three feet and a half, so at no time was there any danger of her running aground, as had been feared by some. In some places there was no bottom at twenty fathoms' sounding.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning the Mississippi made her best time, going slightly over the twenty-two miles and a half mark. The boat did not slow up until near noon, when the approach of a fleet of coalboats necessitated it. After that comparatively slower time was made.

All along the route the Mississippi was saluted with cannon, flying flags, and whistles. Each town tried to outdo the others in celebrating the passing of the boat. As Baton Rouge, the capital, was passed Gov. Sanders and other State officials assembled in the door of the State House on a bluff near the river, and the State House flag was dipped.

To Capt. J. C. Frémont of the Mississippi will be presented a pair of horns given the steamboat Ruth in 1867 for making the fastest time from Natchez here, in recognition of his fast trip. The Ruth made the passage in fifteen hours, one hour slower than the Mississippi. The horns will be given by the son of the man who commanded the Ruth.

During the trip down the men of the Mississippi were put through their drills and exercises for the first time in many weeks. They had been enjoying almost unbroken liberty.

After coaling, the Mississippi will leave for Horn Island for the presentation of the State of Mississippi's gift June 1. It is a silver service, on which has been placed the portrait of Jefferson Davis, to the great agitation of many old Union men in the North.

NEW DESTROYER IS FAST.

The Lieut. Smith Makes More Than 28½ Knots an Hour.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—The United States torpedo boat destroyer Lieutenant Smith arrived here to-day from her trial trip, which was begun almost ten days ago. The exact speed was not given, but it was said that the vessel made more than 28½ knots, the contract speed.

The Navy Department is much interested in the work of the Smith's turbines. One fact determined by the trial was that they use nearly twice as much coal as the old type of engine.

MANY NAVAL CADETS UNFIT.

Over 12 Per Cent. Have Heart Trouble or Defective Sight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Ninety-six out of the total of 780 cadets at the Naval Academy are physically unfit for service. This startling information was conveyed to Secretary Meyer to-day by Capt. John M. Bowyer, who will succeed Capt. Badger next month as Commandant of the Naval School at Annapolis. The young men for the most part are suffering with heart trouble and defective eyesight.

The fact that more than 12 per cent of the cadets are not eligible to enter the service has occasioned surprise in naval circles. Of the ninety-six, however, only seven or eight are so seriously affected as to necessitate their retirement at once. The others, or at least a majority of them, are expected to benefit by the Summer cruise to such an extent that they will be able to pass the surgeons' examination satisfactorily when they return to their classes in the Fall.

Secretary Meyer is inclined to believe that a better lighting system will put an end to the prevalence of failing eyesight, but he is at a loss to account for the heart trouble. It has been suggested that too much attention to athletics may be the reason for this, but Mr. Meyer is dubious. He is awaiting the recommendations of the Board of Inquiry that has been appointed before asking any action.

TAFT ENFORCES ECONOMY.

One Estimate Sent Back to Department and $1,000,000 Cut Out.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Careful scrutiny of all the estimates for appropriations for 1911 is being made in the various departments as the result of President Taft's demand for economy. The President will send to Congress these estimates put at the lowest figure consistent with what the officials believe is necessary to maintain the Government, and the responsibility for their increase is to be put upon Congress.

One of the smaller estimates was recently returned to the department from which it originated, and as a consequence the estimates have been cut more than a million dollars, which is 15 per cent. of the total amount asked for.

JULIANA'S FIRST SALUTE.

Sergeant Rewarded for Presenting Arms to Holland's Little Princess.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 25.—While on guard this morning at the gate leading from the palace garden into Molenstraat, a Sergeant of grenadiers observed the approach of a white perambulator pushed by a nurse. For five seconds he looked at the approaching vehicle; then, suddenly realizing that it was the little Princess Juliana taking her first airing, he came to attention and presented arms, although the Princess slumbered on unconscious of the honor.

In the afternoon the Sergeant was told by his Colonel to repair to the palace in full uniform, as the Prince Consort wanted to speak to him. The Prince told him that he had seen the salute from the window. He had noticed the soldier's moment of hesitation and subsequent salute, and so presented him with a banknote to provide himself with a souvenir of the first salute to her royal highness, Princess Juliana.

Six Cars Jump a Curve at Slate Dam, Penn.—Passengers Unhurt.

ALLENTOWN, Penn., May 25.—The Scranton flier on the Central Railroad of New Jersey was wrecked to-night at Slate Dam, fifteen miles west of here, by the breaking of a brake beam. Six cars jumped the track. The train, which left Philadelphia at 6 P. M., was composed of a combination smoker and five coaches.

None of the passengers was injured officials say. A. R. Bennett of Scranton, the conductor, was slightly bruised.

KRUPP DIRECTOR ARRIVES.

Baron von Bodenhausen Comes Here on a Pleasure Trip.

Baron von Bodenhausen, Chief Director of the Krupp gun factory, arrived yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II., accompanied by Prince Alexander von Sayn-Wittgenstein. The Baron said that as business was quiet in Germany at the present time he had taken advantage of the lull to make a four months' trip through the United States with his friend. It was purely a pleasure trip and had no connection with business.

Baron von Bodenhausen said that Germany was not looking for war and that that was the reason he was able to get away so easily.

At 10 o'clock on Sunday morning the Kaiser Wilhelm II. sighted an iceberg about 50 feet high and 150 feet long.

HASTY WEDDING KNOT HOLDS.

Preacher Wrote Contract on Envelope and Court Upholds It.

WASHINGTON, Ind., May 25.—That Laura Bunn Clark is the legal wife of the Rev. E. E. Davidson, formerly pastor of the First Christian Church, was decided to-day by Judge Houghton.

Miss Clark, daughter of a former Mayor of this city, alleged that Davidson and she were secretly married in a St. Louis hotel by a private contract drawn up by the preacher on the back of an envelope. Soon after publication of this story, Davidson left Washington. He was heard from last at Toronto. He denied that Miss Clark was his wife.

Quits Bench to Sweep Streets.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., May 25.—Having been ordered by his physician to resign his office as Police Magistrate and obtain employment where he could enjoy pure air and outdoor exercise, Thomas Stanton today started to work as a street sweeper. As a Magistrate he received an average of $300 per month. As street sweeper he receives $1.50 per day.

"I picked out this job because I believe it fills the requirements that the doctor says I needed in order to regain my health," he explained.

Stanton for a number of years was an umpire for the Texas and Pacific Northwest baseball leagues.

Old Football Injury Fatal.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 25.—Injuries received in football in the Fall of 1906 caused the death to-day of Langdon Babcock, Cornell, ex-'09. The direct cause of his death was pneumonia, but his lungs were weakened for several years by injuries on the Percy Field gridiron.

BRITAIN IS EAGER FOR OUR SUPPORT

ENGLAND OUR BREAKWATER

One Writer Suggests That an "America Day" Be Regularly Celebrated There and Empire Day Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 25.—The United States is expected to figure largely in the debate which will be raised in the House of Commons to-morrow evening by Capt. Craig relative to the two-power naval standard. In this connection The Daily Mail editorially says:

"We desire to say at once that it is most unfortunate that the name of the United States should enter into the discussion. The American people are bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, and inherit many of our grandest national ideals. Blood, we shall continue to think, is thicker than water, and we believe that some American statesman already realize that England is a breakwater against the wave which may not be fully spent until it washes upon the shores of South America.

"The movement for expansion from Central Europe, which is one of the most notable phenomena of our time, and which proceeds with all the force and tragic possibilities of a great natural convulsion, must break upon our coasts first, but if we were driven from our hold upon the sea it would roll swiftly across the wide Atlantic."

In conclusion, the editorial urges the House of Lords, in the event of Premier Asquith's not making a satisfactory statement, to take the unprecedented step of rejecting the budget and forcing an appeal to the country.

Equally significant of the way in which many Englishmen look to America for assistance in the expected hour of need is the suggestion made by Coulson Kernahan, the writer, that England should celebrate an "America Day." Taking as his text a report that two New York State regiments participated in the "Empire Day" celebrations at Kingston, Ontario, Mr. Kernahan says:

"I propose that America be officially invited to share in all future Empire Day celebrations, and that here in England we celebrate an America Day with equal pride and rejoicing. Let the English Nation and the American Nation and the nations of Canada, India, Australia, South Africa, and New Zealand stand four square and solid to the world, and they and we would be impregnable.

"I would also propose that we cease to speak of Americans as our cousins. Let us retain that word of kinship and hearty good-will for our cousins of Germany, but the blood bond between England and America is closer than that of cousinship. Americans are our brethren, and it is fitting that we and they should so proclaim ourselves before all."

CARNEGIE IS APPREHENSIVE.

Peace Advocate Much Exercised Over Warlike Spirit in Europe.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 25.—Andrew Carnegie, who arrived on Sunday from Rome, where he had a private audience with King Victor Emmanuel, is having a busy time in Paris. On Monday he had an extended interview with Premier Clemenceau, and in the evening he was a guest at a dinner at the American Embassy that was attended by a distinguished company.

On Wednesday a breakfast at the Sorbonne will be given in recognition of his benefactions to the historic institution in connection with the work of Prof. Curie, the discoverer of radium. At this breakfast formal announcement will be made of a gift by Mr. Carnegie of $1,000,000 for the establishment of a hero fund in France similar to those endowed by him in the United States, England, and Scotland.

The same afternoon he will be received by President Fallières in private audience, and in the evening will be the guest of honor at a dinner tendered by Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, at which high French officials will be present.

I have had several conversations with Mr. Carnegie, and find him much exercised over the state of Europe and the warlike spirit everywhere prevailing. While the great apostle of disarmament is by no means despondent over the prospects of ultimate universal peace, he is very seriously of the opinion, as the result of observations and impressions gained from the highest sources, that the European situation is dangerously electrical.

EXPECTS WAR WITHOUT NOTICE.

Earl of Clanwilliam Says Germany Will Devastate All England.

Special to The New York Times.

WINNIPEG, May 25.—"War without a moment's notice will be the fate of England," said the Earl of Clanwilliam, an officer in the British Army, who served in the South African war, to-day. He has just arrived from England, where he has closely studied the situation.

"Germany will be the invading force," he continued, "and that nation will swoop down upon the mother country some Sunday morning and devastate and capture everything. There is nothing to prevent this. For several years Germany has been increasing her army and navy to an alarming extent, while England, apart from voting to build battleships, has done nothing to meet her, but on the contrary has organized a territorial army, doing away with the volunteers, which has materially decreased the strength of the British Army.

"If the present military policy continues in England, the oldest nation in the world is doomed to sink into oblivion. Nothing can save it. To-day Germany is far more powerful, both on land and sea, while the United States is rapidly forging to the front. In fact, although the American Army is far smaller on paper than the British, I am of the opinion that it is superior in point of excellence to the British, which has been living for years on a reputation gained by our ancestors."

SANDFORD DIED IN PENURY.

Threatened with Eviction from Hotel Where He Shot Himself.

PARIS, May 25.—Lewis Sandford has agreed to pay the funeral expenses of his brother, Edward Sandford, who committed suicide at Versailles, where his body is now in the morgue.

It is said that Edward Sandford was in penury when he took his life. He was the son of Edward Sandford, a lawyer of New York, and studied law in the office of Joseph H. Choate. As a young man he married Ella Hoffman, daughter of the late Gov. John T. Hoffman of New York.

From the beginning his married life was unhappy, and a number of years ago he came to Paris, where for a time he was one of the leaders of the American colony. His brother, Lewis, lived here with him, and both were well known in social circles. The turnouts were celebrated in the Bois de Bologne. Edward Sandford often rode in the gentlemen races at Longchamps, and he was one of the founders of the Labouile Golf Club, one of the most fashionable clubs around Paris.

Mrs. Sandford was wealthy in her own right, but the couple were unhappy, and several years ago Mr. Sandford obtained a divorce and the custody of his daughter. Since this time he had kept up appearances, but he led a more or less precarious existence. The divorce was followed by recriminations on both sides. Mrs. Sandford, who resumed her maiden name and who is living in Paris, has asserted that Sandford pursued her for money, while Sandford alleged that his former wife did not keep to the arrangement by which she was to provide for the daughter.

The daughter is at present at Wiesbaden. In recent months Mr. Sandford had been living in seclusion in the hotel at Versailles, where he killed himself. In providing for himself and his daughter his resources had become completely exhausted. A few days ago the proprietor of the hotel, to whom he owed $250, threatened to put him into the street unless he paid. Appeals were made through third parties both to his former wife and to his brother, Lewis. No response came, and it is supposed that in a fit of desperation Sandford decided to take his own life.

Lewis Sandford is married to a Frenchwoman of wealth, and lives in a fine residence in Paris. It is understood that Mrs. Hoffman enjoys an annual income of $20,000.

NICARAGUA TO ARBITRATE.

Knox Forces a Conclusion on the Long-Standing Emery Claim.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—A protocol for submission to arbitration of the Emery claim was signed at 8:30 o'clock to-night with representatives of the Nicaraguan Government at the home of Secretary of State Knox.

In the protocol is a provision that within four months Nicaragua may reach a settlement of the claim directly with the company, subject to the approval of the Government of the United States. Failing in this, arbitration will be the resort.

The claim arose out of the annulment by Nicaragua of a concession for cutting mahogany because of an alleged violation of its provisions. Soon after Secretary Knox came into office he sent to Señor Espinoza, Nicaraguan Minister here, a communication generally regarded as an ultimatum, whereupon President Zelaya announced the appointment of Señor Pedro Gonzales as a Special Ambassador to settle the claim. He arrived in Washington May 15.

SAN DOMINGAN REBELS LOSE.

Dislodged from Their Position After Three Hours' Fight.

CAPE HAITIEN, May 25.—The Santo Domingo Government is proceeding against the revolutionists as rapidly as possible.

On Sunday Government troops attacked a position held by revolutionists at Santana. The engagement lasted three hours, and there were considerable losses on both sides. The insurgents were finally dislodged and the position was captured.

JEWISH COLONY PLAN GIGANTIC IN COST

Schiff Says It Is Too Big for Individuals or a Few Societies to Attempt.

$200,000,000 FOR IRRIGATION

Mesopotamia In Many Ways Suitable, Especially for Russian Jews, If Scheme Could Be Adequately Financed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 25.—Jacob H. Schiff, who is at the Ritz, said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day that the report that he had committed himself to the plan for planting Jewish colonies in Mesopotamia was erroneous.

He thought the Valley of the Euphrates would afford a suitable habitat for the members of the race, especially those from Russia, so far as the climate was concerned, and in the light of the earliest Biblical history and tradition there is much about the region peculiarly interesting to the descendants of Abraham, but the scheme was a gigantic one, which no mere group of individuals and no two or three societies could well carry out. It would require the co-operation of all Jewish progressive bodies. To irrigate the land in question alone, which was necessary to make it capable of supporting a considerable population, $200,000,000, it had been estimated by competent authorities, would be needed.

Mr. Schiff declared that he would be strongly in favor of the choice of Mesopotamia for the colonization of the race if the project could be adequately financed, but not otherwise. The suggestion that the large Jewish societies take up the matter together and ask the Sublime Porte for a charter was practical, but that a few individuals should undertake the project was simply ridiculous, he said.

Mr. Schiff was asked to speak of the general business and financial situation, particularly in Europe. He said it was good, and added:

"The troubles of us Americans, if we have any, are as nothing compared to the taxation problems with which England, France, and Germany have to contend."

KAISER SEES AIRSHIPS FLY.

Gross and Parseval Balloons Make Round Trip and Manoeuvre Well.

DOEBERITZ, May 25.—The Gross and the Parseval airships, commanded by officers of the army, took part in the field exercises of the Foot Guards to-day in the presence of the Emperor.

His Majesty arrived at the parade grounds at 7 o'clock this morning and awaited the coming of the airships. They had started from the Tegel headquarters, nine miles away. Strong winds made the evolutions difficult, especially in the higher altitudes, where the wind was blowing at the rate of thirty-eight miles an hour, but in the low levels the pilots executed difficult manoeuvres with great skill. Both ships then came down in front of the Emperor, who inspected them thoroughly and displayed the greatest interest in the performance.

The two balloons, after the manoeuvres, returned to the headquarters at Tegel without mishap.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY IN RUSSIA.

Bill in Duma to Legalize Sect of Old Believers.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 25.—The Duma to-day began the discussion of a law legalizing the sect of Old Believers. This is the first of a series of important measures designed to put into effect the principles of religious liberty enunciated in the Emperor's manifesto of May 13, 1905.

The sect of the Old Believers, which in various forms embraces 15,000,000 worshippers, is the largest dissident body in Russia. It separated from the parent Orthodox Church during the period of religious reforms under Peter the Great.

CABINET MEMBER ASSAULTED.

Canadian Minister of Public Works Struck by Newspaper Man.

QUEBEC, May 25.—Olivar Asselin, correspondent for a Montreal French newspaper, was sentenced to-day to fifteen days in jail for striking in the face the Hon. A. L. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works of Quebec, following a debate in the House.

TO OPEN HARVARD HOUSE.

Birthplace of John Harvard Has Been Fitted Up as a Museum.

LONDON, May 25.—Harvard House, in Stratford-on-Avon, the birthplace of John Harvard, founder of Harvard College, which was purchased last year by Edward Morris of Chicago, has been entirely renovated and fitted up as a museum, and will shortly be opened to the public.

This work is being done under the direction of the Trustees, who include Sir Thomas Lipton and Marie Corelli.

VICTORY FOR J. H. ANDERSON.

Smelting Embezzling Case Dismissed —$1,750, Not $175,000, Involved.

SPOKANE, Washington, May 25.—A dispatch from this city on May 4 stated that J. Herbert Anderson, President of the Idaho Smelting & Refining Company of Ponderay, Idaho, had surrendered to a Sheriff to face a charge of embezzling $175,000 from the company. Mr. Anderson was charged with embezzling $1,750, not $175,000, the mistake in the amount having occurred during transmission of the dispatch.

At a hearing it was shown that the cashier of a bank at Ponderay had charged Mr. Anderson's personal check of $1,750 to the account of the smelting company, instead of keeping the funds separate as he should have done. The complaint against Mr. Anderson was dismissed by the court on the evidence of the State alone, upon the ground that there was no probable cause shown, notwithstanding the fact that no evidence was required in defense.

Several other charges referred to in the dispatch are declared by Mr. Anderson to be untrue.

Jury Awards Damages Because Policeman Was Killed in an Elevator Shaft.

A jury in Justice Goff's part of the Supreme Court awarded Mrs. Margaret Racine $9,500 damages yesterday in her suit to recover $25,000 from the firm of Morris & Co. of 10 Vestry Street for the death of her husband, Louis T. Racine, a policeman, on the night of Dec. 9, 1906. The Trinity Corporation, which owns the building, was the original defendant in the action, but the complaint against it was dismissed.

Racine, who was attached to the Charles Street Station, on the night of his death found the door of 10 Vestry Street ajar for the third time in a week. He rapped for Policeman Ritz and entered the building, while Ritz waited on the outside. When Racine did not come out an investigation followed, and he was found at the bottom of an elevator shaft, his neck broken. Apparently he had fallen into the shaft as soon as he stepped over the sill.

Counsel for Mrs. Racine, who sued as executrix of the estate of her husband, contended that the policeman was the victim of a burglar trap used by the firm as a substitute for a safe and proper door.

WHEELED IT FROM CHICAGO.

Arrival of Man, Barrow, and Lone Committeeman Recorded at City Hall.

Two very dusty and bedraggled-looking men arrived at the City Hall yesterday afternoon with a wheelbarrow, and askea to see the Mayor. They announced that they were Joseph Schurmann and George J. Hackett. The former declared that he had wheeled the barrow from Chicago in 256 hours, and the latter alleged that he was one of a committee of four who had started out to accompany Schurmann from Buffalo.

They said that the trip was made on a wager of $1,000, and that they had beaten the limit set in the bet by forty-four hours. After some consideration of this rather startling record by Police Lieut. Kennel, on duty at the Mayor's office, the men were shooed away.

N. S. Johnson, Horse Owner, a Suicide.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 25.—N. S. Johnson, known in sporting circles over the country as "Dick," committed suicide at the home of his brother-in-law, Col. E. H. Kilpatrick, in Newport, Ky., to-day by shooting himself in the head. Johnson was connected with the internal revenue service in Cincinnati for eighteen years, but left the Government's employ, purchased a string of horses, and became widely known on race tracks. Temporary mental derangement is believed to have caused the suicide.

ROOSEVELT ANNOYED BY STORIES OF HUNT

GOING TO NAIROBI TO-DAY

Major Seaman, Back from Mombasa, Says Game Is Very Plentiful in the Athi River Country.

NAIROBI, May 25.—Theodore Roosevelt is annoyed at some of the reports of his hunting trip, and to-day he made the following statement:

"No newspaper has a representative with the Roosevelt party, nor any nearer means of gaining information of the party's doings beyond what is generally known. Any special dispatches appearing are in all human probability sheer inventions. Moreover, the details which purport to be thus obtained can only be due to bribery, and it is safe to state that a dishonorable man giving a bribe and a dishonorable man accepting the same would be willing to invent untruths for money or traffic in other forms of dishonor."

Mr. Roosevelt's present camp is on the Heatley ranch, on the banks of the Nairobi River. Mr. Roosevelt and his son Kermit are in remarkably good health, and they are delighted with the success of their expedition.

The accuracy of the rifle fire of Mr. Roosevelt and his son has astonished not only the settlers, but the members of the party. Kermit killed recently at close range a hyena that had attacked him, and he has also come very near making a record bag of female wart-hogs in a given space of time.

To-morrow Mr. Roosevelt, his son, and Edmund Heller are coming into Nairobi. Major Mearns and J. Alden Loring will remain at the Ju Ja ranch until Wednesday, collecting birds and mammals.

PARIS, May 25.—Major Louis L. Seaman, U. S. A., has arrived here from Mombasa, where he met the Roosevelt party. He says that Selous and Cunninghame are the best hunters in Africa and that the former President "is having the time of his life."

Major Seaman, who hunted with Dr. Guiteras of New York along the Athi River, where Mr. Roosevelt is shooting, brought out 150 specimens of big game. He reports animals so plentiful that after six weeks' hunting he and Dr. Guiteras were completely satiated with the sport. When he left, he said, he would rather shoot snipe on the wing than elephants.

"Never have the Western cattle rangers seen so many animals," he said. "One day we counted zebras, gazelles, and other animals to the number of 450 within a segment comprising one-tenth of a circle. There were fully 5,000 in sight. Nevertheless, the animals are hard to approach, as the herds keep out sentinels."

Major Seaman considers the rhinoceros and the buffalo the most dangerous to hunt, as they invariably charge, which means death to the hunter if the animal is not killed or crippled. Lions, on the contrary, he says, are natural cowards, adding:

"My respect for the lion has disappeared since I went to Africa. The lion never fights except when he is wounded or driven to bay."

The most difficult element, he said, in shooting in the equatorial belt is the deception of the range, caused by the vertical tropical light and the altitude. The nights are always cool, and it is necessary to wear flannels and to keep under blankets.

Major Seaman, who is an expert in military sanitation, was greatly interested in the sleeping sickness. He brought back the first news of the discovery of Dr. Schrin, a German, which completely upsets the theory of the English commission that the tsetse fly only transmits the malady. Dr. Schrin proved that the fly becomes infected, thus establishing "a cycle," as is the case with the mosquito in yellow fever. The fly remains inoculated for fifty days. This discovery renders more difficult the solution of the problem of extinguishing the dread disease, as it ends the hope previously entertained of suppressing it by isolation. The disease has claimed half a million victims, and, according to Dr. Seaman, not a single person attacked has ever recovered. The chief horror is the long period of incubation.

The bite of the fly itself, when not inoculated, is harmless. Dr. Seaman was bitten on the forehead and suffered no bad effects.

SLEEP WALKER IN A HOTEL.

Clerks at the St. Regis Solve Mystery of Midnight Calls.

There has been some anxiety among the night clerks at the Hotel St. Regis for several weeks over occurrences that have puzzled them and which they have been unable to explain. Early yesterday morning the cause of the trouble became known.

In an ante room back of the main office there is a large indicator board controlled by electricity which shows every time a maid enters and leaves any of the rooms. Electric connections to call the hotel fire department are also made.

Room clerk Parsons a few days ago heard the snap of an alarm bell on the indicator in the back office.

He notified the Fire Department, but there was no fire, though an alarm box in the hall on the top floor had been broken. Soon there was a call over the house telephone for a pitcher of ice water from a room supposed not to be occupied. Mr. Parsons made a personal investigation, and found the door of the room locked and no lights showing. There was no explanation of the calls.

The next night Mr. McCormick, another clerk, had similar calls and could not learn who had sent them.

For three nights following the similar calls were sent to the office, always from the same floor. All of the clerks then took turns in watching in the hours when the alarms had been turned in. Just after midnight on Monday those watching were surprised to see a woman clad only in a night dress walking slowly down the hall. She called for ice water from an unoccupied room and also sent in a fire call. The woman was identified as Maggie McIntyre, one of the maids. She was allowed to return to her room and the housekeeper was called. When Maggie had got back to bed she was questioned, but she said she knew nothing of what had occurred. When she appeared for work later in the day she was given a vacation until she could cure herself of her sleep-walking habit.

STOPS YERKES FORECLOSURE.

Court Finds That More Defendants Must Be In the Complaint.

Supreme Court Justice Guy entered an order yesterday vacating judgment in the foreclosure obtained last October by the Mutual Life Insurance Company against Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes, widow of Charles T. Yerkes, and other defendants. The court finds that other party defendants claimed the right to come in, and that a supplemental amended complaint is necessary.

Attorney General O'Malley, representing the bequests of the Yerkes Galleries and the Yerkes Hospital, is allowed to intervene, as are also the Central Trust Company, as trustee under Mr. Yerkes's will, and Harrington Putnam, who was appointed receiver of the Yerkes property here in the suit brought against the estate by the Underground Electric Railway Company of London.

Mrs. Yerkes is allowed to answer or demur to the amended complaint within twenty days.

Washburn's Nomination Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—In executive session to-day the Senate confirmed the nominations of William S. Washburn of New York to be a Civil Service Commissioner, succeeding James T. Williams, Jr., who resigned after ten days' service on account of his health, and of Henry Groves Connor of North Carolina to be United States District Judge for the Eastern District of North Carolina.

SUES FOR HER ESTATE.

Mrs. Barnes Says Her Brother-in-Law Has Kept a Big Share of It.

Mrs. Kate R. Barnes, wife of Thomas P. Barnes, has begun suit against her brother-in-law, Alfred P. Gardiner, for an accounting as to the management of her estate, of which she says he had control for some years prior to her marriage to Barnes. The matter came before Supreme Court Justice Guy yesterday, when Gardiner asked that his sister-in-law be directed to furnish him with a bill of particulars. The court so directed.

In her complaint Mrs. Barnes says that Gardiner married her sister, Adele, their maiden name being Troop. Both sisters came into an inheritance from a grandaunt, Mrs. Mary Jane Radway, Mrs. Barnes getting $100,000 and her sister $150,000. The bulk of the inheritance consisted of real estate in Yonkers, New Jersey, and elsewhere. For three years after Mrs. Radway's death Mrs. Barnes says she made her home with her sister and Gardiner. Being ignorant of business matters, she left the whole management of her property in his hands.

For so acting she says she gave her brother-in-law the nominal salary of $1,000 a year, and followed his instructions as to the management of the estate. On Nov. 25, 1908, she married Barnes, and five days later called on Gardiner to deliver her property. In December last, she says, he handed over property worth considerably less than $20,000, which was all he had, he said.

Government Clerks Get All Holidays.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Taft to-day issued an executive order directing that when National holidays fall on Sunday all Government employes entitled to a holiday shall have leave on the Monday following. The order applies everywhere except in such States wherein the State laws provide for celebrations on the Saturday preceding holidays falling on Sunday. In the latter cases the Government employes will have leave on Saturday.

in time prevented any reports of the prices received, and it is likely that most, if not all, of the money sent late by American bettors to be placed on Sir Martin will be wagered to-day. It is quite likely that the total sum will be large enough to have a decided influence in cutting down the starting price against Sir Martin. Turfmen and bookmakers who are familiar with English racing last night said that Sir Martin was likely to go to the post at a much shorter price than the 95 to 20, which was quoted yesterday.

The Derby occupied as much attention as the racing in progress at the Belmont Park track yesterday, and John E. Madden, who bred and developed the American hope for the Derby, was permitted to talk of little else than Sir Martin. He had nothing to add to his statement about the colt's excellent condition, and the information received the day before by cable from Trainer Joseph Cannon that Sir Martin was doing well, and has the confidence of his stable. Mr. Madden stated, however, that his recent knowledge of the progress made by Sir Martin had caused him to change his mind and send over a substantial wager on Sir Martin for the Derby, but he had not heard then what odds had been secured.

Mr. Madden also told for the first time the details of the sale of Sir Martin to Louis Winans, and his statement testified strongly to the purchaser's confidence in Sir Martin as a Derby candidate. The price paid for Sir Martin and Edward, both three-year-olds and sold together to Mr. Winans after his friend and confidential agent, H. Vivian Gooch, had examined the horses and advised the purchase, was $75,000 for both, of which sum $65,000 was paid for Sir Martin, Mr. Madden retaining a contingent interest in the colt's engagement for the Derby.

It brings out stronger than ever the strength of Mr. Winans's belief that Sir Martin can win the Derby that the great race of to-day is Sir Martin's only big engagement. Sir Martin was not entered for the Two Thousand Guineas, which was worth nearly $30,000, or very close to the value of the Derby, and he is not in either the $60,000 Grand Prix de Paris, to be run late in June, at Paris, or the Doncaster St. Leger, to be run in early September in England. Edward, however, is entered in the Grand Prix, and it probably was that engagement which prompted Mr. Winans to include him in the purchase, though Edward is nowhere near Sir Martin in quality.

The one chance for Sir Martin to repay any considerable part of his purchase price in a single race is the Derby, but as a turf venture the price was not justified even by that, except in the prestige that is to be gained by the winning of an English Derby. Sir Martin runs to-day to win the Derby for his owner, an American, now a resident of England, and that is all that Mr. Winans can ask of him. Aside from the Derby it is improbable that Sir Martin can ever win back much of the price paid for him, as his field of racing in the future will be in the big handicaps, where he will be required to carry high weights, and in a few weight for age races.

The Derby, customarily, is run on the second day of the Epsom Summer meeting, which almost always is on Wednesday, and according to the usages of English racing the Derby will be started at about 4 o'clock, London time, and the result, cabled to New York as quickly as instantaneous service can manage it, will be received here somewhere about 11 A. M.

The Derby will be run over practically the same course that has been in use for the great event for 130 years. The first Derby run in 1780 at Epsom over some of the ground of the present course was at a mile, but the distance was increased in 1784 to a mile and a half, that course over a similar distance being slightly modified in 1848, called the New Course, and in 1872 the starting post was changed again to the high level starting post, the same that is in use now. The weights in the first Derby were 112 pounds, increased in 1784 to 115. Since 1884 the weights have been 126 pounds, fillies having an allowance of five pounds at all periods. Geldings formerly were permitted to run, but a few years ago the conditions were changed to restrict the race to entire colts and fillies.

In the hundred and thirty years of its history, the Derby has held first place among turf events, and the traditions of the race are practically the traditions of the turf. The winning of the race for more than a century has been regarded as the greatest turf honor that an Englishman could achieve, and they have been so zealous for the honor that in few years has it escaped them. Only twice has it been won by a horse actually bred outside the United Kingdom. The first of the foreign-bred horses to win was Count La Grange's Gladiateur, in 1865. In 1876 the Derby was won by the English-bred colt from Hungary, Kisber, owned by A. Baltazzi, and in English turf traditions, the years of these races are known respectively as the French and the Hungarian years.

The first American to win the Derby was the late Pierre Lorillard, in 1881, with the only American bred horse that ever achieved the triumph, Iroquois, by Leamington-Maggie B. B. That was enough to make the American year remembered, but Iroquois put emphasis to his victory by winning the St. Leger, while the same American year James R. Keene's colt Foxhall, by King Alfonso-Jamaica, won the Grand Prix de Paris, and in England beat all the best horses of the turf in the great handicaps.

NO VOICE IN CANAL FOR OTHER NATIONS

Complete Control in Wartime Is Our Policy and Neutrality Will Not Be Sought.

BOARD TO PLAN DEFENSES

Military Experts Probably Soon Will Go There—Congress Expected to Give Funds for Protection.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The Panama Canal, once it is completed, will be wholly the property of the United States. The guns of American battleships and powerful batteries ashore will defend its integrity, and so far as this Government's present intentions go no foreign nation will be asked to assist in the maintenance of the big ditch, and no overtures will be made to the powers to agree to a general treaty making the canal a neutral waterway.

This much was learned at the State Department to-day. It was declared that nothing was contemplated in the way of asking the various nations to join in an agreement guaranteeing the neutrality of the waterway, as was the case with the operation of the Suez Canal. The War Department is continuing work on the plans for the fortifications, the general outline of which was printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day.

"So far as I am informed," said an official of the State Department, "other nations will not be approached on the question of the operation of the canal. Of course it will be open to commerce, but in case of war the United States could not afford to let an enemy's fleet pass through from the Pacific to prey on the Atlantic Coast or from the Atlantic to attack the western slope. If universal neutrality were agreed to we would either have to permit this or else break faith with the other signatories."

Although the cost of the fortifications and the great guns that are to be mounted in them for the protection of the canal will run into the millions of dollars, the War Department does not believe that Congress will withhold the necessary appropriations when the time arrives to begin the work. This belief is based on the fact that the United States then will have spent a vast sum on the construction of the canal, and the refusal to provide adequate protection would be so short-sighted a policy that neither party would have the temerity to adopt it.

Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Chief of Staff, declared to-day that all the plans for the fortifications were tentative, but he acknowledged that he had gone carefully over every foot of ground at both ends of the canal, studying strategic possibilities. There is plenty of time in which to work out details, according to the officer, as the only need for haste in carrying out the contemplated plans lies with the manufacture of the big guns. More than sixty sixteen-inch rifled cannon are to be mounted in the forts and batteries, and the contract of turning out such a big order will tax the Government gun factories unless work upon the cannon is begun soon.

It is probable that a board of military experts will be sent to the Canal Zone to study the ground before anything final is done. The report of this board will accompany the War Department's estimates when the matter is presented to Congress.

There is But One PIANOLA Made Only by The AEOLIAN CO.

You Will Not Be Satisfied With Any Piano-player That Does Not Contain

The Themodist

A FEW years ago, the statement was made very generally in England, that with the launching of the battleship "Dreadnought," the other navies of the world became obsolete.

With still greater truth, it may be said that with the application of the Themodist to the PIANOLA, the limitations of all other piano-playing devices became apparent.

The Themodist removed the last remaining criticism that could be made upon the PIANOLA, by supplying a need that had hitherto been recognized in all Piano-players.

Without additional effort, the Themodist enables the performer to give just the proper emphasis to the melody notes, no matter where they lie, or how involved they may be with the accompaniment. In addition, the performer by means of another exclusive invention, is enabled to "graduate the accompaniment." That is, the accompaniment may be made to rise and fall with the flow of the melody.

It is well to remember in purchasing a Piano-player, that this instrument is designed to replace the highly trained fingers of a pianist upon the keyboard. Hence no Piano-player can now be considered even approximately complete that does not provide facilities for such essential musical effects, as those supplied by the Themodist and Graduated Accompaniment.

It is useless to expect to find on other Piano-players, the features that have given the PIANOLA and PIANOLA PIANO their standing among musicians. These features like the Metrostyle, Themodist, etc., are exclusive and while other manufacturers have imitated their names, the devices themselves are protected by patent.

PIANOLAS cost $250 to $450. PIANOLA PIANOS cost $550 to $1,150.
Moderate Monthly Payments.

SMITH SAYS END IS NEAR

Governor Hopeful After a Conference with Road's Manager — Commissioner Neill Tries to Arbitrate.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 25.—How less than 100 striking Georgia Railroad firemen were able to stop practically all train service in a territory 170 miles long and from 25 to 100 miles wide was the knotty problem which United States Commissioner of Labor Charles P. Neill started to solve immediately after his arrival here to-night.

As emissary of the National Board of Mediation, he faced first the race problem, the force behind the strike; second, an announced wish of many persons in this section to have Georgians settle this question by arbitration, and third, the necessity of moving the United States mails immediately.

Within two hours after his arrival Mr. Neill was in conference with General Manager Scott of the Georgia Railroad, with no intimation as to when the negotiations might bring results.

Following this conference General Manager Scott conferred with Gov. Smith this evening. Afterward the Governor said:

"We discussed the situation fully, and I am now very hopeful that some steps may be taken which will bring about a speedy adjustment. In the meantime I regard it as of the utmost importance that perfect order should prevail."

Present at this conference were State Attorney General Hart and Joseph B. Cumming, general counsel for the Georgia Railroad.

A large section of this State was compelled to-day to rely upon automobiles for passenger, mail, and express service and the transportation of such necessities of life as food was made dependent upon wagons and pack animals. Between fifty towns in Central and Northeast Georgia, scores of automobiles ran on schedules which in some cases were faster than the regular train schedules. Not a locomotive moved at any point of the Georgia Railroad system.

The automobile service was mostly town to town runs, but there were many machines running seventy miles, or more than a third of the distance from Atlanta to Augusta, the route of the main line of the railroad. Passenger rates in these automobiles were quite unregulated. Some machines could be had from $4 to $6 per hour. One party of four which came into Atlanta paid $45 for a fast forty-mile run, something over 25 cents per mile, per head. A newspaper automobile service was established for forty miles out of Atlanta.

In addition to automobiles, handcars and interurban cars are being used to carry the mails, but they made little impression upon the 3,000 pounds of delayed mail in the Atlanta Post Office. Here and there in the strike district a rural postmaster shouldered a sack of outgoing mail, and after hours of hard work, riding and walking, managed to reach an unaffected railroad station.

The fourscore of firemen alone did not produce this situation. It was the communities which the railroad served that stopped every wheel of the system during the last three days; not the officials of these communities, but a few men who are said to have fighting blood in their veins, who came forward and announced that negro firemen should not receive seniority over white firemen.

Few of these men were firemen; some were not even acquainted with the striking firemen. They accomplished the tie-up without serious acts of violence, contenting themselves with a few cases of throwing stones, as warnings of what might happen if trains continued to run.

Reports were current that the Federal courts might interfere and place guards on trains in order to get the mails through. But no such action developed locally.

The strikers have announced that they are willing to fire engines to carry mails, but that such engines must carry mails only and not passengers.

A settlement by arbitration should not be difficult so far as the strikers' demands are concerned, Vice President Ball of the firemen's organization said to-day, because the firemen are not trying to exact a hard and fast settlement. They struck because ten white firemen were replaced by negro firemen. The railroad officials declare that the negroes were put in these positions as rewards for faithful service, and that they are within their legal rights in such action. Upon this one crucial point of the controversy there has as yet been no sign of agreement.

Vice President Ball of the firemen said that there is no immediate prospect of the strike spreading to other roads on account of diversion of the Georgia Railroad's freight.

Shortage of ice was one of the inconveniences imposed by the strike to-day, and wagons left Atlanta some carrying ice fully twenty-five miles.

Reports that the necessities of life were lacking in some communities caused Gov. Smith to-day to telegraph along the line of the railroad inquiring whether there was any food shortage. No replies indicating such a condition were received. Business men, however, complained of serious financial loss.

TAFT'S EYE ON THE STRIKE.

Ready to Call Out Troops, If Necessary, to Move the Mails.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Taft is much interested in the Georgia Railroad strike situation, especially because of its race feature. He is hopeful that it will be settled without reaching a stage where it might be necessary for the Federal Government to interfere. So far no call has been made upon the Administration, except the request that the arbitrators under the Erdman law be sent to Atlanta to see what they can do. It was in response to this request that Commissioner of Labor Neill, one of the arbitrators, went south last night.

It is recognized in Administration circles that a crisis might easily arise such as would demand the sending of regular troops to Georgia to insure the uninterrupted transmission of the mails, and it was intimated this afternoon that the President might feel called upon to take such action if the delay to the mails becomes much more serious.

Because of the growing seriousness of the situation, it is not improbable that Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart may be ordered to Atlanta to take personal charge of the work of keeping the mails moving. Mr. Stewart is now in Indianapolis attending a convention of postmasters. The mails are said to be badly congested at both Atlanta and Augusta.

The Department of Justice also is keeping a close watch on developments. Although the Attorney General has not heard from District Attorney Erwin at Atlanta, that official has received complete instructions to proceed in the courts when the occasion demands such action. He is expected to report promptly when action is taken.

The District Attorney's first step would be to apply to the Federal court for an injunction restraining the strikers or their sympathizers from interfering with the mails. If the injunction is not sufficient to bring about the desired result, the court will be petitioned to appoint a sufficient force of Deputy United States Marshals to enforce the court order.

COURT REINSTATES WALKER.

Also Directs That Dismissed Superintendent of Buildings Get $11,042.

A jury before Supreme Court Justice Truax returned a verdict yesterday granting $11,042 arrears of salary to William H. Walker, who, two years ago, was removed from his post as Superintendent of Public Buildings in Manhattan by Borough President Ahearn, and recommended his reinstatement.

Mr. Walker was appointed by the then Borough President, Jacob A. Cantor, on Jan. 1, 1902, and the salary fixed at $5,000 a year. He was continued in office when Mr. Ahearn succeeded Mr. Cantor, but, following an investigation of the Borough President's department in 1907, was asked to resign. He refused, and was removed the next day.

NEW QUESTION FOR ALIENS.

Are Being Asked If They Are Pledged Against Membership in the Militia.

All the fifty candidates for naturalization who appeared at the bureau in the Federal Building yesterday had to answer whether they belonged to any organization which forbade membership in the militia or army of the United States. No one answered in the affirmative. Judge Lacombe declined to tell the reason for having the question asked, but it is assumed that it had reference to the existance abroad of certain labor organizations of anarchistic tendencies.

NEW CLAIMANT NOW FOR BARRY ESTATE

Sister of Its Founder Turns Up, to the Amazement of Three Hundred Heirs.

SHE DEMANDS FIVE-SIXTHS

Never Saw Her Brother After He Left Ireland, When She Was a Small Girl.

The 300 heirs of Mrs. Caroline Barry of Brooklyn, who died a year ago, leaving an estate of more than $100,000, were taken by surprise yesterday when Miss Katherine Barry, who had been entirely overlooked by those few heirs who knew that their rich relative's husband had had a sister, interposed, through her counsel, Isaac Shavrien, a motion before Justice Guy, in the Supreme Court, advancing a claim in the partition suit opened by the heirs, to obtain title to the estate.

The estate was accumulated by Alexander Barry, who died in 1868 and left no will. It was fostered by his widow, Caroline, who, dying last year, also left no will, and promptly on her death there appeared scores of claimants, running the scale of relationship all the way from sisters to great-great-grand nieces and nephews and cousins many times removed. If their claims had worked out as they planned, without the appearance of Miss Katherine Barry, some of them would have got 1-24,000 of the whole—about $5 each. But now, as a sister of Alexander Barry, Miss Barry is trying to get five-sixths of the estate.

The Barry property, consisting mainly of real estate adjacent to Brooklyn and New York, has already had considerable notoriety, for it was through illegal transactions in it that Frank C. Marrin is now serving a fifteen-year sentence in Sing Sing. He was Mrs Barry's counsel, and by winning her confidence he got $70,000 from her to invest in mortgages. He was convicted of stealing the money and of returning forged papers to satisfy Mrs. Barry, but he was not caught till thirteen years after the swindle was discovered.

Justice Guy has taken under consideration Miss Barry's motion to interpose a claim, but there appears to be no question as to her identity. She now lives in the Bronx, coming from Ireland twelve years ago, long after her brother's death, and since her sister-in-law did nothing toward giving her a share of her brother's property, she had nothing to do with her and never went near the tumbledown old Barry mansion, in Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, but once. She never saw her brother after he left Ireland for America.

Alexander Barry's fortune was made in a hair restorer he exploited.

ATTACK WRAPPING PAPER TAX.

Retail Dry Goods Men Protest to the Senate Against Any Increase in Duty.

Leading merchants of this city, who are members of the Retail Dry Goods Association, have sent a memorial of protest to the Finance Committee of the United States Senate against the proposed increase of duty on wrapping paper from 25 to 35 per cent. The association sets forth that even the present tariff of 25 per cent. is too high, and advocates a reduction to 20 per cent. Among the members of the association represented in the memorial are B. Altman & Co., Abraham & Straus, Henry Batterman, Bloomingdale Brothers, A. J. Cammeyer, Ehrich Brothers, the Fourteenth Street Store, H. C. F. Koch & Co., Lord & Taylor, F. Loeser & Co., James McCreery & Co., R. H. Macy & Co., A. D. Matthews's Sons, A. I. Namm, O'Neill-Adams Company, Rothenberg & Co., Saks & Co., Simpson-Crawford Company, Stern Brothers, and Greenhut & Co.

The protest, which is signed by E. W. Bloomingdale for the association, is addressed to the Finance Committee of the Senate, but special copies were also sent to Senators Depew and Root and to Senator Aldrich, Chairman of the committee. It sets forth that the cost of wrapping paper is equivalent to 1½ per cent. of the net return of the merchant from his business, and that it is not a commodity resellable on a basis of cost, and it declares that any further increase in tariff for this commodity would be an unjust tax on the business community in favor of a monopoly.

The memorial cites the former existence of the Parks "pool" in Manila paper, its condemnation in court as a monopoly, and says a higher tax would be merely an encouragement to infractions of the law.

DAVIS HEIRS LOSE SUIT.

Mrs. Ingersoll May Now Get $138,000 Fee with Interest.

BOSTON, May 25.—Unless a further appeal is taken, Mrs. Eva Ingersoll of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., widow of Robert G. Ingersoll, will get $138,000 and interest from the estate of Andrew C. Davis of Butte, Mon., as bills brought by certain heirs seeking another accounting of the Davis estate were dismissed to-day by Judge Putnam in the United States Circuit Court.

The litigation over the Davis estate has extended over nearly twenty years. Col. Ingersoll was counsel for several of the contesting heirs, and succeeded in obtaining a compromise. Before he was paid for his services he died and suit was entered by his widow. The award was $138,000, but before it could be paid Herbert G. Cummings of Ware, Mass., and Ellen S. Cornue of Somes, Conn., heirs of the Davis estate, brought bills in equity in the United States Circuit Court, claiming that they had been discriminated against in the original settlement, and asking for such part of the proceeds of the estate as might be in Massachusetts, which amounted to about half a million dollars.

These bills were dismissed to-day by Judge Putnam, and counsel were asked not to delay any further winding up of the Davis estate.

UNMASKED MOB HANGS NEGRO.

Overpowers Pine Bluff Sheriff's Guard to Get Girl's Assailant.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., May 25.—Lovett Davis, a negro, charged with attacking a sixteen-year-old girl here on Friday night, was taken from the jail at midnight by an unmasked mob of 300 men and hanged to a telephone pole on one of the principal streets. Just as the negro was being raised the rope broke and the body fell to the ground, but it was immediately raised again and left hanging.

Early in the night, fearing violence, the Sheriff secreted a number of heavily armed deputies in the jail, but these were soon overpowered and the jail broken into with sledgehammers. Several prominent men made speeches endeavoring to dissuade the mob, but of no avail. There was no excitement and not a shot was fired.

Elbridge Post Office Robbed.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 25.—The Post Office at Elbridge, about sixteen miles west of Syracuse, was entered by burglars early yesterday, the safe blown open and about $1,000 in stamps and cash taken. The money order book and two registered letters were also carried away.

CHOIRBOYS FAINT.

Carried Out of Cathedral During the Littlejohn Memorial Services.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 25.—Owing to the closeness of the atmosphere and length of the anthems at the dedication of the marble memorial to the late Bishop Abram Newkirk Littlejohn in the Cathedral of the Incarnation this morning three choirboys fainted.

Following the singing of an anthem by Sir John Stainer, a moan was heard in the front row of choirboys. Alfred Palamountain, the tenor, leaned forward to lift bodily the limp form of Andrew Orth over the reading desk, and pass him along to a bench in the rear of the chancel.

Almost on the instant Roger Sinclair Ellson, who was sitting near him, fell over and was stretched out on another bench, whereupon George Davis, another choirboy, promptly followed suit.

The disabled boys were carried out and laid on the grass, where they were revived, and were then sent home.

The dedication of Bishop Littlejohn's memorial was incidental to the opening of the two days' convention of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Long Island. The sermon of the morning was preached by the Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swentzel, rector of St. Luke's, Brooklyn. The address of the Rev. Dr. Frederick Burgess, Bishop of Long Island, held the interest of laymen and delegates in the afternoon.

Under the head of "Parish Houses" he drew attention to their growth as phenomenal. "But," he proceeded, "nothing must be done in the 'Parish House' to endanger the morals of the young or weak. Whatever way the parish may take to raise money it must be honest. Nothing which borders on the realm of gambling or betting must be tolerated.

"Not too strongly, not too frequently, can the parish priest warn the young against the moral ruin which comes to the man who seeks to gain money by illegitimate methods if the young man who finds himself broken and disgraced on the race track or the Stock Exchange can say that he got his first lessons in gambling in his boyhood at the church fair. We do not wish to see big ecclesiastical buildings erected by the price of, blood."

CONDEMN SUNDAY SALOONS.

Presbyterians Refuse to Agree to Plan of Committee of Fourteen.

DENVER, May 25.—Affairs of interest to New York had a prominent place in the proceedings of the Presbyterian General Assembly to-day.

The Committee on Sabbath Observance presented a report condemning the plan of the Committee of Fourteen of New York City, to permit saloons to open at 1 P. M. on Sundays and remain open until 11 P. M.

Congressman Bennet, who is a member of the assembly, said the idea had been to force the saloonkeeper to obey the saloon law on Sundays by giving sufficient liberty to those who wanted to drink on that day.

"We wished to have the law observed," said Mr. Bennet. "It was a matter of expediency."

"And I don't believe in expediency where the observance of the Sabbath is concerned," retorted James Yereance for the Committee.

The report which was submitted by Mr. Yereance was adopted.

The prediction that immigration would send the population of the United States up to 200,000,000 in the next fifty years brought out a heated debate, wherein Congressman Bennet, Dr. W. L. McEwan of Pittsburg, Dr. Charles Thomson of New York, Secretary of the Board of Home Missions, participated.

Dr. Thomson aroused cheering when he mentioned the name of Robert Watchorn, deposed Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island. His intimation that politics had caused the deposition of one of the best immigration officers in the service brought applause.

Congressman Bennet took issue with the speakers who believed immigrants undesirable. Most of them, he said, are industrious and God-fearing.

Schools to Show What Folk Dancing Is.

Miss Catherine S. Leverich, President of the Girls' Branch of the Public Schools Athletic League, has invited Mayor McClellan and the members of his newly appointed Playground Commission to witness on Saturday morning a festival of folk dances and games under the auspices of the Girls' Branch of the Public Schools Athletic League on the polo green at Van Cortlandt Park. About 2,500 children from the schools will give an exhibition of the kind of work which is being accomplished and encouraged by the Girls' Branch of the P. S. A. L. Nearly fifty schools will send representatives.

PHILADELPHIA GIRL HELD AS SHOPLIFTER

Wrote to a Bowery Hotel Keeper That She Would "Do Something Crooked."

SHE ASKED FOR CARFARE

"If I Stay in New York I Know I Will Come to Grief," Her Letter Said.

Because of an unsigned letter which was found on her, apparently written by the girl herself, the police are interested in the past history of Helen E. Harris, a young woman of about 32 years, who was arrested in a Sixth Avenue department store yesterday, charged with shoplifting. The letter was dated last Saturday, and was addressed to a Bowery hotel keeper. Here is the letter:

Mr. Turner—I suppose you are surprised to hear from me again, but I am so badly off that I cannot afford to have any pride. It is impossible for me to get steady work (in the embroidery line) at this time of the year, and I have had nothing to do for the last two weeks. I hoped my last position would last over Summer, but they only wanted me for a week.

It was not my fault. I am afraid to try to get in a private house. It might be too much of a temptation. It would be so easy, too. I have been staying at the Florence Mission on Bleecker Street for the last six days, but I must leave to-morrow. Inmates can stay for six months, but visitors only a week. They have been very good to me, but they cannot get me the work I want, and I have made up my mind to go back to Philadelphia.

I can stay with friends there until I can get on my feet again. I should have gone back before, but was ashamed to let them know what a failure I have been. But what I want to ask you is, will you lend me the money for the fare, $2.25 on the B. & O. I cannot get it, though I have tried all the week.

My friends live at 3,205 Baring Street, Philadelphia, and their name is Van Dusen. I do not say that they will lend me this money to pay you back, but I think I can get some work to do when I get back to Philadelphia. I have some old customers there, private ones, who will give me work, even if they have not heard from me all this time. If I stay in New York I know I will come to grief. There will be nothing else for me to do except something crooked.

According to David Kash and Rose McCormick, the woman has been seen in the store almost every day for the last week, and the two detectives have watched her. Nearly a week ago Miss McCormick saw her take an article and asked her to go to the office. The woman exhibited a sale slip, however, and put Miss McCormick to rout. Yesterday the detectives say they saw her take a five-dollar chatelaine bag, and despite the fact that she had a sale slip at hand they arrested her. According to the detectives the woman confessed and said that she was starving.

In the Night Court she pleaded guilty and was held in $300 bail for Special Sessions. According to Miss McCormick and Kash, her method was to obtain blank sale slips in some mysterious way and then steal articles which she later returned to the store saying they were unsatisfactory and demanding her money back. Having the sale slip to show, the woman always got the money.

SAY MONEY WAS HELD UP.

Magistrate Investigating Women's Charges Against His Clerk.

Magistrate Hylan of the New Jersey Avenue Court, Brooklyn, last night announced that he would to-day conduct a thorough investigation into the manner in which sums of money received by a clerk from defendant husbands have been handled. Complaints were made yesterday by three women that they had not promptly received money from John Tregaskis, a clerk, to whom the money was given by their husbands.

Mrs. Florence Pearsall of Valley Stream told Magistrate Hylan yesterday that she had called upon Mr. Tregaskis Monday to obtain from him $5 left in his care for her by her husband. In accordance with similar cases the Magistrate ordered the husband to report to Mr. Tregaskis weekly and place the sum needed for his wife's support in Clerk Tregaskis's care. Two other women made similar complaints.

NEW HAVEN'S CLAIM LARGE.

Between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 Demanded from Adams Express.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 25.—It is said authoritatively that investigations by auditors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company indicate that the company's claim against the Adams Express Company amounts to between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. As the claim, however, reaches back through many years, an interesting question has arisen as to how far it is barred by the Statute of Limitation. The whole question will probably again be considered at the meeting of the railroad company's Board of Directors on the second Friday of next month, when the reply of the express company will probably be laid before them.

Under the ten-year contract it is specifically provided that the railroad company shall have full access to the express company's books and accounts in order to ascertain the total of the railroad's 45 per cent. of gross express receipts upon the New Haven system, which the contract provides for.

WHALEBACK BAY CITY AFLOAT.

Ten Steam Pumps and Two Tugs Save Her from Bad Shore.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., May 25.—With ten steam pumps actively at work and two tugs straining at hawsers, the whaleback steamer Bay City, which went aground on the south side of the island on the night of May 16, was floated at noon to-day and towed around to the West Harbor. The pumps were just able to keep up with the water which poured through the big rents in the steamer's bottom, and it will be necessary to make temporary repairs here before the Bay City can be taken to New York.

The floating of the Bay City was accomplished under the most adverse circumstances, and twice the outfit of the Chapman Wrecking Company's tugs, lighters, and scows were forced to seek shelter in West Harbor because of the heavy sea on the south shore.

Nearly every other vessel which has struck on this side of Block Island remains there still.

PANIC AT SCHOOL FIRE.

Five Fatally Burned at Commencement Exercises in Kentucky Institution.

CENTRAL CITY, Ky., May 25.—Five children who took part in the commencement exercises of Mrs. D. C. Boyd's School in this city last night were burned, it is believed, fatally, and several other children were slightly injured by a fire. Panic was averted by the coolness of men in the audience, who covered the flaming children with their coats.

The dropping of a lighted candle by 8-year-old Dorothy Clay was the cause of the blaze, the dresses of the other children catching fire as they crowded about her.

ICE AGAIN AT ST. JOHN'S.

Steamers Prevented from Going Into Harbor by Shift of Wind.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., May 25.—The ice blockade has again closed the Port of St. John's and five steamers were off Cape Race to-day unable to make the harbor. They were the Allan liner Siberian, from Philadelphia; the Furness liner Almeriana, from Liverpool; the Furness liner Durango, from Halifax, and the ore freighters Sygna and Ellen, from Sydney. The Siberian received orders to proceed to Glasgow and steamed away.

A few days ago the ice pack was driven away from the coast, but a change in the wind brought it back.

MINERS SCARED BY FIRE.

Four Hundred Hurry to Reach Surface to Escape Blaze in Shaft.

PITTSBURG, May 25.—A serious fire started early to-day in Mine 3 of the Penn Gas Coal Company, a few miles south of Irwin, Penn., near here. Over 400 miners were at work. The alarm sent the men scurrying for the shaft and all reached the surface in safety.

The fire started in a rear entry and is making rapid headway. It will have to be walled in, and the loss, it is believed, will be heavy. The origin of the fire is not known.

PHOTOGRAPH'S SOUND.

Prof. Miller's Device Distinguishes Human Voice from Instrumental Notes

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 25.—Prof. Dayton C. Miller of the Case School of Applied Science here says he has discovered a means of photographing sound. By the use of his newly perfected device he believes it will be possible to distinguish on films the difference between the tones of a human voice and the tones of a musical instrument.

The nearest that scientists have come to reproducing sound waves heretofore has been to make them visible on smoked paper. Several photographs have been made on the regular print paper, but they have been small and imperfect. The invention of Prof. Miller directly photographs the sound waves, magnifying them 2,000 times and recording them on films.

In his investigation Prof. Miller has used a harmonic analyzer, an instrument made in Switzerland, which separates sound waves into their component parts, determining whether a certain photographed sound wave was made by a flute, a bell, a violin, or other musical instrument. It is his purpose to tabulate the results of his experiments for the use of other investigators, a labor that will require several years.

HELD FOR SEEKING JEFFERSON FUND

USED PROMINENT NAMES

Son of the Late Actor Has Man Arrested Who, He Says, Has No Authority to Solicit Funds.

James W. Morrissey, an old-time theatrical manager and advance agent, who once was manager for Mme. Modjeska and, for the last few years, has been conducting a subscription for the erection of a monument in Central Park to the memory of Joseph Jefferson, the actor, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives McConville and Nelson of Headquarters on the technical charge of conducting a business without having filed a certificate with the County Clerk. The offense is a misdemeanor in violation of Section 440 of the Penal Law.

Morrissey's arrest was occasioned by Thomas Jefferson, a son of the late actor. Mr. Jefferson called at Police Headquarters a week ago yesterday and told Commissioner Bingham that in the last few weeks he had received several letters from friends and acquaintances as well as from persons unknown to him inquiring into the fund being collected by Morrissey and protesting that the ex-manager was employing their names as Directors of his association without their consent. Among those from whom he had received letters, said Mr. Jefferson, were Otis Skinner, De Wolf Hopper, Harrison Grey Fiske, and other actors.

Detective McConville learned from the County Clerk's office that Morrissey, who did business at his home, 229 West Eighty-third Street, under the name of the Joseph Jefferson Monument Association, had filed no certificate, and he addressed a letter to the association saying that he wished to contribute to the fund and, asking for particulars. He received a reply upon paper bearing a letterhead of the name of the association, Morrissey's name appeared as "Managing Director," and Earl King Treasurer. In a column on the left side of the paper was a list of names said to be Directors of the association. The name of Andrew Carnegie headed the list, and beneath it came those of Clarence Mackay, Sir Charles Wyndham, Bourke Cockran, Levi P. Morton, Cornelius N. Bliss, John D. Crimmins, Frank Tilford, Heinrich Conried, Walter Damrosch, David Belasco, Peter F. Collier, Edward Lauterbach, De Lancey Nicoll, and W. F. MacMonnies.

McConville said last night that none of these men, several of whom are dead, had given permission for such use of their names. Upon receipt of the reply he and Nelson went to Morrissey's home yesterday. A woman admitted them, but said that Mr. Morrissey was out. The detectives left the house, but waited on the steps, and presently Mr. Morrissey came out of the house, resplendent in a frock-coat, silk hat, gloves, and stick. To McGonville's question, "Aren't you Mr. Morrissey?" he replied:

"No, my man. My name is Jones," and then started to go down the steps.

The detective stopped him, however, insisting that he knew him. Morrissey denied for the second time that he was Morrissey, and McConville exclaimed impatiently:

"You're Morrissey, all right. We want to see you about the Jefferson Monument affair."

"In that case," said Mr. Morrissey, "please come right up stairs."

The detectives followed him into the house, Morrissey now readily admitting his identity and explaining that he had denied it because he thought the detectives were small tradesmen of the neighborhood with whom he said he had been having some trouble over several small bills which he thought he should not be called upon to pay. In his home Morrissey showed the detectives a letter from Mrs. Jefferson, the widow of the actor, authorizing him to collect subscriptions for a monument to the dead actor and to keep 25 per cent. of all sums for his trouble.

According to McConville, he asked Morrissey if he was not aware that Mrs. Jefferson had repudiated the agreement and had asked that her letter be returned. Morrissey, according to the detective, replied that he was aware of this, but that he had expended considerable money in arranging benefits and other events to increase the fund, and that he did not feel that he should cease his collections until his percentage was sufficient to reimburse him for moneys expended. McConville, who desired just this admission, arrested Morrissey immediately and took him to Headquarters, where he was locked up. He did not appear at all disturbed by his arrest, and chatted pleasantly with the detectives on the way to the Central Office.

Morrissey has had anything but an easy time from the very start of the association which he formed early in 1907. He obtained a letter of authority from Mrs. Jefferson when he explained to her that he was desirous of erecting a monument to her dead husband, but within a few weeks Mrs. Jefferson, after consulting with friends, wrote and asked for its return. Morrissey declined to return the letter, saying at the time that he was acting on advice of counsel who, he said, was Edward Lauterbach. Later, however, he offered to accept a smaller commission for his work, this point being one which Mrs. Jefferson had brought up in repudiating her agreement with him. Mrs. Jefferson declined to have anything more to do with the project, however.

It appeared to be uncertain how much money Morrissey has collected. He gave benefit concerts at Palm Beach, Long Branch, Lake George, Larchmont, and other places which are said to have netted large sums. Recently he appears to have been somewhat inactive in his efforts to obtain money.

Has Detective Arrested.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 25.—Mrs. Beatrice Brevaine Dreyfus, the divorced wife of Emil Dreyfus of New York, caused the arrest to-day of a man giving his name as E. Duff, who says he is a private detective. Mrs. Dreyfus complained that the man and two others had followed her the four days she has been in St. Louis.

MOTHERS CAUSE FIRE SCARE

School Children Nearly Driven Into a Panic by Their Clamor.

There was almost a repetition of the school riots of four years ago on the lower east side yesterday during a fire on the top floor of a tenement house adjacent to Public School 91, Forsyth and Stanton Streets. A mob of nearly a thousand women, who thought the school building was afire, swarmed about the doors of the building, and for several minutes there was a panic of fear and excitement.

The fire was in the building at 50 Stanton Street, a six-story tenement house, which towers one floor above the roof of the school building. Mrs. Salvatore Marseline, wife of a tailor who lives on the top floor, had gone from her apartment into that of Mrs. Aaron Levinson, across the hall, leaving the gas in her kitchen stove lighted. During her absence the curtain on her kitchen window was blown against the gas jet and ignited.

When she returned and opened the door she found her flat full of smoke, and gave an alarm.

John O'Sullivan, engineer of the school building, saw a crowd of screaming, excited women gathering at the doors of the building opening in both Stanton and Forsyth Streets. He closed and bolted the doors and then notified the Principal of the school, Miss Mary McClay.

Miss McClay sent her assistant, Miss Linda Henderson, to tell the teachers on the top floor that there was no danger. The fourth and fifth floors are occupied by girl pupils exclusively, and when Miss Henderson arrived she found the girls in a state bordering on panic. The mothers in the street were pounding on the doors for admittance, and it was not until Miss McClay appeared at a window and shouted to them that the fire was in the building next door and that the children were not in danger that they stepped back. The police reserves from the Eldridge Street Station finally cleared the streets.

The firemen had the blaze under control in less than fifteen minutes, the fire being confined to the top floor. It did damage of about $2,000.

WHO CUT HART'S WHISKERS?

Somebody Shaved Them Off While He Slept and Poverty Hollow Mourns.

An elderly man, bent and gray, with a great sorrow in his eyes, stumbled into the saloon of Cadigan & Burke, at Front and Water Streets, last night. He avoided the jolly crowd at the bar, and, sinking into a chair beside a table in the corner of the room, buried his face in his hands. Presently the waiter touched his shoulder. William Fleming, "Mayor of Poverty Hollow," had offered to buy the man a drink.

"What'll yer have?" demanded the waiter.

The old man looked up, and the waiter stepped back, surprised. "Blamed if it ain't Pat Hart!" he exclaimed. "What's the matter, Pat? Where's the whiskers?"

Every one in the Hook and the Hollow knew Pat Hart, whose long white whiskers were the pride of his life. The man at the table was wearing what looked like a two days' growth of beard, but instead of being a foot or more long it was just a white stubble. But it was Pat.

Under the soothing influence of drink and sympathy he told how he had fallen asleep in the sun as he sat on the steps of his home, at 671 South Street. The nap was a deep and refreshing one, and he sprang up to prepare joyously for supper when he noticed that something was missing. The white mass that had rested on his chest was gone. Pat's hand flew to his cheeks and chin. On them was a stubble, nothing more.

The old man was broken hearted, and "Mayor" Fleming and his other cronies have pledged themselves to discover the man who cut off Pat's beard. It will go hard with the culprit if they succeed.

JAIL FOR AUTO SPEEDER.

C. L. Penfield Gets Six Months and a $400 Fine at New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 25.—Charles L. Penfield of Meriden pleaded guilty in the Common Pleas Court to-day to reckless driving of an automobile and breach of the peace and was fined $400 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail. The jail sentence was suspended until the November term of the court, and in the meantime Penfield was placed in the custody of the probation officer.

Penfield had been previously found guilty in the lower court, where he had been fined $400 and sentenced to 150 days in jail. He had appealed, contending that his health was such that jail confinement would be injurious to him.

HAS DETECTIVE ARRESTED.

Mrs. Dreyfus, Former Actress, Missing Witness in Batonyi Suit.

Mrs. Dreyfus, who wore several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds, boarded a northbound Eighteenth Street car, and a moment later a man ran from the sidewalk and jumped aboard. Policeman Trott of the Union Station Squad was a passenger, and Mrs. Dreyfus asked him to arrest the man.

Duff was taken to the Central Station, and Mrs. Dreyfus made a complaint against him. She said employes of the Marquette Hotel could identify Duff as a man who followed her there several days ago. She is stopping at the Terminal Hotel.

Mrs. Dreyfus, who formerly played with Anna Held, says her father owns half the town of Newport, Ark.

Mrs. Dreyfus is one of the witnesses sought for in Mrs. Burke-Roche-Batonyi's divorce suit against her husband, Aurel Batonyi. Several postponements have been granted because she did not appear.

STUDENTS' PLEA WINS.

Get Cornell Faculty to Reconsider Plan Abolishing Spring Vacation.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 25.—On motion of President Schurman, the Board of Trustees of Cornell University voted to-day to send back to the Faculty for further consideration the proposed changes in the university calendar which the Faculty adopted and submitted for the Trustees' ratification.

A petition signed by 2,000 undergraduates, protesting against the elimination of the Spring vacation, was read. President Schurman said that, owing to the good feeling existing between the students, Faculty, and Trustees, the question should be further considered by the Faculty. This is regarded as a victory for the students and athletics.

NEW DRY GOODS GIANT A MERGER OF ALLIES

Present Claflin Interests Alone Acquired by the United Dry Goods Companies.

EMPLOYES SHARE PROFITS

Morgan & Co. Finance It—Three-fifths of Capital Held in Reserve for Future Extensions, but None Now.

More details regarding the newly incorporated $51,000,000 United Dry Goods Companies became known yesterday, from which it appeared that the Claflin interests have no intention of extending their operations for the present at any rate. Only a part of the authorized capital is to be issued immediately, and this will be devoted to the consolidation of the finances of the concerns of which John Claflin of the H. B. Claflin Company has been for some time in control. He will be the President of the new corporation. J. P. Morgan & Co. will finance it.

Trading in the preferred shares of the new company will begin on the Curb today. Temporary receipts for shares deliverable when issued are to be traded in, and it is expected that they will be ready on June 1. Permanent share certificates are to be issued as soon as they can be engraved. The company will then apply for listing of its stock on the Stock Exchange and has also arranged to have its securities listed in Amsterdam.

J. P. Morgan & Co. have purchased and will soon offer for public subscription a large block of preferred stock of the new company. This preferred stock has preference both as to assets and dividends. For the present, of the proposed capital of $51,000,000, all that will be issued will be $10,000,000 of preferred and $10,000,000 of common stock. Some of this will be used to purchase $8,650,000 of the $17,250,000 capital stock, which the Associated Merchants' Company has outstanding, and which is divided into first and second preferred and common.

No extensions of the Claflin interests are announced at present. The new company will take over the H. B. Claflin Company's wholesale business, James McCreery & Co., with its two stores in Twenty-third and Thirty-fourth Streets; the O'Neill-Adams Company, and four-fifths of the common stock of C. G. Gunther's Sons of Fifth Avenue of this city, and Stewart & Co. of Baltimore and J. N. Adams & Co. of Buffalo. In addition it will acquire outright Hahne & Co. of Newark, the Powers Mercantile Company of Minneapolis, the W. Hengerer Company of Buffalo, and the Stewart Dry Goods Company of Louisville.

The additional stock will be available to acquire more stores if that is considered desirable, and for other purposes, including the retirement of the balance of the outstanding stock of the Associated Merchants' Company.

The new company is being formed on an actual cash basis, no allowance being made in its capitalization for good will. The assets at the outset will consist of stocks in other companies selling for more in the open market than the price at which they are included in the new combination, of cash and of goods and real estate, the stocks of goods being valued on the basis of the appraised value of current market rates, less 30 per cent. deduction.

In the purchase of Hahne & Co. is included the entire capital stock of the Hahne Realty Company, subject to a mortgage of $1,250,000. This, it is declared, is the only indebtedness incurred by the new company, as each store included in the combine contributes enough cash to balance any claims outstanding against it.

The Directors have authority to issue the remaining $81,000,000 stock under the following conditions: Twenty-five million dollars common stock may be sold for cash at not less than par or exchanged for similar stock of the Associated Merchants' Company; of the $6,000,000 preferred stock, which is not to be issued immediately, $5,000,000 may be sold for cash at not less than 120; the other $1,000,000 is reserved for sale to employes of the company at not less than par under such conditions as may be laid down by the Directors. This stock may also be exchanged against the preferred stock of the Associated Merchants' Company if the Directors think it advisable.

For the issue of bonds, the consent of holders of three-fourths of the outstanding common and preferred stock will be necessary. The organizers say that the income of the stores owned by the company is sufficient to pay the dividend of the $11,000,000 common stock of the new company, and that the return on the Associated Merchants' Company stock will more than meet the 7 per cent. due on the new preferred stock.

The profit-sharing plan is considered one of the most interesting features of the new organization. While no announcement of the details in this matter has been made, it is considered likely that the profit-sharing scheme will be operated under conditions similar to those followed in the United States Steel Corporation.

Mr. Claflin sent this advertisement to THE TIMES last night:

New York, May 25, 1909.

To THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE ASSOCIATED MERCHANTS' CO.

I have conveyed to the United Dry Goods Companies my entire holdings of all classes of the capital stock of The Associated Merchants' Company, and I have taken in exchange therefor, share for share, common stock of the United Dry Goods Companies.

Every holder of the stock of any class of The Associated Merchants' Company has the privilege until Aug. 1, 1909, of exchanging his stock for the common stock of the United Dry Goods Companies, as I have exchanged mine, share for share.

In a few days printed forms of contract for exchange will be furnished on application at the United Dry Goods Companies' office, Hudson Trust Company Building, Hoboken, N. J., or at the office of The H. B. Claflin Company, corner Church and Worth Sts., New York.

JOHN CLAFLIN.

If you are looking for a used or second-hand car consult the offers in THE NEW YORK TIMES next Sunday.—Adv.

INTERBORO AMENDS ITS SUBWAY PLANS

To Bid Soon on Modified Version of Its Proposed Lexington and Seventh Avenue Extensions.

HAS TAKEN LEGAL ADVICE

And Is Believed to Have Learned It Can Build Under Travis-Robinson Act.

Officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company are at work upon modifications of the plans filed some time ago with the Public Service Commission for extensions of the existing Subway from the Grand Central Station north up Lexington Avenue into the Bronx, and from Times Square south under Seventh Avenue and streets below Washington Square to the Battery. It is understood that the Interborough's amended plans, accompanied by a bid for construction under the new amendments to the Rapid Transit act, will be presented to the Board of Estimate and to the Public Service Commission late next month, before the Board of Estimate adjourns for the Summer.

While no official announcement was forthcoming, the news that the Interborough was engaged in amending its plans was taken as indicating that the four lawyers to whom President Shonts referred the question whether the company could build under the Travis-Robinson act have decided favorably on that point. Such a decision would mean that the Interborough has accepted the indeterminate franchise feature of the new law.

No details as to the Interborough's plans further than those contained in the previous offer to build the two extensions asked for could be had yesterday. It was assumed, however, that the modified proposal as to route would not differ largely from the original one, as the proposed Broadway-Lexington Avenue line as laid out by the Public Service Commission introduced competition between Grand Central and the Battery.

There was a report down town yesterday that the Interborough's new proposal would include a line of Brooklyn subway, thus being a tri-borough proposition. It was learned, however, that the only plans of the management relating to such an extension are those accompanying a petition to the Board of Estimate a year ago in which permission was sought to run elevated tracks over the new Manhattan Bridge, connecting on the Brooklyn side with a subway running into the existing Brooklyn subway at Fulton Street, and at the Manhattan end of the bridge with an elevated structure winding around through the lower east side and joining the Third Avenue elevated structure at Canal Street and the Bowery.

The advantages of this connection from an Interborough standpoint would be that it would create no new competition between Borough Hall or Atlantic Avenue in Brooklyn, and the financial district of Manhattan, for as the proposed new elevated structure was designed to run into the Third Avenue elevated at Canal Street that connection would be too roundabout to admit of any flow of traffic from Brooklyn over the new bridge around by Canal Street and thence into the down-town district of Manhattan.

Action taken yesterday by the Public Service Commission regarding the proposed Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway will facilitate the Interborough's plans, should the commission decide to grant that company an extension up Lexington Avenue. The commission decided to abandon the idea of a four-track subway on a single level, on account of the width of Lexington Avenue, and to plan for a double-decked subway from Houston Street to the Harlem River, which, according to the commission's engineers, would bring the whole thing inside the street lines and save about $10,000,000 which must otherwise be spent in the acquisition of real estate.

The Public Service Commission asked the consent of the Board of Estimate yesterday to the making of this change in the plans already filed. The Interborough, whose previous proposal was for a two-track subway up Lexington Avenue, suggested that if the traffic justified the construction of additional tracks for local service they could be built on the double-deck principle.

In Time for June Wedding Gifts

$5 just about represents the duty paid to the United States Government on these very pieces.

These are the medium-sized pieces from that $27,000 purchase we told you of, when we sold the largest pieces for $10 each, a few weeks ago. The illustrations show four of about forty different styles.

It is a wonderfully decorative ware, made in Austria. The contour is after the Greek and Roman vessels in common use before the Christian era. The clays and potters' work are the best and the most modern.

The last time we sold a part of this purchase our China Department was crowded to the doors before 9 o'clock, and the largest pieces were entirely gone before noon. A hint to the wise, etc. We will have to decline C. O. D. and telephone orders, and we cannot take these back or credit them.

VOGEL BROTHERS, 42d St. at 8th Ave.

WHY are so many young men coming to this store from the farthest parts of the city?

Because—they find here new and snappy suits that are distinctive—radically different from the ordinary ready-for-wear kind. And the prices—$16.50 and $18.00—are exceptionally reasonable.

The general lines of these suits show the broad-chested effect—the long, deep lapel—the narrow sleeves—the moderate shoulders—and the semi-peg trousers with cuff bottoms.

EX-EMPLOYE GIVES UP EXPRESS CO. SECRETS

Important Affidavit Said to Have Been Obtained—An Appeal to the Commerce Commission.

MONOPOLY IS ALLEGED

Minnesota Senator and Others Join in the Fight—Excessive Rates Alleged —Dudley Suit Withdrawn.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission has been called upon to take a hand in the fight against the management of the United States Express Company and has been appealed to also to restrain that company as well as the American and Adams Express Companies from continuing what is termed a violation of the Inter-State Commerce act of 1887. The commission has been asked also to compel all three companies to open their books for inspection.

This latest action became known yesterday when Louis H. Newkirk, counsel for John L. Dudley, appeared in the Supreme Court and announced that the receivership action begun by Mr. Dudley had been temporarily withdrawn, pending the filing of additional papers in the case. Mr. Newkirk said that new facts had come to light which necessitated a temporary halt in the case. He said that an affidavit had been obtained from a former employe of the United States Express Company touching on the inside management, which has an important bearing on the matter. Just what the new allegations are he refused to say, but revelations of express company secrets are looked for. The new complaint by Mr. Dudley asking for an order compelling the United States Express Company officials to throw open their books for the inspection of Mr. Dudley's accountants will be filed in a few days. News of the appeal to the Inter-State Commerce Commission came through a letter and copy of a complaint received yesterday by Mr. Newkirk from James Manahan, a lawyer in Minneapolis, representing State Senator B. E. Sundberg of Kennedy, Minn. The letter stated that Mr. Manahan had learned of the receivership proceedings begun in this city and said that he would like to co-operate with Mr. Dudley's lawyers if it was agreeable to them. He said that he would be in Washington on June 1, when they could get together on the joint attack on the management of the United States Express Company. Mr. Newkirk will meet Mr. Manahan in Washington, and it is likely that Mr. Dudley and Senator Sundberg will proceed along the same lines.

The copy of the complaint in the Sundberg case accuses the three big express companies of operating on a rate agreement and of charging exorbitant rates on the express matter handled by them; also of violating the inter-State commerce law in many respects and of controlling legislation.

Express Monopoly Is Charged.

"The companies work together without competition and monopolize the express business," says the complaint to the Inter-State Commerce Commission. "The dominating power held by the defendants in their business enables them to establish rules and fix the rates which they enforce for the transportation of property by express. They make and enforce these rules arbitrarily and exact unreasonable returns to the great and irreparable injury of the complainant and the public generally."

The complaint goes on to say that no real competition exists between the three companies, and that rates are made with mutual understanding and agreement, without competition and in violation of law.

"These rates are all arbitrarily made and oppressively enforced," the complaint says, "without regard to the cost of the service rendered or the value of equipment and investment. The defendants own and use in their express business a comparatively small amount of property and equipment. The American Express Company and the defendants doing business under that name own and use in their express business as assets a sum not exceeding $2,000,000 in value."

It is asserted that the Adams Express Company uses in its business assets of $1,500,000 and the United States Express Company $1,000,000. The complaint says that the legitimate expenses in the operation of their business are comparatively small.

"The defendants under the rates now enforced," says the complaint, "earn annually, over and above all legitimate operating expenses, more than 100 per cent. on the actual investment in the business and present value of the property used." It alleges that rates complained of have been in force for many years, in spite of the fact that the volume of traffic has increased, business has expanded, and net profits of the express companies have increased. The complaint declares:

The defendants under these unfair rates have grown so rich and powerful that they have dared compete openly with the United States Government in the matter of carrying mailable merchandise over post roads. Different States have not been able to regulate or control them in the transaction of their inter-State business. They have systematically and successfully controlled legislation and regulation to a degree in the past that has enabled them to maintain generally their unreasonable rates and hold such firm control and monopoly of the express business as to become a menace to the transportation interests of the country and a heavy burden to the producers of its wealth.

Excessive Express Charges Alleged.

A schedule of rates is embodied in the complaint, showing prices charged on express packages between many of the Eastern and Middle Western cities. The assertion is made that the rates given are all the way from 25 to 75 per cent. too high. The Inter-State Commerce Commission is asked to grant an order commanding the defendants to desist from violation of the Inter-State act of 1887. In addition to the three express companies named as defendants there are the Directors and officials of each company. Those named are:

American Express Company—James F. Fargo, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Francis T. Flagg, Charles C. Clark, William G. Fowelson, William H. Seward, Edward B. Judson, Henry M. Whitney, and Livingston Fargo.

Adams Express Company—Basil W. Rowe, William M. Barrett, Dumont Clarke, Charles Steele, Levi C. Weir, George F. Baker, William Dameel, and Horatio H. Gates.

United States Express Company—C. H. Crosby, James C. Fargo, E. T. Platt, T. C. Platt, Francis Lynde Stetson, and Levi C. Weir.

Senator Sundberg is a merchant and farmer, and is said to be a large shipper through the express companies. It is likely that, if the Inter-State Commerce Commission decides to grant a hearing in the case, it will be held in Washington in the near future.

YANKEE FUEL BOND CASH.

Lincoln Says That of $1,404,000 Realized Company Got Only $350,000.

The continued examination of Arthur W. Lincoln, the young man employed at $52,000 a year to manage the affairs of the bankrupt bond firm of E. D. Shepard & Co., before United States Commissioner Alexander yesterday, brought out the admission from the witness that in one or more cases the firm borrowed on bonds of enterprises it promoted at higher prices than they were worth. In the case of the Yankee Fuel Company, Lincoln's testimony was that while $1,404,000 was realized on the sale of the company's bonds Yankee Fuel got less than $350,000 of the proceeds. The balance, Lincoln said, went to pay "pressing obligations."

This was in line with the disclosure that came out after the failure—that the proceeds of various bonds sold by Shepard & Co. were put in a common pot out of which the expenses of the various promotions in which the firm was interested were met. The other witness yesterday was E. D. Shepard, who rehearsed the facts already known as to the conditions under which Lincoln was employed, and said that he personally knew little about the firm's affairs during the period in which the $52,000 a year manager was in charge.

After the close of Lincoln's testimony Henry A. Ensign, whom Lincoln had accused of various extravagances in the management of properties in the Southwest, took the stand and denied all these statements.

GLIMM & SON BANKRUPT.

Washington Street Commission Merchants File a Petition.

Christian F. Glimm and Christian F. Glimm, Jr., composing the firm of Glimm & Son, commission dealers in eggs and poultry, of 315 Washington Street, filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday in the United States District Court. The liabilities are $5,894, with assets, $815.

Among the creditors are C. M. Sladkus & Bro., $1,671; B. W. Rowe & Co., $1,004, and V. Lopez & Co., $850. The business was started in 1875 by Christian F. Glimm, and his son became a partner in 1900. In September, 1904, Christian F. Glimm and his brother John became involved in a settlement of the estate of their father, who died in 1888, leaving, it is said, an estate valued at $350,000.

An accounting was asked for by Mrs. Margaret C. Weinholz, their sister, who accused her brothers of withholding from her $88,037, being part of her share of her father's estate. The matter was subsequently adjusted.

Gray on Car Men's Arbitration Board.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 25.—Judge George Gray has accepted an invitation to become the fifth member of the Board of Arbitration, which will endeavor to adjust the differences between the Scranton (Penn.) Street Railway Company and its employes. The hearings will commence on June 7 in the Federal courtroom at Scranton. The main dispute is over an increase of wages.

Angler's Dinner on the Trout He Caught

Dr. J. H. Wheelright of Baltimore returned to this city yesterday from a week's fishing trip on the Rangeley Lakes, Maine. He made a catch of more than fifty trout, weighing from 2 to 12 pounds each, and celebrated his return by giving a dinner in the Rose Room at the Waldorf last night to a party of friends. The principal dish was a lake trout weighing ten pounds, which Dr. Wheelright brought back for the purpose.

THE NINETEEN CHOOSE SCHWAB AS LEADER

And Now Will Go Ahead Nominating the 100 Who Will Fight for Good City Government.

ALL ARE UNITED SO FAR

So Says E. H. Gary After the First Conference—Six Hundred Names to Pick the Leaguers From.

First steps were taken last night toward nominating the Committee of One Hundred which, under a resolution adopted at the Cooper Union conference two weeks ago, is to campaign for the election of a business Mayor and other city officers.

The Nominating Committee of Nineteen met at 82 Beaver Street, the headquarters of the movement, and organized by electing Gustav H. Schwab, local manager of the North German Lloyd Line, Chairman, and Winfred T. Denison Secretary. The selection of a Treasurer was left with Mr. Schwab.

The Committee of Nineteen, which was appointed last week by Robert C. Ogden, Chairman of the Cooper Union conference, will have completed its task when the Committee of One Hundred has been nominated, a declaration of principles drafted, and both have been ratified by a mass meeting which will be called for some early date in June.

All the nineteen members of the Nominating Committee, with the exception of ex-Mayor Charles H. A. Schieren of Brooklyn and Charles S. Brown, a Manhattan real estate man, attended the meeting last night, which was of about two hours' duration. Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Executive Board of the United States Steel Corporation, was one of the early arrivals. He took an active part in the proceedings.

He said that apparently there was practical unanimity among those who gathered for the meeting in regard to the necessity of united action to meet the conditions which have brought about the present high tax rate. This sentiment was echoed by several of the labor men who attended the meeting as well as men representing other elements in the reform movement.

Robert C. Ogden called the meeting to order and explained that on account of the condition of his health he would be compelled to leave the city to-day to remain away until October, and that for this reason he would not be able to take an active part in the movement. He consented, however, to have his name go on the list of members of the committee to be created.

There were submitted to Mr. Schwab after his election as Chairman a list containing some six or seven hundred names that had been suggested by the public for membership on the Committee of One Hundred. He will appoint sub-committees to go over this list and select nominees for the committee, but it was said that there is nothing to prevent the nomination of citizens not on the list, so further suggestions will be welcomed at reform headquarters in Beaver Street.

Several sub-committees will be appointed. The intentions are to appoint one which will consider the availability of business men, real estate men, and lawyers whose names have been submitted, and another to go over the list of names representing the labor movement.

A committee will be appointed also to draft a resolution embodying the declaration of principles of the new movement.

It is probable that these sub-committees will be named to-day and that another meeting of the Committee of Nineteen will be held within a week.

BROOKLYN MAN A SUICIDE.

Turned on the Gas in a Boston Hotel—Registered as G. A. Baker.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 25.—With a tube connected with the gas jet, which was turned on full, in his mouth a man, who had registered as G. A. Baker, Brooklyn, N. Y., was found dead in a room at the Central Hotel, at 23 Green Street, about 5 A. M. to-day. The police say he committed suicide.

Baker came to the hotel last Wednesday, and told the clerk that he was a traveling salesman, and was waiting for an order. Outside of complaining that he was troubled with rheumatism, he seemed to be in good spirits.

Sewed to the inside of his coat was the name of George A. Bayton. The clothes were made by a Brooklyn tailor, and were comparatively new.

A kiss, a hug, and Baby slips off his mother's lap into a bowl of clean, warm water.

There he finds two wonderful thing—a Sponge and a cake of Ivory Soap.

Mother squeezes the sponge and water runs all over baby's arms, his legs and his little pink toes.

Then she takes the soap, does something with it—and baby is covered with a soft, creamy substance that takes all the dirt away and makes his skin as smooth as satin.

Baby squirms and splutters and splashes. But he enjoys it. So does his mother. So does everybody else.

There is nothing in all this world that is cleaner or sweeter than a clean baby; and there is no better way to keep a baby clean than by the regular use of Ivory Soap.

Ill-Fitting Silk Gloves

There's no pleasure in gloves that don't fit, as you know. Yet they cost just as much as the Kaysers.

Gloves that don't fit are usually gloves that don't wear—gloves that lack finish, too.

They are inexperienced makes.

The way to avoid them is to look in the hem. See that your gloves are marked "Kayser."

Then you get the gloves which, for 25 years, have been the standard silk gloves of the world.

A guarantee in every pair.

SEEK NO MONOPOLY IN BUILDING CODE

Hollow Tile Men Deny That They Have Any Such Object in View.

ASK ONLY A FAIR SHOW

They Assert That the Concrete Manufacturers Will Have an Equal Chance.

The manufacturers of hollow tile fireproofing have no intention of allowing the statements of those interested in concrete construction with reference to the proposed Building Code to go unchallenged. The views of the latter were contained in the minority report of the Building Code Revision Commission, which asserted that the regulations laid down by the majority with reference to fireproofing cut the concrete manufacturers practically out of the business and conferred a virtual monopoly on a single hollow tile manufacturing concern.

All these statements were traversed yesterday at a meeting of the Fireproofing Manufacturers' Association at the Building Exchange, 30 West Thirty-third Street, and preparations were made to defend the majority report of the commission before the committee of Aldermen. As proof that there is no one firm which enjoys a monopoly of this special manufacture it was pointed out that these firms were represented at the meeting—the Anness & Potter Fire Clay Company, the Raritan River Clay Company, Henry Maurer & Son, the Pennsylvania Fireproofing Company, the City Fireproofing Company, the National Fireproofing Company, C. W. Boynton, Inc.; the Great Eastern Clay Manufacturing Company, O. W. Ketchum, and the Brinkman Fireproofing Company.

Henry A. Maurer, President of the association, made this statement as to the purposes of the gathering:

"We came together to see that the fireproofing provisions of the proposed Building Code give fair treatment to our product, hollow tile. Fair treatment is all we ask for.

"The minority report of the commission pretends to oppose a monopoly and has suggested a code which if adopted would practically create a monopoly for the concrete industry. Yet I am sure that experts would agree that there is nothing in the report of the majority which does not do full justice to the concrete interests."

Mr. Maurer went on to point out that hollow tile fireproofing is the oldest and best system of fireproofing ever tried, and that the proposed code makes additional requirements, which make it still more satisfactory than it has been in the past. Thus both the minimum depth of the tile floors and the thickness of the webs are increased; and the requirements with regard to girder coverings and column coverings also are strengthened.

On the other hand he contended that the minority's code was designed to favor concrete at the expense of other materials. "For example," said Mr. Maurer, "no provision is suggested for imbedding the reinforced bars in the concrete. If this is allowed to pass there would be nothing to prevent these bars remaining on the undersurface of the arches, where they would be exposed to the direct action of a fire. The National Board of Fire Underwriters in their model code have paid attention to this point, and have required the imbedding of the metal reinforcing bars in the concrete at least one inch below the surface.

"Then there is another glaring defect in the minority's code. It lays down that metal lath ceiling, when covered with one inch of plaster, shall be considered the equivalent of one inch of fireproof protection for the steel floor beams. This is an inexcusable concession to unsafe construction."

Mr. Maurer argued that there is nothing in the code of the majority which would put good concrete construction at a disadvantage. It only seeks to safeguard concrete construction as well as tile construction by imposing restrictions, which he is convinced experienced builders must recognize as well considered.

PROTESTS THIRD AVE. SALE.

Receiver Whitridge Says Action on Franchise Tax Would Be Futile.

Receiver Whitridge of the Third Avenue Railroad sent letters yesterday to Controller Metz and to Corporation Counsel Pendleton protesting against the proposed sale of the properties of the Third Avenue Railroad on June 5 for non-payment of special franchise taxes.

Mr. Whitridge rehearses his negotiations with the city authorities, in the course of which he offered to settle the unpaid special franchise taxes for the lump sum of $1,000,000, the representative of the Corporation Counsel estimating the amount at $1,250,000. Just now the negotiation is tied up pending the decision of the Court of Appeals on the Jamaica Water Company case, and Mr. Whitridge thinks it both improper and futile to attempt to hold the tax sale with things in this condition. He says to Mr. Pendleton:

"I think it unreasonable and unjust that the sale of the property should be had under the notice advertised by the Controller. I imagine that such a sale would be futile, but it would be confusing and might create a cloud on the title of this property and would be a wholly unnecessary expense."

Bust of Darwin on Exhibition.

The bronze bust of Darwin, by William Couper, the sculptor, which is to be presented to Christ College, Cambridge, England, by the American delegates to the Darwin Centennial, which event will be celebrated in Cambridge on June 22 to 24, was placed on exhibition yesterday at Gorham & Co.'s Fifth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street. The bust weighs about 300 pounds and is made of United States standard bronze. Dr. H. C. Bumpus, Curator of the American Museum of Natural History, is Chairman of the commission that is to present the bust to the British university.

Army's Sole Colored Chaplain Home.

Major W. T. Anderson, the only colored Chaplain in the United States Army, arrived yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. from Manila via Europe. He has been in the Philippines for five years, attached to the Tenth United States Cavalry, which was stationed the greater part of the time at Fort McKinley. He has been ill with malaria and will spend some months in this country to recuperate.

No Action on Organist Hall Petition.

The Trustees and Chapter of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine did not act yesterday on the petition for the retention of Organist Hall of the Cathedral, because there was no quorum at Bishop Greer's house. The Trustees have asked for Mr. Hall's resignation. They are not likely to meet again until Fall.

ALDERMEN ADOPT TAXIMETER MEASURE

New Ordinance Creates an Inspector and Fifteen Assistants to Pass on Public Vehicles.

SEVERE PENALTIES IMPOSED

Anti-Noise Ordinance Defeated—Resolution Passed Favoring a City Ice Plant—$220,000 for the Bronx.

An ordinance providing for the regulation and inspection of all taximeters used on public vehicles in the city was adopted by the Aldermen yesterday.

The ordinance creates an Inspector of Taximeters and fifteen assistants to be added to the Bureau of Licenses. They will have charge of the examination of all the taximeters in use in the city. Severe penalties are provided for tampering with the machines after the Inspectors have passed upon and sealed them.

The rate section of the ordinance which provided for an initial charge by taxicabs of 40 cents for the first mile and waiting time at the rate of $1 an hour was killed in committee.

The New York Civil Service Association sent a communication to the Aldermen asking that some action be taken to grant vacations with pay to per diem municipal employes. The matter was referred to the Committee on Salaries and Offices. A bill passed by the Legislature failed because the Mayor's approval did not reach the Governor in time. More than 10,000 men are affected by the bill.

The anti-noise ordinance was again defeated and sent back to the Law Committee. Alderman Brown, the Republican leader, declared that its passage would do away with automobile horns and whistles, and that, therefore, it ought not to pass.

The sum of $6,133.34 was voted to Police Commissioner Bingham to pay for the rental of a temporary station house for the Second Precinct.

A request of Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards for $8,500 for new automobiles for his department was denied.

The sum of $220,000 to supplement the budget appropriation for the Borough of the Bronx was voted after several roll calls. In the voting a representative of the Bureau of Municipal Research who was lobbying against the resolution was ejected from the Chamber by the Sergeant at Arms, but came back and was allowed to stay after explaining that he had had the privilege for three years.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Board of Estimate to provide for the establishment and equipment of a municipal ice plant, the product to be sold at cost.

WON'T ALTER BROADWAY LINE.

Utilities Board Declines to Order Track Reduction in Times Square.

Commissioner Maltbie of the Public Service Commission set aside yesterday the complaint of William C. Muschenheim, proprietor of the Hotel Astor, the theatrical firm of Wagenhals & Kemper, and other business interests around Times Square, against the surface lines whose tracks run through the junction of Broadway and Seventh Avenue at Forty-fifth Street. The petitioners wanted a rearrangement of the tracks which would permit the handling of all traffic past Forty-fifth Street on two sets of rails.

Commissioner Maltbie dismissed the complaint on two grounds. First, that the inter-relation of the companies running cars over the tracks at the point in question and their prospective reorganization, makes it inadvisable to do anything that would further complicate matters; second, that the stories of accidents and hairbreadth escapes told by some of the witnesses, were not borne out by the observations of the commission's inspectors, who had watched traffic at the point about which the complaint was made.

STORMY DAYS AFLOAT.

Captains of Incoming Craft Report Gales and Heavy Seas.

Capt. Davies of the British freight steamship Manx Isles, which arrived here yesterday from Sagua with a cargo of sugar, reported that he experienced a heavy gale off Cape Hatteras on May 22, blowing from north to west, which lasted twenty-four hours. At 8 P. M. on May 24, off the Five Fathom bank a carrier pigeon flew on board in an exhausted condition, with a tag marked "T. I. H. P., No. 46,166," around its neck.

The Captain of the German steamship Desteric, which also arrived yesterday from the south, reported that in latitude 37 degrees 25 minutes north and longitude 73 degrees 35 minutes west he passed a small vessel apparently a schooner, which was floating bottom up.

Capt. Tanning of the Cuban steamship Manzanillo, in port yesterday from Tampico, Mexico, reported that the gale was so violent on Saturday night that the vessel would not keep her head to the seas, and, being on a lee shore, facing a tremendous sea, he was obliged to bear away to the south and run before the gale for several hours.

More Time to Install Car Fenders.

The receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway received yesterday an extension of the time allowed them by the Public Service Commission in which they are to equip their cars with fenders or wheel guards of approved design. The time originally set was Aug. 15. Now it has been made July 15 for 500 closed cars and Oct. 15 for all cars. The receivers desired the extension so that they might complete comparative tests of different types of wheel guards and fenders. The tests are now in progress.

$25,000 Judgment Against C. W. Morse.

Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker, had another judgment entered against him yesterday, when after trial Supreme Court Justice Dowling directed a jury to return a verdict for $25,303.05 against him in favor of Bayard L. Peck, as assignee of the brokerage firm of Whitney & Kitchen. Although Mr. Morse entered a defense to the action, he was not present during the trial. The judgment represents a balance due on stock transactions.

The White Sister

most brilliant of story tellers

"Mr. F. MARION CRAWFORD'S brilliant gift as a story teller can never be denied," says a well-known critic, and there is not, nor will be, a dissenting voice. He has held his readers for a quarter of a century because he knows how to make one feel the thrill of the deep passions of a Latin race half a world away. He knows the art of making his people real and of making them folk one would go far to meet. There may be other folk in fiction as real to us as those we meet upon the street, but the Saracinescas are friends, and the dilemma of Capt. Giovanni is as much a personal interest as if he were a neighbor. It is told with a simple directness, full of vitality and charm, the solution is natural and satisfying.

ACTIVITY AMONG THE TRUSTS.

The activity among the trusts challenges the attention of everybody. A $51,000,000 dry goods enterprise, and a $30,000,000 loan by a leading packer "for the needs of the business," are considerable items for a single day's news, but they are mere appetizers to reports built upon them. The packers, several of them, are said to be going into the leather business, to tan the hides of their own "take-off." They buy cattle for their meat, and the hide is a by-product, which makes them formidable competitors of those who must buy the hides which they tan. The leather companies, according to one report, are considering protecting their business by going into the packing business, buying cattle for their hides, and making the meat something of a by-product. In the iron trade there is a similar development. The boilermakers are diverting their purchases from the trust during the season of an open market, and the trust is rumored to be considering working up its own boiler plate. There is even talk of the packers working up their tanned hides into shoes, and the Steel Trust can easily be imagined as making other goods than boilers to work up material of slow sale.

The only thing which is not said is that the trusts are embarrassed by any laws, State or Federal. There is a curious contrast between the course which business takes and the concurrent denunciations of the methods which they follow. It was only the other day that Senator BAILEY was immoderate in his denunciation of the Steel Trust, a day or two before that Senator PAYNTER denounced the Tobacco Trust. Yet such utterances are not merely neglected by the trusts—they fall upon deaf ears among the people, and the Administration is quoted as lukewarm about the prosecutions which it inherited. What is the explanation of this turn of affairs?

May not the answer be found in the perception that even the biggest trusts are not exempt from competition? That is the suggestion of our London dispatch regarding the dry goods trust, and it is equally true of trusts of a different sort. No trust is so big, or its monopoly so complete, that it is exempt from the struggle for existence, or able to impose its will upon even its own particular line of trade. It has to fight for its customers, it is under a constant compulsion more completely to integrate its operations, carrying its processes ever further backward to the raw material, and forward to the product.

This recrudescence of the activities of the captains of organized capital presents something like a crisis. To scatter the new and old trusts would mean a business crisis in comparison with which 1907 was a zephyr. To permit the old ones to consolidate themselves, and new ones to be born, is to make the law a farce. There is less sacredness in every statute if any statute is flouted. Enforcement is disaster. Neglect is promotion of bad citizenship.

PATERNAL PROTECTION.

Does Gov. HUGHES really suppose that the children of the private school which happens to be within 200 feet of the New Theatre need the protection of his veto of the bill to permit the issue of a license for the sale of beer and other drinks in that edifice? The proprietors and managers of the school had no objection to the issue of the license. They feel that the children would be safe. The Governor evidently assumes that they are mistaken. He, in his office at Albany, 150 miles away, knows better than they the perils their youthful charges would incur if drinks were sold in the New Theatre.

The law makes provision, he says, "for a free area about our schoolhouses." An area free from what? From saloons with big brass signs, with beer kegs on the sidewalk, and with a continual stream of customers entering and issuing forth all day long—that schools, public or private, should be surrounded by an area free from such establishments everybody would admit. The bar of the New Theatre was to have been maintained almost exclusively for the convenience of the theatre's patrons. During school hours it would have been practically without any customers; it would have been used chiefly during the hours when schools were closed. The Governor's mind, filled with his theories of "protection," appears to have been open to no argument of that kind.

For some years a new hotel of the first class tried to do business in this city without a license, which was withheld because the hotel was within 200 feet of a church. Bills to permit the issue of the license were vetoed, one by Gov. HIGGINS, the other by Gov. HUGHES. They permitted the management of the hotel to go to ruin and bankruptcy by their refusal to sanction the measure of relief granted by the Legislature. The New Theatre will not suffer in anything like that degree, but the Governor's veto will be a cause of loss and inconvenience with no corresponding service to the interests of public health and morals.

There are many thousand persons up the State who covet and would be glad to exercise the power to determine what shall be permitted and what forbidden in this city. All our Governors in recent years have been very wide awake, indeed, to the fact that these persons have votes.

WEATHER SIGNALING FROM SHIPS.

"We don't know what is happening out in the Atlantic," is the valid reason given by Mr. E. H. EMERY, the local weather forecaster, for inaccurate predictions on the seaboard. The international conference of meteorologists, to be held in London on June 21, will consider means of flashing transatlantic signals of the state of the weather and of approaching storms by means of wireless apparatus on ships. This is quite practicable, as was demonstrated last August on board the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria by Dr. PETER POLIS, head of the meteorological observatory at Aachen, Germany. For half the voyage the Kaiserin was kept in direct wireless communication with the Weather Bureau at Washington, which exchanged with Dr. POLIS—and he with other ships—a daily record of the weather, with accounts of Atlantic storms and the direction in which disturbances were moving.

The chief obstacle to this work, as explained by Chief MOORE of the Federal Weather Bureau in The Washington Star of Monday, is not one of communication, which is easy, but in effecting an international agreement as to the taking of marine weather observations. There is no marine storm signal understood by all nations. The English, French, German, and American meteorologists have their different methods of noting the weather fluctuations. They must adopt a common method.

Since the collision between the Republic and the Florida many passenger-carrying Atlantic steamers have been newly equipped with radio-telegraphic instruments. At that time 110 foreign steamships and 135 American ocean-going passenger vessels were thus equipped. These are enough. Storms need but little longer be vaguely reported as "passing off to sea," or "raging off the coast." Their course may be tracked; ships may be warned, both on shore and at sea, and the more frequent and deadlier collisions with the elements, as well as with each other, will be forestalled. Then wrecks and founderings at sea will not be considered "acts of GOD," but of man's improvidence.

MR. FOWLER ON THE TARIFF.

An examination of a speech made by Congressman FOWLER of New Jersey on the subject of a Tariff Commission shows that his views on reciprocal trade were not very happily caught by the reporters at the Manufacturers' dinner, and that they do not differ substantially from those expressed in the criticism of him in THE TIMES. The spirit of Mr. FOWLER is aptly expressed in his phrase, "tariff changes by evolution and not by revolution." It may be noted that the plan of a commission is not a new one in his mind, since he proposed it a dozen years ago in connection with the Dingley bill. The need of such a plan has many times multiplied within that period, crowded as it has been with changes that have immensely increased the complexity of the operation of the tariff as well as extended them.

Mr. FOWLER justly describes our method of dealing with the tariff as "haphazard, catch-as-catch-can, go-as-you-please, hurry-up-and-get-through-with-it," and utterly inadequate to the aims contemplated, or which ought to be contemplated. Here is a single striking illustration:

> About one year ago the press of the country demanded the removal of the duty on wood pulp. So persistent was the demand that a committee was appointed, consisting of six members of the House, to investigate the subject of wood pulp. In pursuance of their duty, I am informed by one of the committee that they have actually spent at least four full months and taken about 4,000 pages of testimony, and yet they have not completed the investigation as it ought to be made, since they are compelled to report during the present session of Congress.
> Conundrum: If it has taken four months to partially investigate one single item in one single schedule, how long would it take to thoroughly investigate all the items in all the schedules?

Now, it so happens that the paper business is a fair, and not an extreme, instance of the operation of a number of the changes that have taken place, in connection with combinations of capital, concentration of control, and the attainment of a measurable monopoly. It ought to be subject to the principle which Mr. FOWLER defines and which will not be seriously disputed:

> That every legalized monopoly derives its authority and power from the people, and is, therefore, subject to control and regulation by the people for the protection of the people against the abuses of monopoly.

Yet in this case, by no means one of the worst or most extreme, the special labors of the House, directed in the most efficient manner practicable at the present time, for more than a year, have been utterly futile. What can be expected from the labors of the two houses in connection with a tariff covering some four thousand articles, the greater part of which are as completely a mystery to the average Congressman as the workings of the integral calculus? Just what is now going on in Washington, a hopeless wrangle between particular interests, with but the slightest possible consideration by a minority of the large interests of the whole country.

MR. TAFT'S NEW TRUST.

There is something very characteristic, and, in our judgment, significant and encouraging, in the assumption by Mr. TAFT of the new trust that has come to him from Hampton Institute. It throws light on his views of the race difficulty and of his National policy regarding the whole question of the negro. And if it be characteristic of a certain directness, simplicity, and breadth in the man, that is a fact of which the Nation may well take note.

The aim and spirit of Hampton are perfectly well known. They are not only very plainly defined in the official utterances of those in charge, but in the record of its efforts and accomplishment for many years. The aim is to help the youth, colored and Indian, who are brought under its training and influence to help themselves and their race by making them as efficient as possible in all the walks of life. Its spirit is that of "hope, faith, and charity"; of buoyant hope for a future humanly speaking of the darkest; of faith in the ultimate triumph of humanity in its slow struggle toward right living; of invincible charity—the charity which is "the greatest of these" and which in reality is love—for all human beings, whatever their race, their creed, or their condition. Hampton tries, and with extraordinary intelligence, devotion, and success, to turn out workers, young men and women instructed and drilled in useful industry and in the conditions of usefulness, honesty, diligence, studiousness, enterprise, thrift, and, above all, in their sense of obligation toward the community of which they are a part. It is not too much to say that there is no other institution for instruction and training of the young in the United States that has done more in its field to advance the intelligence and efficiency of the American people through the beneficent influence of its labors than Hampton. If we credit it, as it has a right to be credited, with the origination and inspiration of the patient and fruitful work of Tuskegee, it may in all moderation be said that no institution has done as much.

Mr. TAFT, in reply to the notification of his election as a member of the Board of Trustees of Hampton, writes:

> I consider it an honor to be one of them, and shall be very glad to contribute what little I can to the continued success of the school.

That is straightforward. There is no qualification or timidity in it. At first blush one might say that the President of the United States should hesitate in connecting himself in a responsible manner with an institution for the training chiefly of one of the races that make up the population of the country, and that the one toward which a serious and deep-rooted prejudice exists on the part of the other race in the section in which the former is most numerous. But it is to be remembered that Hampton is, by the very nature of its aim and spirit, a potent and permanent agency for dealing with that prejudice in the most humane and effective fashion. It is recognized in the South that where the negroes are the most industrious, are self-supporting, moral, self-respecting, and respectful of the rights of others, there is least likelihood of trouble between them and the whites. The influence of Hampton is distinctly and effectually directed to making good citizens, not only of its own graduates, but of the race to which these belong, with whom they live, and whom in a proper measure they will, in their turn, influence. That is a task to which the President may well contribute.

"LLOYD-GEORGISM."

It is a curious coincidence that it should have fallen to the lot of a British Chancellor of the Exchequer of the name of GEORGE to try to apply to the fiscal system of the United Kingdom some of the favorite notions which our fellow-countryman, HENRY GEORGE, advocated with such zeal and eloquence twenty years ago. The chief of these notions is the taxation of the "unearned increment," a title borrowed from STUART MILL, but covering a far more extended and drastic policy than MILL ever contemplated.

Indeed, it is highly probable that, had MILL lived to follow the developments of modern business, industry, and agriculture, he would have corrected the views he held when land was so largely the possession of a privileged class. Of one thing we may be sure, that he would have seen the hopeless incongruity between the attempt to tax land more than, and differently from, other property and the professed wish of the radicals to win Englishmen "back to the land." Also he would have been prompt to apply to the taxation of land holders the principle he so strenuously advocated in regard to the value of improvements by land tenants, namely, that they are distinct from the value attached to the land itself. Mr. LLOYD-GEORGE'S scheme makes no adequate distinction in this regard. The value of the improvements, which may easily be a large part of the selling value of the land, is to be reckoned as a part of the taxable unearned value. Again, Mr. MILL would surely have seen, when it came to a question of taxation, that the expectation of continued rise in price is an important element in the present selling price of land, and that if that expectation is to be taxed it will not be realized, or in a much less degree.

There is another matter as to which we may be sure that both MILL and HENRY GEORGE would have called Mr. LLOYD-GEORGE to account with severity. That is the inevitable drift toward taxes on imports which the Chancellor's policy involves. He is using up in his various schemes the taxable resources of the country in such fashion that the appeal for tariff taxes will be practically irresistible. It will come with the next elections, and there is very little doubt in England that it will be successful. That prospect is enough to make HENRY GEORGE turn in his grave, for if there was one thing he utterly hated and despised beyond all others, it was the organized plunder of the many for the profit of the few, which is called protection.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Are the actual sanitary, climatic, and social conditions in the City of Panama such as to make it advisable for a New York young woman to engage as school teacher down there?

New York, May 24, 1909. R. K.

The total mixed population of the Panama Zone, numbering 129,332, had up to April 12, 1909, a yearly death rate of 17.05 per thousand, which is about the death rate of this city. There is little sickness. Including women and children, the 8,398 American citizens on the Isthmus show a death rate from disease of 2.86 a thousand. That speaks well for the work of Chief Sanitary Officer GORGAS. The sanitary régime in the zone more than neutralizes the effects of the climate—at least during brief periods of residence. Panama City is well policed. A young woman school teacher who is minded to go there would not find the social conditions unpleasant.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Betrayal of a Dark Secret.

For those of us who are not financiers, high or other, but mere consumers with a mild desire to know what we're buying and to get what we pay for, about the most interesting feature of the news that the Glucose Trust purposes to undertake the manufacture and sale of confectionery is the incidental revelation that much or most, if not all, of the candy we have been eating under the illusion that it was made of sugar is largely concocted out of "converted" corn, a much cheaper substance, at once less sweet and less appetizing.

We do not remember ever to have seen an advertisement of a candymaker, whether of high or low degree, that said anything about the use of glucose by him as the basis of his wares, but much has been said about "purity," and this was naïvely assumed by a credulous public to mean that the lauded bonbons were made of real sugar. Now it appears that all the confectioners are large purchasers of glucose, and the question arises, "What do they do with it?" The answer will come to anybody who whistles for it melodiously enough.

Ah, well, the revelation is not such a terrible one, for glucose, too, is "real sugar," and though there has been from time to time a good deal of discussion among the doctors as to its healthfulness, it is pretty generally agreed nowadays, we believe, that if anybody likes the taste and price of glucose its consumption will not hurt him—provided it has been made with great care and in the best way. In other words, glucose is all right, probably, if there doesn't happen to have been left in it any considerable quantity of the various and strenuous chemicals used in the transformation of corn starch into near-sugar. Hydrochloric acid plays a large part in the mutation, sodium carbonate has an important rôle in the drama, and a dozen other druggy and disquieting substances make their appearance at one point or another as the action develops. That the result is usually safe enough is shown by the fact that we're not all dead, but it is also a fact that glucose has always been viewed a little askance by a timid public, and that its habit, in consequence, has been to travel most of the time under some other name. Now, for a moment, it is wearing its own, and people would do well to take a good look at it, so that they may know it next time.

Race Prejudices Mixed with Economics.

There seems to have been something more to the strike on the Georgia Railroad than a disinclination on the part of the white firemen to have negroes in like positions. That has been endured for a long time on many of the Southern railways, and nobody minded it very much or made any effective efforts to abolish this particular division of labor. But recently the wages of the white firemen—who had been getting 50 cents a day more than the black men doing the same work—were reduced from 50 per cent. of an engineer's pay to about 47 per cent. of it, and naturally they didn't like that.

To assist in getting back the missing fraction, they summoned the Vice President of their union from Toronto, and he, after viewing the situation and consulting with the officers of the road, told the firemen that their only hope of a restoration lay in a strike in which the race issue was made prominent. The advice, whether wise or not, was shrewd, for its utilization aroused the keen sympathy of the people living along the line, and they proceeded to make against the negro firemen the vigorous manifestations of dislike which have resulted in bringing the operations of the road to a complete standstill and threaten to extend the trouble widely through the South.

The quarrel as it stands is an extremely complex one, and the towns where the inhabitants have maltreated the negro firemen are appealing with amusing vehemence for somebody to do something at once to save them from the inconveniences in the shape of short food supplies and suspended mail facilities which they have brought upon themselves by making the running of trains impossible. A more serious element of the case is its oblique refutation of the claim so often made, that while the South denied social and political equality to the negro, it did not, like the North, restrict his opportunities for making a living.

The present movement is certainly a restriction of the most pronounced sort, as there is no charge, apparently, that the negro firemen are not competent. That they work more cheaply than white men seems to be their only offense. One would almost think that they should get more than the white firemen, since promotion to places as engineers is not for them. The reasons for this discrimination are easily imaginable, but perhaps they will pass away in the course of time.

No Hope in That Direction.

We have not ourselves that touching confidence in the possibility of making a whisky which will exhilarate without intoxicating that was shown by a correspondent whose letter we printed yesterday.

Exhilaration, when produced by alcohol, is, as we understand it, merely the first stage of intoxication, and any whisky which will produce the one must necessarily possess the potentiality of producing the other. Whisky that was made non-intoxicating would not be whisky at all, whatever its likeness in taste and color to the real "stuff," and its popularity as a substitute would not be large.

Temperance is not to be advanced by any such childish trickery as the Western expert is said to have performed. He is probably a humorist, and his announcements should be taken as jests—by those easily enough amused to find them funny.

18,000,000,000 FERTILE ACRES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A statement has been published suggesting that 700,000,000 acres of swampy, marshy, and arid land could be reclaimed and made to yield immense crops. What is the use to trouble ourselves about that as yet, when we seem not to know what to do with the fertile land we already have?

The earth's fertile region is 28,269,200 square miles. Every square mile contains 640 acres. Multiply the number of square miles by 640 and we have 18,092,288,000 acres. One acre is more than sufficient for the support of one person—which statement cannot be refuted, because my grandfather supported himself and my grandmother, and besides brought up eight children, all from the products of one acre. This was in Sweden, with its short Summers.

Those 18,092,288,000 acres, therefore, ought to support at least that many human beings instead of a comparative handful of 1,520,000,000, which is the number of the earth's inhabitants now. If the average lifetime of man is thirty-three years, as the statisticians have it, it means that in one hundred years 54,276,864,000 and in a thousand years 542,768,640,000 loving human forms divine—and, also, so many precious eternal souls—could have a chance to develop on this planet.

What it would mean for the wealth of the earth can easily be figured out, when we know that less than 82,000,000 people, in spite of all their mismanagement, increased the wealth of the United States by more than $27,000,000,000 in seven years. At that rate the "could be" population of the earth, or about 18,000,000,000, should be able to add to the wealth of the earth about $84,000,000,000,000 in a hundred years. H. ANDERSON.

INTUITIONS OF WOMAN.

Thinks It Would Prove of Value in Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I concede all the arguments in favor of equal suffrage for woman and dismiss as untenable all propositions to the contrary. The chief reason for my faith is, however, a selfish one. As a man my cry to woman is "Come over and help us." The human mind operates along lines of logic or reason and intuition or impulse. Man and woman both possess these faculties, but in the masculine mind logic or reason predominates, while in the feminine mind intuition or impulse holds sway. Most of the mistakes of mankind are due to the fact that in the affairs of life this difference has little or no scientific recognition. It is customary for man to disparage a woman's "Because," but it is just as often right as a man's "Q. E. D." What is needed is that "they twain shall become one." The true marriage is a union not of bodies but of minds. The husband who fails to avail himself of the intuitions or impulses of his wife throws away one-half of his resources. J. R. W.

The Example of the Adventists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There are in Greater New York about one thousand Seventh Day Adventists, composed of English-speaking, German, Italian, Bohemian, Scandinavian, and colored churches. Every Saturday, which as all know is the busiest day of the week, with the hum of business on every hand, the Seventh Day Adventists assemble in their churches to worship on what they hold to be the Sabbath Day. They are prospering and constantly increasing in numbers without any State laws or police power to enforce observance of their Sabbath, nor would they accept such assistance from the State if it were offered, as being contrary to the Bible. Now, if these observers of the seventh day are satisfied to do this, why cannot the observers of the first day of the week be willing to get along without the assistance of the police to enforce the keeping of their day?

A Question of Religious Ethics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With respect to the incident reported from Chicago of a priest having fired on robbers who attempted to break into a church, it is also mentioned that another priest was holding one of the burglars with a clutch at his throat, and a Bishop hurried to the aid of his assistants.

I am curious to know what business a Christian priest has with a revolver, and does he need one to defend himself? How is the idea of a Christian priest carrying a deadly weapon with him to be reconciled with his religion? Is really a silver plate, a silver dish, or such, dearer to a priest than a man's life or a man's soul, which he could perhaps convert and save?

Central Park Storage of Tennis Nets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Both as a taxpayer and as a user of the Central Park tennis courts I beg leave to protest against the abominable manner in which nets are stored there. Any person is allowed to enter the tennis house and is at liberty to walk out with any net that suits his fancy. As a result nets, bags, racquets, balls, &c., disappear in the most wonderful manner. It is true there is a man in charge of the house, but it is impossible for him to identify all nets. The best remedy is to install a check system similar to that now in use at Prospect Park.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why do you not advocate the acquisition by the city of Inwood Hill, situated on the extreme north end of Manhattan Island, as a permanent memorial of the Hudson-Fulton celebration? There is probably not one person in ten thousand in New York City that knows the natural beauties of this hill. Central, Van Cortlandt, or Bronx Park is not to be compared with it.

TWANGING SPEECH.

That Remedied, Americans Would Enunciate Better Than the British.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We Americans are a funny lot. We sneakingly admire the broad "a" of English usage, and even wink at its cultivation in our school children, but through some revolutionary impatience of British rules, or fear of the reproach of affectation, most of us persist in twanging away—patriotically, maybe—at a homely style of speech that might be forgiven in a farmer but is inexcusable in the enlightenment of worldly knowledge and cultivation.

And at the same time we have just cause to know that with our clear, deliberate mode of speaking we could lead the universe in the rendering of our mother tongue. An illustration of what can be done by an American was to be found in James Russell Lowell, who spoke the best English in the best way I have ever heard. Some might aver that he gained his "finish" at the Court of St. James's, but in the evenness of his diction there was the unmistakable ring of true Americanism.

We are inconsistent, too, in our disregard of the beautiful, for while we persist in "ant" for aunt most of us broaden the a in "rather" without a particle of traceable authority. We would not say "pam" for palm or "cam" for calm, as some Britons do, but we steadfastly adhere to "amond" for almond. We would not indulge in laughter, for it must "lafter" as we gather to make merry around the hearth, not "herth."

Of far more importance, in my humble estimation, is the advisability of improving the sound of our speech than of defiling the structure of the finest language of the world with the fad of "simplified spelling."

The Influence of Atheists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent "E. A. M.," in a letter criticising Christian Socialism, concludes with the words, "a movement that sprang from the brain of an atheist, that was nurtured by atheists, and is to-day atheistic the world over." Presumably "E. A. M." considers this sufficient condemnation of this or any movement. By the same process of reasoning—from a Christian standpoint—this should condemn all things that have their origin in the brain of an atheist.

All philanthropic acts, all kind deeds, all sympathy for humanity, and even those inventions that have helped the human race immeasurably, should, because of their atheistic origin, be also condemned, and "E. A. M." cannot consistently, according to his logic, avail himself of their beneficent results. The present writer would rather the world were made up of consistent atheists than of hypocritical Christians. The only sects of Christians that are at all consistent are the Quakers and the Salvation Army. For my part I think a community of men of the type of Robert Ingersoll or Thomas Paine might do, comparatively speaking, a good deal toward elevating and humanizing the race.

Motor Victims Who Die Unhelped.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In discussing automobile accidents a sharp distinction should be made between the automobilist or chauffeur who stops to help the victim and the wretch who puts on all speed and runs away, leaving the sufferer to die unhelped. The former should be judged according to all the circumstances of the case, which may either condemn or exonerate him. But the latter is, in any clear interpretation of our law, an intentional, if not deliberate, murderer, and no court is warranted in reducing his offense to the grade of mere manslaughter. It is murder in the second degree; and the safety of human life demands that the penalty be strictly enforced. Also, the male or female degenerates, who sit in the car of the murderer and urge him to flee, without rendering succor to the victim, are strictly his accomplices, and in the eye of the law principals in the murder. The law has a right to demand that they be punished as such in every instance.

JAMES F. MORTON, Jr.

New York, May 24, 1909.

The Penal Code defines murder in the second degree as the killing of a human being "with a design" to effect the death of the person killed, or of another, but without deliberate premeditation. An attempt has been made to bring the act described by Mr. Morton within the following Code definition of murder in the first degree: "An act imminently dangerous to others, and evincing a depraved mind, regardless of human life, although without a premeditated design to effect the death of any individual."—Editor THE TIMES.

Pack up my outfit, Mollie darling, in the suitcase once again!
Stow my sweater in the shawl strap with the bumbershoot and cane!
Stick my tennis shoes and nightie safely in the pocket flap,

And my blunt end pocket scissors—I may wish to clip some curls!
Stick the flask into a corner and put in my cigarettes,
But forget the bills, dear Mollie—I'm not carrying my debts!

Bundle up my fishing tackle, and my little Pop and gun,
And the broad-brimmed Colonel Cody, to protect me from the sun!
With my bathing suit and knickers and some heavy biking socks,
I'll be just the merry ticket to go roving o'er the rocks!

Drop a scarfpin in the bottom and a pair of cuffs as well,
Though I'm journeying, thank fortune, where I will not meet a swell!
It is "Cloud Top In The Mountains"—just a dandy spot, they claim,

FROM CLOUD TOP.

I am shipping back, dear Mollie, by Express this very day
All that bunch of Summer togging that I packed and brought away,
And I'm waiting, dearest sister, till from your swift pen I hear
That my biggest Saratoga is steadfastly drawing near.

Chase along my new Tuxedo and the spiked-tail coat as well!
For the style is something awful in this Cloud Top mountain dell!
Chuck in every tile and dicer and each stiff biled shirt I own,
For my dreams of knickerbockers and sombreros all have flown.

Send my Coat of Arms, dear Mollie, and the rings I left with you,
And that page about me, Mollie, that you cut from Who Is Who!
Or my chances here at Cloud Top will go sauntering up the spout!

I am in it, Mollie darling, in it plumb up to the neck,
And you know your brother's make-up—he is going to stay on deck!
But do hurry up, dear Mollie, chase my glad rags to me quick,

SHAM BATTLE FOR ARMY GARDEN PARTY

SEVENTH REGIMENT HELPED

Booths to Aid the Work of the Army Relief Society Well Patronized—Tent Drill to Music.

The annual garden party at Governors Island, given by the New York Branch of the Army Relief Society yesterday afternoon was the last public appearance of the Twelfth Regiment before its departure for the Philippines next month. It will be two years before it is seen again in this country. The regiment was warmly applauded by those who witnessed the drill.

Those in charge had done their best to hush the musketry fire in the sham battle for this year and the big cannons were not used by the attacking troops. Every year the wall-scaling exhibition is the star part of the feats performed at the garden party. This year old Fort Jay, near the Parade Ground, was the scene of action. Companies E, F, G, and H, clad in their brown field uniforms, and wearing the red-and-blue ribbon for previous active service in the Philippines, were the attacking troops, while a provisional force of about equal size was told off for the defense, up behind the big guns on top of the thirty-foot parapet of Fort Jay.

The attacking party appeared in a long line across the field, and, crawling on their stomachs, fired the first volley. At this the women guests, who had drawn quite near for the escorting of the colors and drill, beat a rapid retreat in the direction of the ice cream tent. Soon Companies E, F, G, and H brought ten small field guns into play, the big pieces from the fort replied, and the fight was really on. The defenders fought valiantly. Indeed, there is a suspicion that if the attacking force hadn't just had to win in order to provide the exhibition of wall scaling, not only half the attacking force would have been left "dead" on the field, but every last one of them would have bit the dust. As it was, the line of brown coats drew nearer and nearer the moat, and finally had won the ditch.

Then came the wall scaling, the first simply "walking" up thirty feet of perpendicular stone wall, the rest using ropes they lowered to them. According to etiquette, Capt. Reid of Company E had to be the last to go up. This is called going in the elevator, because the last man ties a loop in the last rope, puts his foot in it, and is hauled up. There is nothing small about Capt. Reid, particularly nothing slight about his weight. But etiquette is etiquette, so Capt. Reid put his foot in the noose and tried to look happy while eight lusty men struggled to get him up. The feat accomplished, the invaders fired a final volley, and the last defender of Fort Jay was slain, holding his post to the last.

There were other interesting points to the army man. The Seventh Regiment of the National Guard, under the command of Col. Appleton, came over from East Sixty-third Street, 750 strong, with 18 mounted officers, making more horses than were ever on Governors Island at once before. Then there was an "event" in the musical drill, quite new to the oldest inhabitants of the garden party. In this the men marched forward, unslung the blankets strapped across from waist to shoulder, and took from these the half-a-shelter tent which is part of each man's equipment. Then, still keeping time to the music, the soldiers put up the so-called "dog" or "puppy tents," which they use while "on the hike." These are just large enough for two, and when set up had blanket, cushion, tin plate, cup, knife and fork—in fact, all the soldier's field equipment neatly spread out.

There were not the only events of peace and war which took place on the green parade ground. Ever since certain clashes regarding the Presidency of the Daughters of the American Revolution it has been known that Mrs. Donald MacLean and Mrs. William Cummings Story have not been on the best of terms. Wheresoever Mrs. Story went, there most emphatically Mrs. Donald MacLean did not go. At least till yesterday afternoon, when both were guests of Gen. and Mrs. Leonard Wood, and though at different moments stood under the same reception tent.

There was a rumor which could not be verified that the two came over in the same boat.

The sale booths of the Army Relief Society were well attended throughout the afternoon. The tents were made of American flags, and the flower booth, which had a fountain playing in the centre, was particularly attractive. It was in charge of Mrs. Richard Byrne and the Misses Byrne, Beatrice Sterling, Justine Hibbard, Sally Garlington, Grace, Wade, Littell, Kimball, and Wood. Tea was served by a number of army women—Mrs. C. B. Smith, Mrs. F. C. Wickham, Mrs. F. T. Hines, Mrs. A. W. Kimball, Miss C. Patten, and Mrs. C. Rigney. A tent where ice cream and cool things were served was in charge of Mrs. I. W. Littell, Mrs. J. S. Mallory, Mrs. G. P. Scriven, Mrs. Allison, and Mrs. Albert Todd. Homemade cake, baked by the army women, was sold at a tent presided over by Mrs. L. S. McCormick. Mrs. B. U. Atkanson, Mrs. W. L. Simpson, Mrs. Chase Kennedy, and Mrs. Peter Murray assisted her. Ice cream was also served at Mrs. M. T. Harmon's tent, where Mrs. Adelbert Cronkhite and the Misses Emily Harris, Amy Albert, Dorothy Cronkhite, Gertrude Reagor, Edith Harmon, Margaret Harmon, and Betty Rogers served.

A luncheon was served by Mrs. Leonard Wood to the officers of the New York branch of the Relief Society, Mrs. Guy Howard, the President, and Mrs. Henry Bischoff, the Vice President. Mrs. Francis B. Jones, Mrs. Fabius Clark, Mrs. Francis Gibson, and Mrs. F. Jarvis Potter. Receiving during the afternoon with Gen. and Mrs. Wood were Mrs. Howard, Capt. Murdock of the Brooklyn Navy Yard and Mrs. Murdock, and Gen. and Mrs. Roe.

LEGAL AID SOCIETY'S NEEDS.

A Special Appeal Issued to Replace Opera Profits It Lost.

The lack of receipts from the annual entertainments at the Metropolitan Opera House has left the Legal Aid Society, which had counted on the average profit of previous years, in a sad plight. With the growth of the city its work grows. Applications for help had become so numerous that a new office had to be added this month to the headquarters of the society, 239 Broadway. Recently it has also been decided to organize a criminal branch and open offices in Lafayette Street, near the Tombs. The society expects to keep a salaried representative at each of the seven City Magistrates' Courts.

Contributions are asked by the society. They should be sent to Louis Windmüller, Treasurer, 20 Reade Street. Contributors may state if they want their donations applied to the general fund or if they prefer especially to assist the criminal branch.

GIRLS PLAY BALL, MAYOR UMPIRES

The Metzes and Whalens of the Washington Irving High School Struggle on the Diamond.

EVEN THE POLICE CHEER

Later the Girls Hold Chariot and Hurdle Races and Hear a Speech from the Mayor.

The Herman A. Metz Baseball Club made the John Whalen nine sit up and take notice on the Spuyten Duyvil meadows yesterday afternoon. The Whalens were doing some fine pitching and catching, and Mayor McClellan, with his hat pulled down over his eyes, was standing at one end of the diamond as umpire, looking as if he was in the business for life as he called in professional tones:

"Ball one!" "Ball two!" "Strike one!" "Foul!" No one kicked at the umpire's ruling.

It was an unusual ball game. There were no "Giants" in either nine, not one of the players was over 5 feet 5, for the Whalens and Metzes were Washington Irving High School girls in dark blue bloomers and white shirtwaists, and two basket ball teams waiting to play, the Robert L. Harrisons, wearing red neckties, and T. J. Higginses, in green ones, were all High School girls.

There were 2,100 girls all told up on the Spuyten Duyvil meadows yesterday having a "get-together party" to celebrate the appointment of the Playground Commission and have an all-around May Day party. The Mayor and Mrs. McClellan were their special guests of honor, with Controller Metz and any number of School Commissioners to cheer on the fun. The ball game was the winding-up feature of a half day's hard funmaking, with the Sergeant of Police of the Seventy-fourth Precinct and ten men to keep things in order. There was need of it, for the lines of girl spectators who watched the games overflowed the rope lines set to keep them in place and were put back in one place only to creep out in another.

"How are you getting along, John?" called one policeman to another when the excitement was at its height.

"It's not much fun," called back John. "I'd rather handle men any day than women," and the Washington Irving girls who heard chorused a long-drawn-out cry of disapproval:

"Oh-o-o-o-o-o-o!"

But that was not Policeman O'Brien, who was also at the ball game. O'Brien rooted for both sides with great impartiality and fervent cries of:

"Good! good! That's a fine one," and then, as the circle of girl spectators pressed in he turned to them with: "Oh! this will never do. Back to the woods! Back to the woods!" and he gently pushed them back again.

It took two special trains and a number of special cars to get all those girls out to 216th Street and Broadway, where the big Washington Irving Family met under a big stone arch leading through old family estates to the meadows where, through the courtesy of Mr. Whalen, they were allowed to hold their festival. It was entirely a girls' party, managed by the Grand Street branch of the school, Miss Alice Bloom in charge. It was one of the biggest processions of girls ever seen in that part of the city.

It was a gay procession. Only the very head of it was serious. This was Policeman Cummings, walking alone, ahead of the band, with almost a sad expression on his face, showing that he realized the responsibility of the occasion. Then came the band playing lively airs, and then girls and girls and girls. There were big and little girls, and light and dark girls. Then came the officers of the school, Commissioners Higgins, Partridge, and Barrett, and other invited guests allowed by courtesy to walk at the end of the procession, not to the music of the band, but to the laughter and chatter of many girls which drowned the music ahead.

There was no difficulty in keeping on the track of that party. Hans and Gretchen of the fairy tale and the breadcrumbs they scattered as a trail were not to be compared with the Washington Irving girls, and the various hair combs and ribbons that they dropped by the way in the excitement before they reached the festival grounds. This was a lovely stretch of grass land, a stream flowing at the foot of an incline; an old stone mill, which the girls used as a dressing room, and a background of fresh green-covered hills, against which the girls in their gay gowns looked like some new flowers just blossomed out.

The festivities began when Mayor and Mrs. McClellan drove up in their automobile. And such festive festivities! They included the chariot race, which was a whole show in itself—four girls abreast and a whip keeping them all in hand. There were five chariots, yellow, red, lavender, green, and pink, each chariot a long stick covered with one of the colors, four girls with their hands on it, and the driver, with the lines, running behind. Each four-horse chariot pranced around the ring wild. Then through the megaphone came the words: "Ready! Go!" and with great shrieks from the spectators red—Twelfth Street School—won by an arm and a half, and the Twelfth Street girls squealed with joy. The lavender and all its horses had a fall, but no one was trampled upon.

There were real hurdles 3½ feet high, over which more girls went like young deer while the crowds shouted again. There was even more excitement in the "Regents Race," where the girls picked up pink-tied diplomas from the ground, and the relay race with flags, because they were longer-drawn out. Each branch of the school cheered its own girls:

"Good! Good! Run! Run! Oh, May! Now she's lost it! No, she hasn't! We've won! Its Eighty-second Street again!" And when Gertrude Goldstein came around wearing a satin ribbon bearing the letters "W. I. H. S." and "Winner Badge," the girls drew a long breath of satisfaction as they cried:

The Mayor was not down for a speech, but when the girls at a call from one of their number voted that he get up and tell them all about the Playgrounds Commission, he did it. The Mayor said that it was not his idea, but Mr. Sullivan's, that he believed that it was a sad thing for people not to know how to play, that New Yorkers needed to learn that more than to work, and that the Playgrounds Commission he hoped would report in a few months.

Mr. Whalen told the girls that the Mayor was the friend of all school girls and boys. Controller Metz, in response to a vote to have a speech from him, made one, to say that he wouldn't, and the Chairman of the Building Committee of the Board of Education, Frank H. Wilsey, was presented with a picture of the W. I. H. S. girls breaking the sod for their new building, and also made a speech. A wireless message was sent to Chairman of the Playgrounds Commission McGowan, who has been interested in helping the High School girls get their new building. It was really a wireless message. It sounded like a big shout:

"Washington Irving girls send greeting," followed by a great cheer; and possibly Mr. McGowan in St. Louis heard it.

There were any number of other things—dances in pretty fancy costumes, a Maypole, a May Queen with a silver crown, and last, but not least, ice cream, and after 6 o'clock, when the girls were beginning to start for home, one of them voiced the sentiments of all when she exclaimed, in a voice in which joy and weariness were mixed:

"Gee, I'm tired!"

WOMEN GOLFERS AT NASSAU.

Miss Bishop Makes Best Score in Metropolitan Championship Play.

Miss Georgianna Bishop of the Brooklawn Golf Club, Bridgeport, Conn., and the present title holder of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, easily led the field of starters yesterday on the Nassau Club links in the qualifying round of the annual championship tournament.

Her card, 90 strokes, was an excellent score for the long course. Poor putting cost her an extra stroke on the fourth and ninth greens, which meant a 7 for each hole. Coming in, her driving and approaching improved materially, and 41 for the last nine holes is a score that most men would be proud of.

Miss Bishop, who has held the women's local title for the last two years, was practically in a class by herself, for the next best card was 96, Miss Elizabeth Hurry and Miss Julia R. Mix of the Englewood Club tieing at that figure for second honors. Mrs. L. W. Callan of Englewood, the runner-up last year, played in particularly hard luck and failed to get a place among the first eight eligible to continue at match play for the championship. There was a tie at 107 for the last place, and Mrs. Sanford won the eligible place, Mrs. Faith dropping into the second set.

Only fifteen cards were returned, the field being the smallest that has ever appeared for the women's metropolitan championship, and the members of the association discussed seriously the advisability of changing in future years the time for the tournament. Few of the women golfers have as yet had much practice, and this was one cause of the slim entry. The players, with scores, were:

Miss Georgianna Bishop, Brooklawn, 90; Miss Elizabeth Hurry, Englewood, 96; Miss Julia R. Mix, Englewood, 96; Mrs. M. D. Pateson, Englewood, 99; Mrs. T. H. Polhemus, Richmond County, 101; Mrs. D. R. Aldrich, Oyster Meadow, 104; Mrs. H. F. Whitney, Nassau, 105; Mrs. E. F. Sanford, Essex County, 107; Mrs. W. T. Faith, Scarsdale, 107; Mrs. Charles Tiffany, Nassau, 108; Mrs. L. W. Callan, Englewood, 110; Miss M. L. Harrison, Baltusrol, 110; Miss P. Schwarzelder, Baltusrol, 115; Mrs. M. H. Frayne, Dunwoodie, 116; Miss M. A. Irving, Richmond County, 126.

The pairings for the first match play round to-day for the championship are:

Miss Mix and Miss Hurry, Mrs. Sanford and Mrs. Whitney, Miss Bishop and Mrs. Polhemus, Mrs. Paterson and Mrs. Aldrich. The others will compete for a second trophy. A putting and approaching competition played after the qualifying round was won by Miss Bishop.

BORIE—BARNES.

Miss Sarah Palmer Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burr Barnes, of 11 West Forty-ninth Street, and Adolph E. Borie, son of Mrs. John J. Borie of Yonkers, were married at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Henry Sloan Coffin performed the ceremony in the drawing room, which was decorated with Spring flowers. The bride, who wore a gown of soft white satin with embroidered lace and a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms, was given in marriage by her father. Her only attendant was her small niece, Miss Josephine Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Jewell Dodge. Master William Brevoort Potts, the bride's nephew, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Potts, was page. A reception followed the ceremony.

Miss Locke's Bridal Luncheon.

Miss Enid Locke, whose marriage to Lowry Gillette will take place next Tuesday, gave a luncheon yesterday at Sherry's for the women who will attend her at her wedding. The table decorations were pink. Heart-shaped cakes for the guests contained a sixpence, a ring, and a button. The guests were Mrs. Campbell Locke, who will be the matron of honor, and the Misses Dorothy Schieffelin, Susan Ludlow Gould, Mary Sands, Rosalie Gardiner Jones Valerie Worthington, and Sara Cunningham.

John H. Caswell Sells Newport Site.

NEWPORT, May 25.—Sunset Farm, owned by John H. Caswell of New York and containing thirty-five acres, was sold to-day to Walter B. Andrews, brother of Paul A. Andrews, for $300,000. It adjoins Louis Bruguier's estate, near Tammany Hill on Malbone Road. It is believed Mr. Andrews will build a house on the site.

Social Notes.

The women's class of the Fencers' Club will give a reception this afternoon at 4:30 in the clubroom of the Windsor Arcade, Forty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue.

The wedding of Miss Helena Van Kortlandt Clarkson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Streatfield Clarkson, and Edward Crary Cammann will take place to-day in the Protestant Episcopal Church at Tivoli, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Barnes have closed their house, 10 East Seventy-ninth Street, and with their daughters, the Misses Charlotte and Cornelia Barnes, are at their country place, in Lenox, Mass., for the Summer.

The wedding of Miss Mary Astor Paul and Charles Munn will take place on June 21 at Woodmere, Miss Paul's home, at Radnor, Penn.

John Godfrey Saxe will give his bachelor dinner at the Manhattan Club on June 5. Mr. Saxe's marriage to Miss May A. Sands, daughter of Mrs. Ferdinand Sands, is to take place at the St. Regis on June 9.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Searle Barclay, Jr., who are at the Hotel Wolcott for a few days, have come to town preparatory to opening their new house. Mrs. S. D. Craig, who has been spending the Winter at the Wolcott, has opened Pen Craig at Quogue.

Mrs. Jonathan Lanman is at Lawrence, L. I., for the Summer.

A marriage license was issued at the City Clerk's office yesterday to Miss Nathalie Elizabeth Chauncey of 11 West Thirty-eighth Street and Seth Low Pierrepont of Ridgefield, Conn., Third Assistant Secretary of the American Embassy in Paris. Mr. Pierrepont is a nephew of Seth Low.

Work of University Settlement.

Interesting details of the work of the University Settlement are contained in its annual report. At the principal Settlement House in Eldridge Street, the bathing accommodations have just been increased so that last year's figures of over 100,000 bathers is expected to be doubled. Excellent work is being done by the corps of sick nurses, who visit the poor in their homes, and the children are provided with Summer holidays in the country and a roof playground while they are in town.

FOOD.

THINK HARD

It Pays to Think About Food.

The unthinking life some people lead often causes trouble and sickness, illustrated in the experience of a lady in Fond du Lac, Wis.

"About four years ago I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, always having eaten whatever I liked, not thinking of the digestible qualities. This indigestion caused palpitation of the heart so badly I could not walk up a flight of stairs without sitting down once or twice to regain breath and strength.

"I became alarmed and tried dieting, wore my clothes very loose, and many other remedies, but found no relief.

"Hearing of the virtues of Grape-Nuts and Postum, I commenced using them in place of my usual breakfast of coffee, cakes, or hot biscuit, and in one week's time I was relieved of sour stomach and other ills attending indigestion. In a month's time my heart was performing its functions naturally and I could climb stairs and hills and walk long distances.

"I gained ten pounds in this short time, and my skin became clear and I completely regained my health and strength. I continue to use Grape-Nuts and Postum, for I feel that I owe my good health entirely to their use. 'There's a Reason.'

"I like the delicious flavor of Grape-Nuts, and by making Postum according to directions, it tastes similar to mild high-grade coffee."

"The Canterbury Pilgrims" Is Produced on Barnard Campus.

An open-air performance of Percy Mackaye's "Canterbury Pilgrims" was given last evening on the Barnard College campus for the benefit of the College Settlement, 95 Rivington Street. Last October Mount Ivy, the Summer colony of the College Settlement, was burned, and the Barnard Chapter of the Settlements Association is joining in the attempt to raise money for the building fund.

"The Canterbury Pilgrims" is a quaint comedy, dealing with the characters in Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," and including the poet himself as the chief character. The play was considered several years ago by the Sothern-Marlowe combination for regular theatrical use, and was then rejected because the part of the Prioress intended for Miss Marlowe was inferior to that of the Wife of Bath, a rough comedy rôle. Mr. Mackaye's charming little play was certainly seen at its best in the arrangement for out-of-door permormance. The terrace in the rear of the Barnard College main building at 116th Street was used for the stage, all banked in with trees and shrubs forming the scenery, supposed to be the garden of the One Nine-Pin Inn, at the little hamlet of Bob-up-and-down. Below this the flat part of the campus was used for the audience, and, while footlights were abolished, calcium lights from the rear assured very pretty scenic effects throughout the four acts.

The play deals with the adventures of the travelers on their way to Canterbury. The Prioress is looking for her brother; Johanna is looking for her lover, the Squire; the Wife of Bath is looking for a sixth husband, and sets her mind on Chaucer. There is a wager, which, if the poet loses, he must promise to marry the Wife of Bath.

To gain her wager the Wife of Bath masquerades as the Prioress's brother, and when his son and Johanna, the Squire's sweetheart, appear, naturally complications arise. In the course of this the wife wins her bet, and she and Chaucer are betrothed. In the last act the poet appeals to the King, Richard II., and John of Gaunt, who obtains his release from the Wife of Bath, who bestows her hand on the miller, one of her numerous suitors.

BETTER FOREST PROTECTION.

Hughes Signs the Hamilton Bill—Vetoes Savings Bank Measure.

ALBANY, May 25.—With a view to adding further protection to the forests of the State from the ravages of fire, Gov. Hughes to-day signed the Hamilton bill amending the forest, fish and game law generally.

The bill authorizes the establishing of a more complete and systematic fire patrol; requires railroads running through the State's forest lands to establish a fire patrol at their own expense; makes penalties for starting forest fires more severe and authorizes the Governor, in case of drought or other emergency, to suspend the hunting season.

Gov. Hughes also signed the bill of Assemblyman Robinson which enacts into the consolidated general business law a section for the protection of trademarks on articles of merchandise.

The Francis bill permitting State moneys deposited in banks to be secured by municipal or corporate bonds which are legal investments for savings banks having in the aggregate a market value of at least 10 per cent. in excess of the amount of the deposit secured was vetoed by the Governor.

The present State finance law provides that State moneys shall be secured by a surety bond to the State.

No State prison can hereafter be located within the boundaries of any city, as Gov. Hughes to-day signed the bill of Senator Meade, which embodies that restriction.

The Governor signed also the bill amending the penal law, to provide that a child between 7 and 16 years who shall commit any act which if committed by an adult would be a crime not punishable by death or life imprisonment shall be deemed guilty of only juvenile delinquency.

WARM PRAISE FOR AUSTRALIA

Nothing Too Good to Say About the Country and Its People, She Declares.

Miss Margaret Anglin, the actress, returned yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. from her twelve months' trip around the world, including a five months' tour in Australia, in which she played the leading rôle in "The Great Divide." Miss Anglin said she had come back to America when many persons were going away because she found more real pleasure in spending her Summer in the mountains of this country than anywhere else. Asked for her impressions of Australia, she said:

"There is nothing quite good enough to say about that wonderful country and its people; their warm heartedness, their enthusiasm, and their appreciation. I enjoyed my visit in the antipodes immensely. It was all splendid, and if I had brought back half the gifts that were offered to me, I really think I should have been obliged to charter a whole ship. The only things that I was able to accept and bring away with me were a wallaby (that's a little kangaroo) and a rosella. Unfortunately the kangaroo died on the voyage between India and England, but the rosella is with me and in a flourishing state of health."

Asked about her plans, Miss Anglin said she would open her season in "The Awakening of Helena Richie," and had great hope of its success.

"It is only what I believe may be considered a praiseworthy prudence that tempted me to invest in some other plays during my stay abroad," she said. "Two of them are by American authors, and both are, I think, interesting. In one of them I do not propose to appear myself, but hope to have it produced with some one else in the leading rôle."

"I have also bought a wonderful play by a French author, and you may be interested to know that I have obtained an American play written by an English author of prominence. This latter should prove unique. The author has never visited America, yet he has depicted with unerring fidelity many of the National traits of this country in his play."

Miss Anglin was detained at the pier in Hoboken for some time through inadvertently making a wrong declaration coming up the bay, to the effect that she had $2,500 worth of imported goods in her trunks which were not specified in her list. After the Inspectors of the customs had made a thorough search, assisted by the Appraisers, they were convinced that it was a mistake and the actress was allowed to leave the pier with her baggage.

HARRIS BUYS ENGLISH PLAY.

Will Produce "The Noble Spaniard" with Edeson in Chief Role.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 25.—Henry B. Harris, through his representative here, has concluded negotiations for the American rights to "The Noble Spaniard," recently produced by Charles Hawtrey. The chief rôle will be played in America by Robert Edeson.

Shuberts Get a Pittsburg Theatre.

The Shuberts, it was said on Broadway last night, have obtained another Stair & Havlin theatre. This time it is the Bijou, in Pittsburg, a large theatre, which seats 3,700. Heretofore the Shuberts have booked in Pittsburg exclusively at the Belasco Theatre, but following the announcement that Belasco had joined the Klaw & Erlanger syndicate, the Shuberts made efforts to get a playhouse there of their own. The other Stair & Havlin theatre which the Shuberts recently obtained was in Detroit.

Percival Aylmer in Repertoire.

Percival Aylmer, the actor, and a carefully chosen company, it was announced last night, are to appear in a repertoire of plays in New York early next season, beginning with a play by Björnstjerne Björnson, the English version of which is to be made by Grace Isabel Colbron. Other plays are to be a new French drama adapted by Geoge Feiber, an English comedy by Gerald Villiers-Stuart, and a drama by Gerhart Hauptmann.

Miss Fletcher's Paris Debut.

PARIS, May 25.—Miss Nina Fletcher, a young violinist of Newton, Mass., gave her first concert here this evening, and met with great success. She was assisted by George S. Harris, an American tenor.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

One of the many new features at North Beach for the coming season will be a free display of fireworks every Thursday evening.

Among the artists engaged by Henry B. Harris to support Robert Edeson in W. Somerset Maugham's comedy, "The Noble Spaniard," which will have its American premiere early in September, is Gertrude Coghlan.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Pitou will sail on Saturday for Europe on the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria for a ten weeks' trip on the Continent.

To-morrow William W. Jefferson sails on the French liner Bretagne to join his wife, Christie McDonald, in Paris. Mr. Jefferson will return in August to begin rehearsals of "The Henriette," in which he and his brother Joseph will star next season.

Arrangements were made yesterday by which E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will play Wednesday matinees during their three weeks' engagement in Shakespearean repertoire at the Academy of Music.

The sale of seats for the tenth annual season of Hammerstein's Roof Garden will open at the box office of the Victoria Theatre this morning.

MEN AND JEWELRY GONE.

"Morry" Cohen and Charles Levine Accused by New York Jewelers.

New York jewelers have asked the police to help them find Morris Cohen, or "Morry" Cohen, and Charles Levine, who, it is charged, have obtained $2,500 worth of jewelry from several firms for the purpose of making repairs, and then, according to the police, absconded with the goods. They were in business at 537 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, under the firm name of Cohan & Levine, but disappeared from there recently.

Warrants have been sworn out charging them with grand larceny. P. W. Taylor of 466 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, is one of the victims. Cohen and Levine are each about 25, and Cohen has dark hair and thick lips. Levine has broad shoulders, is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 160 pounds and has dark hair. A reward is offered for their capture and conviction.

William Curtis Gulliver.

William Curtis Gulliver, of the law firm of Alexander & Green, who died at his home, 8 East Fifty-sixth Street, on Monday, in his 63d year, was born in Norwich, Conn., in 1847, and received his early education at Phillips Academy. He was graduated in 1870 from Yale University. Mr. Gulliver enrolled in the New York Law School in 1872, and at the same time entered the employ of Alexander & Green. Subsequently he became a member of that firm. On his mother's side he was descended from Gov. Bradford of Massachusetts, and on his father's side from Anthony Gulliver, who settled in Massachusetts in 1642. He was married in 1878 to Louisa, daughter of Judge Ashbel Green. He is survived by a widow and two children—a daughter, Louisa, who was married to Charles Sheldon on May 12, and a son, Ashbel G. Gulliver.

Mrs. Anna Cleveland Hastings.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 25.—Mrs. Anna Cleveland Hastings, widow of the Rev. Dr. E. P. Hastings and sister of Grover Cleveland, died at her home on Elm Street to-day aged 79 years. She is survived by one son, the Rev. R. C. Hastings, recently a missionary in Ceylon, and now a resident of Alabama, and three daughters, Miss M. L. Hastings of Hartford, Mrs. Wood of Northampton, Mass., and Mrs. R. A. Lawrence of Florence, Italy. The funeral will be held Wednesday from the family home here. Ex-President Cleveland last visited his sister here about three years ago. They were much attached to each other, and his death was a severe blow to her.

Beecher's Builder Drops Dead.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., May 25.—James Miller, a prominent building contractor, dropped dead under the famous big oak tree at the Peekskill Military Academy to-day. His death was due to heart disease. He had the contract for the new $80,000 school building here, and was superintending the work this morning. He built most of the large business buildings and residences here, including the Henry Ward Beecher mansion on Main Street. Mr. Miller was born here 67 years ago. He leaves a widow and three children.

Obituary Notes.

JULIUS FRIEDLANDER DEAD.

He and His Father Kept a Flower Shop in Times Square 40 Years Ago.

Julius Friedlander, a florist, whose store was in Times Square thirty years before the name Times Square was applied to it, died yesterday at the home of Walter Gantz, 124 West Fifth Street, Bayonne, N. J., of cancer of the stomach. He was 56 years old and leaves a widow, two married sons, three brothers, and a sister. The latter is Lottie Abeles, wife of Edward Abeles, the star in "Brewster's Millions," and herself a member of the company. Mr. Friedlander's mother is still living at the age of 86, in Norwalk, Conn.

Mr. Friedlander's father, the late Ludwig Friedlander, opened a florist's shop at Broadway and Forty-eighth Street in 1868, and it was never closed until illness forced the son to give up the business in the Fall of 1908. Mr. Friedlander was little more than a boy when his father's business was established. There was then a small structure with a fence around it on the site of the Times Building. There were many fine private estates in the vicinity. The owners of these places, long ago displaced by business blocks, were liberal patrons of the Friedlander flower store.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at Mr. Friedlander's residence. The burial will be in Bay View Cemetery, Jersey City.

MURRAY'S BAT DRIVES WINNING RUN HOME

BASES FULL, ROGER FANS

Cardinals' Manager Then Fusses with Umpire Johnstone—Raymond and Sallee in Tight Places.

Having hung up the game on the tremulously thin thread of one run yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds in the first inning, the Giants spent eight innings fighting the Cardinals away from that thread, trying all the time to strengthen it. They did not strengthen it, but they prevented Roger Bresnahan's men from doing damage to the advantage they had already got. Now that the trembling over the 1 to 0 game has passed, one can tell calmly about the eighth inning, when there came a hair-raising moment.

Charles, the first Cardinal up, drove the ball to Doyle, who fumbled it, and he was safe—our Doyle, whose error on Monday lost the Giants the game. Hulswitt singled cleanly to right, advancing Charles; Sallee went out, Raymond to Tenney, but Charles and Hulswitt each moved up a base on the put out. Raymond steadied himself and struck out Byrne. Raymond weakened a bit and allowed Shaw to take first on balls.

Three men on bases, two out, Bresnahan at the bat, the score 1 to 0! Any kind of a hit out of the infield would at least tie the score, and a sound hit would bring in two men. For the runners had little to lose on the run and were playing off the bases.

The 6,000 spectators were looking pretty hard at Raymond. "Paff!" sounded the ball in Schiel's mitt, and Johnstone called it a ball. In a moment Bresnahan had three balls and only one strike. The 6,000 were using all the Emmanuel thought movements they knew about on Raymond. Schiel was delaying the pitching as much as possible to steady "Bugs," by strolling out and tossing him the ball, by talking to him, by all means he know how.

"Paff!" and Bresnahan had thrown down the bat to run for first, making believe that he thought surely this was a fourth ball.

"Strike," yelled Umpire Johnstone.

Two strikes and three balls. Bresnahan swung at the next one, and it was a foul.

"Paff!" and once more Bresnahan started for first.

"Strike," yelled Johnstone.

Violent applause from some 6,000 spectators; extreme peevishness by Bresnahan, who indicated by all manner of pointing at the ground and by gestures and by harsh words that he thought Johnstone was blind and lunatic.

Yesterday's game was full of suspense and hairbreadth things. For example, the one run that was made was by Herzog, who took McCormick's place in left field. Even Herzog slid in by a mere fraction. If McCormick had been running at that point he couldn't have got near the plate. McGraw had replaced McCormick with Herzog because the former doesn't negotiate a left-handed pitcher with any success.

In the first inning Tenney went out, Hulswitt to Konetchy. Doyle, having been given first, was forced at second by Herzog's drive to Charles. Murray sent the ball down the third base line for a two-bagger, but reached third on Ellis's throw to the plate to head off Herzog. Herzog raced around from first and got in by a hair. Murray took third, but died there on the passing of O'Hara.

In the fifth the Giants came close to more runs. Schiel and Raymond singled, Tenney popped out, making the first out, and then the two runners advanced each a base on a passed ball. Hulswitt snatched up Doyle's grounder and caught Schiel at the plate. Then Herzog knocked an easy foul.

In the eighth, again, there was still another trying moment. With one out, Herzog took first on a fumble by Hulswitt, took second and third on a double by Murray, and was caught at the home plate on O'Hara's knocked down ball, which was fielded by Sallee to Bresnahan. Herzog said he hadn't been touched; Johnstone said otherwise.

Those trying moments were on the Giants' side; there were others on the Cardinals' side, in addition to the awful eighth. For instance in the fourth, with none out, both Shaw and Bresnahan singled. Konetchy went out at first, Doyle to Tenney. Shaw was on third. Doyle grabbed up Evans's grounder and caught Shaw at the plate.

Neither team was dangerous in the ninth inning.

From what has been written, one may suspect that Raymond had a great deal to do with yesterday's game. He did. He struck out nine men to Sallee's two. He got two hits out of three times at bat, and he fielded his position from beginning to end, and Murray, of course, was deeply implicated in the one run and several near-runs. The score:

The cheapest, poorest fabric can be cut in good style—so Style is the great argument of the cheap clothier.

Chicago Beats Brooklyn by a Run.

Brooklyn's defense was much strengthened yesterday by the reappearance of Manager Lumley in right field, and the substitution of Kustus for Catterson in centre field, but at that Chicago won by a score of 4 to 3.

Whether Pfeister would have been able to bring about the final result is a question; but that Manager Chance had grave doubts about it was shown when big Jeff Overall was substituted after the Brooklyns had tied the score. McIntyre pitched in excellent form until the sixth inning, only two safe hits being made off him up to that time. Then the champions put three singles together and, aided by a bad throw of Lumley to second, scored two runs. Two singles and a sacrifice added another in the seventh, and a base on balls and two safeties gave them the final run in the eighth.

Brooklyn's three runs were made in the seventh on a base on balls to Kustus, Lumley's two bagger, Tinker's muff of Bergen's fly, McIntyre's sacrifice, Burch's base on balls, and Hummel's scorching hit to left field.

Brooklyn yesterday released Tom Catterson to the Lawrence Club of the New England League. The score:

Athletics Bat in Thirteen Runs.

CLEVELAND, May 25.—Philadelphia defeated Cleveland to-day, 13 to 2, driving Falkenberg from the box in two innings and bunching hits off Rhoades in the fifth, eighth, and ninth innings. Barry's wild throw allowed Cleveland to score its two runs. Otherwise Bender would have scored a shout-out. Score:

MARY DAVIS BEATS SWIFT SPRINTERS

ANGERONA WINS A STAKE

From start to finish, the racing at Belmont Park yesterday was close and spirited, with fairly balanced fields competing on a fast track. The results furnished more than the average number of surprises, as only two of the public choices finished first, with the chief of the surprises in the race for the Claremont Handicap, six and a half furlongs down the straight, for three-year-olds and upward.

The champion sprinter, Jack Atkin, with his top weight of 135 pounds, was always the favorite, with Dreamer, the $40,000 De Mund, and Restigouche the others of the horses noted for speed that went to the post, while the three-year-old filly Mary Davis, ridden by J. Glass, started as the last outsider but one in the race. It was Jack Atkin's first race since his return from California, and the great horse was just a little slower than usual in leaving the post, while De Mund went off with a rush, followed by Restigouche and Mary Davis in the order named.

De Mund raced on in front, making the pace as warm as he could, but he was never able to shake off Mary Davis, and when in the last furlong De Mund began to tire, after having carried Mary Davis from the rail almost to the outside, Mary Davis moved to the front, and won rather easily by two lengths, while De Mund, stopping fast at the finish, lasted just long enough to get the place by a neck from Jack Atkin, which came on with a great rush at the end.

The seven furlongs selling was supposed to rest between Nimbus and Lawton Wiggins, but Berkeley, racing to the front early, led throughout and won handily, while Lawton Wiggins, after crossing over and jostling back Nimbus, coming to the far turn, was second, but was disqualified for the foul to Nimbus, which was placed second. The summaries:

SAYS SECURITIES CO. HAS CASH TO PAY

RECEIVERSHIP THE EXCUSE

Mr. Choate Thinks Mr. Cravath Is Not Proud of Disputed $15,000,000 Contract—Argument on Appeal.

Argument was heard yesterday in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on the appeal of the Metropolitan Securities Company from the judgment of the United States Circuit Court that it must pay $5,271,000 to the New-York City Railway as the balance due to the City Railway under the contracts made between the Metropolitan Street Railway, New York City Railway, Metropolitan Securities Company, and the Interborough-Metropolitan Company on May 22, 1907. Those contracts were devised with the object of raising from the Interborough-Metropolitan $15,000,000 cash to keep the surface roads out of receivers' hands for two years more.

Up to the time the receiverships came the New York City Railway had obtained from the Metropolitan Street Railway some $8,000,000 in notes, which were to provide payment for a part of the $15,000,000, and these it had turned over to the Metropolitan Securities Company, which in turn had received approximately a like amount of money from the Interborough-Metropolitan, the Interborough-Metropolitan, as the last link in the chain, borrowing it on its notes, secured by the Metropolitan Street Railway notes and other collateral. About two millions and a quarter had been paid over by the Securities Company, and upon the institution of receiverships the Securities Company repudiated its further obligation on the ground that the City Railway and the Metropolitan Street Railway were bankrupt.

The New York City Railway, which has been represented by Joseph H. Choate, Arthur H. Masten, and Robert C. Beattie, contended on the trial that the note transaction between the City Railway and the Securities Company amounted to a sale, and that the latter corporation must pay over the balance of the $8,000,000. This view of the case Judge Ward, in the lower court, sustained. Yesterday Mr. Beattie added to his previous statements the assertion that the Metropolitan Securities had in a bank at present the cash with which to pay the judgment and that it was simply trying to get out of that obligation in the prosecution of the appeal.

"The theory has been advanced here," continued Mr. Beattie, "that payment was not made because the surface companies were insolvent. It comes with ill grace from the other side, [looking at Mr. Cravath.] Why did those companies go into the hands of a receiver? Why didn't they get the cash to enable them to continue? Let them answer that if they will."

For the Metropolitan Securities, Paul D. Cravath and De Lancey Nicoll appeared and argued that the transaction was a loan pure and simple and that the receiverships absolved the Securities Company from any further obligation. Then Joseph H. Choate took a hand.

"It looks as though they were going to be hoist with their own petard," he said. "My own belief is that the Metropolitan Securities Company and its lawyers engineered the whole business until they repudiated their contract. The Securities Company, in my opinion, was privy to all these transactions between the New York City Railway and the Metropolitan Street Railway, and the argument of these gentlemen is disingenuous.

"I am not responsible for the contract, and I do not think that Mr. Cravath is very proud of its authorship. Nevertheless the terms are quite plain, as the court below held, and I think that this court will enforce them."

It was Mr. Choate who on the original argument of the case compared the transaction with the Chicago & Alton deal in which Mr. Harriman and his associates were alleged to have taken $24,000,000 out of the recapitalization of the Chicago & Alton Railroad. That reference created quite a passage at arms between Mr. Choate and Mr. Cravath, who was the chief attorney in both transactions.

LEHIGH VALLEY MUST REPLY.

Lehigh & New York Stockholders Win Point in a Suit for Accounting.

Supreme Court Justice Bischoff overruled yesterday a demurrer interposed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company to a suit brought by William A. Read & Co. and others against the Lehigh Valley Road and the Lehigh & New York Railroad Company, on behalf of the stockholders of the latter company, for an accounting.

The plaintiffs contend that an agreement was made on Aug. 24, 1895, by which the Lehigh Valley Road was to operate the Lehigh & New York Road and was to devote the net income from it to paying dividends up to 5 per cent. on the preferred stock, besides paying dividends on the common stock if the revenue was sufficient. The two roads parallel each other from Buffalo to Sayre, and the plaintiffs allege that the Lehigh Valley Company, instead of keeping its agreement, has diverted the traffic to its own system to the detriment of the stockholders of the Lehigh & New York Road.

The Lehigh & New York Company is controlled by the Lehigh Valley Company, and the plaintiffs ask for a full report of all dealings and transactions between the two companies since Aug. 23, 1895; that a proper account be taken of the net income, and, finally, for a receiver to be appointed of the assets and franchises of the Lehigh & New York Company, with power to enforce the provisions of the lease.

T. A. McINTYRE FORECLOSURE.

County Holding Company Sues to Recover on $101,500 Mortgage.

The County Holding Company of 128 Broadway has begun suit in the Supreme Court against Thomas A. McIntyre, his wife, Arthur R. Peck, as assignee of the firm of Thomas A. McIntyre & Co., stock brokers; the New York Trust Company, and others for the foreclosure of a mortgage of $101,500 held by them on property at Fortieth Street and Madison Avenue, which belonged to Thomas A. McIntyre, Sr., who died last July.

In 1906 Mr. McIntyre, Sr., got a loan of $101,500 from the County Holding Company, and as security gave them a mortgage on the property. The loan was to bear interest at 5 per cent. and mature on Oct. 16, 1909. A clause in the mortgage deed gave the plaintiff the option of calling in the principal and interest at any time. The County Holding Company subsequently transferred the mortgage to the New York Trust Company in consideration of a loan of $100,000.

Since Mr. McIntyre's death the County Holding Company has been anxious to call the mortgage in and effect a settlement. In the complaint filed yesterday the company allege that the New York Trust Company has failed to carry out its contract, and they ask the court to order the property sold and from the proceeds repay the New York Trust Company.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Irregular but Firmer Trade—Closes Unsettled 4 to 8 Points Up.

Cotton showed a generally firmer tone yesterday, and, while the close was barely steady, last prices were 4@8 points net higher. Rains in the Mississippi Valley and Oklahoma seemed to encourage new buying.

The market opened firm at an advance of 5@13 points in response to higher cables than due, and the weather map showed precipitation in eastern and central sections of the belt. Under prospects for a further reaction before the publication of the Government's crop report and prior to the country holidays, the market eased off several points, with July leading the decline. The new crop was relatively steady on wet weather reports, and later led a renewed advance on increased buying. All markets will be closed Saturday and Monday.

NICKEL CO.'S EARNINGS FALL.

International's Annual Report Shows Much Business Pending.

The annual report of the International Nickel Company for the year ended March 31 shows earnings from the constituent companies of $2,162,693, compared with $2,434,952 in the previous year. After payment of expenses, taxes, &c., the net income was $2,023,301, against $2,285,369 in 1908. The charges for depreciation, sinking fund, &c., increased from $960,627 to $1,017,807, leaving an operating surplus of $1,005,494. The payment of preferred dividends amounting to $534,733 left a surplus for the year of $470,761, against a surplus of $790,000 left in the previous year.

The report speaks of the increasing use of the company's Monel metal, which, it says, will be an important factor in future earnings. The American Sheet Steel Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, has taken up the product, the report says, and the Pennsylvania Railroad will use it to roof its new Seventh Avenue terminal.

NEW SOUTHERN STEEL BOARD.

Permanent Directorate Marks Completion of the Reorganization.

A permanent Directorate of the reorganized Southern Steel Company was elected yesterday, marking the practical completion of the reorganization plan promulgated in May, 1908. The new board eliminates a number of the old Directors, who went into the original company with some of the constituent concerns, and is composed of representatives of important financial interests, practical steel men and representative local men in Alabama. The personnel is as follows:

James T. Woodward, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Alexis W. Thompson, President Inland Steel Company; Kenneth K. McLaren, Franklin Q. Brown of Redmond & Co., R. B. Van Cortlandt of Kean, Van Cortlandt & Co., Walter T. Rosen of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., C. S. Boughton, W. P. G. Harding, President First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.; R. T. Wilson, Jr., W. W. Miller of Hornblower, Miller & Potter, W. H. Hassinger of Birmingham, Ala.; William B. Denton, Cecil A. Grenfell of London, England; T. S. Kyle, Vice President First National Bank, Gadsden, Ala., and D. G. Bolssevain of Kean, Van Cortlandt & Co.

W. H. Hassinger was elected President, James T. Woodward, Chairman of the Executive Committee; W. W. Miller, Vice President; A. R. Forsyth, Secretary and Treasurer, and D. G. Bolssevain, Secretary of the Executive Committee and Assistant Secretary and Treasurer of the company.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Completed Steel Window Sashes Are Refused Entry at Lower Rates of Duty.

The United States Circuit Court has declined to grant lower duty on complete steel window sashes imported by Edward M. Ackerson of New York. The sashes are fitted with steel sides, have gun metal stays, and gun metal handles or hinges, all fitted, fastened together.

The Government alleged that the sashes are dutiable as "manufactures of metal," under paragraph 193, and therefore dutiable at the rate of 45 per cent. On the other hand, the importer sets up the contention that the merchandise falls under the provision in the law for "shapes of iron or steel, punched and ready for use." According to this contention the articles would pay a customs tax of 5-10 of 1 cent per pound.

In affirming the decision of the Board of Appraisers and overruling the importer, Judge Platt says in part: "I think the merchandise imported, without the attachments has been too far advanced in manufacture to permit its inclusion within the provision of paragraph 125. The steel parts out of which the sashes have been manufactured might very well come within the description 'shapes of iron or steel, punched and fitted for use,' but after they have been assembled and united into the complete window sashes which we have before us, I think they should be treated as 'manufactured.'" The decision of the Board of General Appraisers is affirmed."

Judge Platt also handed down a decision in favor of the Simpson-Crawford Company regarding the classification of belts. It is held that the goods are not "manufactures of metal" on account of the presence of buckles, but fall properly under the provision in the law for "wearing apparel" at lower rates.

HARRIMAN TO MEET MORGAN.

He Will Go to Paris and Spend Some Time at a German Resort.

E. H. Harriman was at his office yesterday in attendance at meetings of the Harriman lines. Only routine matters were acted upon, it was said, in anticipation of the departure of Mr. Harriman for Europe on June 1. Mr. Harriman expects to stay abroad the entire Summer, and he is now engaged in clearing up such matters as need his attention before he goes.

Mr. Harriman plans to go to Paris, where it is likely that he will meet other American financiers now abroad, including J. P. Morgan and James Stillman. Later Mr. Harriman, it is understood, plans to spend some time at one of the German resorts.

DROP FERTILIZER MERGER.

The Organizers Failed to Meet Conditions Laid Down by J. P. Morgan & Co.

J. P. Morgan & Co., it was learned yesterday, have given up financing the proposed merger of independent fertilizer concerns, which has been in process of formation for several months. Morgan & Co. were to have taken a block of the new company's capital stock and to have supplied the combination with a large amount of cash.

It has been reported from time to time that certain companies which it was desired to include in the combination were not assenting to the plan, and these reports seem to some extent to be borne out by the fact that the financing of the merger was dropped by Morgan & Co. for the reason that the organizers were not able to fulfill certain conditions laid down by the bankers. It is not understood that any reopening of the negotiations with Morgan & Co. is contemplated.

U. S. REALTY'S GOOD YEAR.

Earnings Nearly a Million Greater Than in 1907.

The annual report of the United States Realty and Improvement Company for the year ended April 30 shows gross earnings of $3,498,358, which is only $91,676 less than in the previous year and $878,977 greater than the gross earnings in 1907. Interest charges, depreciation, &c., were reduced from $1,008,537 to $891,700, and a reduction in expenses of $21,000 left the net income at $2,150,390, compared with $1,920,823 in 1908.

After the payment of bond interest and dividends there was left a surplus of $839,678, against $359,282 in the previous year. The surplus before the deduction of dividends was equal to 9.19 per cent. on the $16,162,800 capital stock outstanding.

The present surplus totals $3,409,274.83, and in addition there is a balance of $217,705 in the unrealized profits account.

Armour & Co. Bonds Oversubscribed.

The $30,000,000 of Armour & Co. 4½ per cent. thirty-year bonds purchased last week by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. for themselves and the National City Bank were so heavily oversubscribed that the subscription lists were closed before the end of the day yesterday. The subscriptions, it is said, will have to be considerably reduced, owing to the very large demand for the bonds.

Minneapolis Road Sells Bonds.

The Minneapolis & St. Louis has issued 5 per cent. equipment trust bonds against $725,000 worth of equipment recently purchased by the company. The bonds mature in installments up to and including 1919. The road has sold the bonds to Taller & Co.

Fleischman Bath Receivership Ends.

Judge Holt in the United States Circuit Court signed an order yesterday terminating the receivership of the Fleischman Baths, at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue. The receivers, Robert C. Morris and Maurice Levy, reported receipts during their term of $42,021 and expenses of $37,058. The property has been sold to James S. Graham for $25,000.

Easy Polo Victory for Rumson.

The Rumson polo team administered a crushing defeat to Squadron A's first team yesterday in the second game of the Squadron A tournament on the Van Cortlandt Park parade field. The winners outclassed the home quartet in all around team work, and their speedier mounts easily gave them control of the ball for the greater part of the match. The Squadron received 2 goals by handicap and earned 2, but had to lose 1½ goals for penalties. The Rumson men earned 18 goals and lost ½, making the final score 15½ in Rumson's favor to 2½ for Squadron A. The line-up:

RUMSON.		SQUADRON A.
W. S. Jones	2	A. D. B. Pratt	1
Walter McClure	2	Louis Nelson	3
H. S. Borden	3	J. H. Hunt	3
R. C. Lawrence	3	P. Boyer	1
Total	10	Total	8

Goals earned—Rumson, 16; Squadron A, 2. Allowed by handicap—Squadron A, 2. Lost by penalties—Squadron A, 1½; Rumson, ½. Net score—Rumson, 15½; Squadron A, 2½. Referee—Lorillard Spencer, Jr.

The game at 4 o'clock this afternoon will be between New Haven and Squadron A's second team.

Laurel Didn't Last a Round.

Patsy Kline of Newark defeated "Kid" Laurel of Newark in the first round at Brown's Athletic Association, West Twenty-third Street, last night. The contest was scheduled to go ten rounds, but was stopped by Referee Bill Brown after Laurel was knocked down with a hard left on the jaw. The referee did not wait to count the customary ten seconds, but picked Laurel up and carried him to his corner. The action of the referee did not meet with the approval of the members, who jeered and asked the referee to allow the bout to continue. The referee said: "This club does not allow prize fights but boxing matches, and when I see a boy outclassed I stop the contest."

Stein Beat Lew Sheppard.

Joe Stein defeated Lew Sheppard in a six-round contest at the Long Acre Athletic Association, West Twenty-ninth Street, last night. It was one of the best contests seen at this club for a long while, and both boys fought fast from the start until the finish. The members were on their feet at the finish shouting instructions to the boys, and they continued to fight after the bell signaled the finish of the last round.

Welsh Whips Phil Brock.

BOSTON, May 25.—Eddie Welsh of England outclassed Phil Brock of Cleveland, Ohio, during twelve rounds of hard fighting in the 133-pound class at the Armory Athletic Association to-night. In no round did the Ohio boy have any advantage, although he put up a plucky fight and fought hard until the end. Welsh got the decision.

Marshall and Capablanca Draw.

Frank J. Marshall and Jose R. Capablanca contested the seventeenth game of their match of eight games up at the Brooklyn Chess Club yesterday afternoon, and after forty-five moves another draw was recorded, the score up to date being seven to one in favor of Capablanca, nine games being drawn.

HIGH MARKS FOR BOWLERS.

New Records Expected at National Tourney at Madison Square Garden.

After only two days of the National Bowling Association tournament, which is to continue at Madison Square Garden for three weeks, it is evident to the close followers of the game that all records, both world's and tournament, will be eclipsed before the close of the big event, which ranks as the greatest that has ever been held in this country. Those teams and individuals who are classed as the best exponents of the game in this country have still to make their appearance on the alleys, and yet several records have been closely approachd in a number of instances.

It was stated last night by one of the most prominent dévotées of the game that to be even in the money the individual bowlers would have to go better than 625 for a series of three games, and the two-men teams would have to do better than 1,100. It is believed that in the five-man team event at least 2,700 will have to be rolled by any contesting team that hopes to figure in the prizes. With this condition prevailing, it is considered almost certain that the winners in the various events will have to exceed any previous marks that have been established to score the victory.

In the five-man team tournament last night the Jamaica combination of Jamaica, L. I., crowded out the Ravenswood team of Long Island City by rolling the high score of 2,809.

The aerial scoring device worked to advantage, and at all times the spectators were in touch with the points made on each of the alleys. The scores of yesterday's best games are as follows:

Individual Three Games—A. Lawson, Long Island City, 681; N. Poohlman, Baltimore, 601½; A. Bergstown, Long Island City, 584; L. Domke, New York City, 584; W. Fox, Brooklyn, 575.

NO INCENTIVE FOR TRADING

Strength of Wheat and Unfavorable Private Reports Restrict Stock Business—Copper Metal Up.

Outside of the daily new high record in United States Steel common business on the Stock Exchange was pratcically featureless, unless, indeed, the resistance of securities as a whole to neglect may be accepted as evidence of inherent strength on the part of the stock market. Trading appears to have reached the point where something decidedly new and potent must occur before any increase is made in market commitments for either the rise or fall. Outside participation, in the ordinary sense of that phrase, is negligible, although from time to time buying for European account is reported upon a modest scale. There seems to be a disposition in speculative circles, where the initiative for much of the activity of recent markets was found, to postpone action until the June crop report of the Government on both wheat and cotton comes out, but since these figures are not to be made public until June 7 the interval may prove somewhat too great. In the meantime the continued strength of grain markets, together with the unfavorable reports of private investigators, who are going through the wheat fields at the instance of great grain houses, is exerting a restrictive influence on trading and instilling caution in speculators in securities. There seems to be agreement on all sides upon the prospects for a very large yield of Spring wheat and a record corn crop, a fact which makes it entirely probable that after the first sense of disappointment over the small Winter wheat crop has passed more cheerful views of the future, so far as it depends upon agricultural conditions, will prevail. Among yesterday's developments affecting the general situation in a favorable fashion were the prompt response of investors to two recent offerings of bonds by banking houses in the financial district, this leading to the quick closing of subscription books in both cases; an advance in the price of copper on the local Metal Exchange and a similar increase in the price asked for the metal by the largest selling agency in the country, and a batch of favorable railroad earning statements for the month of April and the third week of the present month. The Atchison, reporting for April, noted an increase of $644,000 in gross and of $303,000 in net returns.

For the first time in several weeks call money rates failed to touch the usual daily maximum quotation of 2 per cent., the high figure having been 1⅞ per cent. Time money rates were practically unchanged, and demand continues light, with supplies more than adequate. No enlargement in the gold movement occurred, shipments having been interfered with for the moment, at least, by the unfavorable turn in the foreign exchange market.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—Local stock operations consisted principally of a lot of small transactions in United Gas Improvement warrants to-day. They made an insignificant total. Keystone Telephone shares, after a long period of dullness, showed signs of a reawakening, and the common stock rose over a point on very moderate buying, while the preferred made a still greater gain. Philadelphia Electric, selling ex dividend, kept on a level with last night's close. The present agitation against the Phil

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Conflicting Views.

The bears were saying that the Street was full of stocks, and that there would have to be a good deal of liquidation before another advance could be engineered with good effect. The bulls retorted that if the market was so full of stocks as the bears contended there did not seem to be any indications of their running over. Nevertheless the bears exerted their efforts toward forcing stocks out. Close observers of the transactions declared, however, that they could detect no liquidation worthy of mention. Those operating for the decline professed to find artificiality in the fact that stocks almost totally disregarded the further rise in wheat prices, but their opponents met them with the argument that this was simply another illustration of the market's imperviousness to bad news, if the advance in grain could be called such. They took this for another prop to support their assertion that the big banking interests were ranged on the bull side and not disposed to allow stocks to go down much if they could help it. Inasmuch as there is no particular reason why the public should liquidate its holdings, the argument continued, it would be a comparatively easy matter to hold the market around current levels until such a time as a further advance was deemed advisable.

New Argument on Steel.

While heaviness was displayed by many of the leading shares, there was scarcely any abatement in the enthusiasm toward United States Steel common, which, following its usual proceeding, made another new high record at 61.⁸ In brokerage circles there was less active discussion concerning the possibilities of a dividend increase, but a new reason was found for stimulating interest in the stock. This pertained to an alleged readjustment of relations between the United States Steel Corporation and the independent manufacturers, stories being current that an understanding had been reached between the different concerns by which they would hereafter operate in harmony. Incidentally, rumors were revived of plans for a merger of the leading independent producers into one concern, which would adopt an amicable attitude toward the United States Steel Corporation.

The Copper Situation.

An all-around advance in the price of copper metal was held accountable for the comparative strength shown by Amalgamated and some of the other Copper shares. It is not too much to say that some of the leading copper producers now evince more actual enthusiasm over trade conditions than at any time in the last year. No end of enthusiastic utterances were heard in the copper trade last Fall, when there was a temporary spurt in the market, but at that time some of the most important factors in the situation expressed distrust of the movement and thought that it would soon peter out. Subsequent developments confirmed their opinions, but even these interests now declare that the turn in the tide has unquestionably come, and if their predictions are fulfilled fourteen-cent copper is not far off. Some of them go so far as to assert that electrolytic will be selling at 15 cents a pound before the Summer is over. Bullishness on the Copper shares follows as a natural sequence by those who hold such views, but some of the traders are wondering if a good deal of the improvement in prospect has not already been discounted in market quotations for Copper shares.

Heaviness of Reading.

For several days Reading appears to have been under a good deal of pressure, and yesterday there was a break of 1¾ per cent. in the second preferred stock on a single sale of 100 shares, while the common lost about ¾ per cent. Only a short time ago Reading second preferred rose to around 105 on rumors that it would be retired by an exchange for it of half common and half first preferred stock. Yesterday it got back to 101, which was construed in some quarters as meaning that the retirement plan, along the line suggested at least, might not be carried out after all. A fortnight ago mysterious hints were forthcoming from banking quarters associated with the company that there would be "something doing" in Reading affairs within a short time. Details were not vouchsafed, but the inquirer was allowed to infer many things. Lately inferences have not received so much encouragement.

Guessing on Tractions.

Just what bearing the postponement of the foreclosure sale of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company until November will have on the Interborough-Metropolitan stocks is a question which is agitating the followers of these securities. The wise do not hesitate to assert their belief that the postponement was part of a far-sighted plan, involving the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, and not solely on account of court proceedings or other formalities. Officially, information concerning the reorganization project is scarce, but unofficially, one hears any number of stories, mostly of an indefinite character to be sure, calculated to convey the impression that the controlling interests in the holding company have some pretty well laid plans which will place that corporation in a more favorable position than it might be supposed would be possible. To the individual fully acquainted with the condition of the surface lines, the accomplishment of such a project is a puzzle, but then the traction people have had a good deal of experience in the puzzle business.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

American Securities Close Dull on the London Exchange.

LONDON, May 25.—Money was in good demand on the market to-day for the settlement, while discounts were quietly firm.

On the Stock Exchange the general carryover is progressing at rather harder rates. Business for new account was quieter, excepting in Kaffirs and copper shares, which continued active and firm. Consols rose ¼ in the morning, but other gilt-edged securities and home rails were dull. Foreigners were easy on undecided Paris advices.

American securities opened lower, but the demand for Erie, Union Pacific, and United States Steel caused a hardening to over parity, and the improvement was maintained until Wall Street offered stock in the afternoon. This caused a set-back, especially in Erie, and the market finished dull and easy.

Bar silver steady, 24¼d per ounce.

Money, 1½ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1⅝@1¾ per cent.; for three months' bills, 1⅝@1¾ per cent.

PARIS, May 25.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were weaker.

Exchange on London, 25f 17½c for checks.

BERLIN, May 25.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was dull and prices were unsteady throughout.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—After making new high records early yesterday, the market wound up with a severe decline. One report from Texas at mid-day said that cutting was under way in three counties, with a yield of twelve to fifteen bushels per acre, where failure had previously been predicted. Only 19,000 bushels of wheat were received at Winter wheat points, and the Northwest had 146 cars, compared with 161 cars a year ago. Cables showed a decline of ½d to ⅝d at Liverpool, but advances of ½c at Berlin and 4½c at Budapest. Rain was reported in South Russia, relieving the drought. Cash wheat in New York was entirely nominal, closing, No. 2 red, $1.45, elevator, and $1.45, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.39½, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.40⅝, free on board, afloat.

CORN—Again ignoring the big movement at Chicago, the market advanced rapidly to new high records yesterday, until checked by the late reaction in wheat, when moderate declines occurred. A sharp drop in country offerings led to the belief that the movement had reached its maximum and that farmers were again withdrawing from the market. While receipts at Chicago for the day were 686 cars, only 333 cars were estimated for Wednesday. Liverpool closed ⅝d higher. Cash corn in New York continued nominal, No. 2, 85c elevator and 82c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 84½c, and No. 2 yellow, 84½c, free on board, afloat.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Investor Buys $235,000 Property on 54th Street—Washington Heights Purchases—Deals by Brokers and at Auction.

The Kip's Bay Realty Company (Benjamin Mordecai, President) has sold the four-story automobile salesrooms at 233 to 237 West Fifty-fourth Street, covering a plot of land 60 by 100. The building is occupied by the Harrolds Motor Car Company, the metropolitan selling agents for the Pierce Great Arrow automobile. The brokers in the deal were S. Osgood Pell & Co. The property has been held at $235,000 and was bought by an investor.

At Edgecombe and Bradhurst Aves.

H. D. Baker & Brother, in conjunction with Joseph Tuck, have sold for the Realty Transfer Company the plot at the junction of Edgecombe and Bradhurst Avenues, at 142d Street, 20.2 by 188.9 by 194 by 70 at the rear. The new owner will erect a six-story elevator apartment house on the property.

Frederick Lowenthal has sold for Elizabeth Sheldon 517 West 151st Street, a five-story double flat, on lot 25 by 99.11.

Max Marx has bought, through Hall J. How & Co. from the Charles Welsbecker estate the plot, 45 by 119.6, on the south side of 181st Street, 100 feet east of Audubon Avenue.

Gutwillig Brothers have sold the plot, 100 by 100, at the northeast corner of 179th Street and Pinehurst Avenue, to Mayer S. Auerbach. The sellers acquired the plot at the recent Fort Washington Syndicate auction sale for $36,750.

There will probably be closed within a day or two a resale of the apartment house at the northeast corner of St. Nicholas Avenue and 180th Street, taken in trade recently by Max Marx and others for a plot in the Audubon Park property. The prospective buyer of the apartment house is a Mrs. Livingston.

Dwelling Sold to Mrs. Cowing.

Mrs. Rufus P. Cowing, wife of ex-Justice Cowing, has bought 333 West Eighty-seventh Street, a four-story American basement dwelling, 16 by 100.

Dr. Joseph Mulholland of 2,580 Marion Avenue is the purchaser of the dwelling 218 West Seventy-first Street, sold by Pease & Elliman for Joseph Dillon.

Pease & Elliman have sold for Sumner Gerard 122 East Eightieth Street, a three-story dwelling on lot 18.4 by 50 by 102.2, to a client who will occupy it after remodeling it to an American basement house.

Minnie Murphy has sold 119 East Ninety-first Street, a three-story dwelling on lot 15 by 100.8.

Robert M. Fulton is the buyer of the two four-story dwelling 359 and 361 Lexington Avenue, 39.6 by 85, between Fortieth and Forty-first Streets, sold recently through Renwick C. Hurry & Co.

Deal for 43d Street Parcel.

William Sperb has sold 106 West Forty-third Street, a three-story and basement dwelling on lot 22.6 by 100.5. The parcel is located seventy feet west of Sixth Avenue and one door east of the proposed new structure of the Elks.

J. Romaine Brown & Co. have sold for Benjamin Griffin to a client the dwelling 30 West Fifty-eighth Street. This house has been owned and occupied by Mr. Griffin for thirty-two years.

Architect James Riely Gordon filed plans yesterday for a two-story garage, to cost $100,000, to be erected by the P. A. H. Jackson estate on a plot, 75 by 200.10, at 239 West Fifty-fifth Street, and for alterations costing $50,000 to the three-story garage at the southwest corner of Broadway and Fifty-sixth Street, owned by the Hegeman estate.

Stewart Building Alterations.

Felix Isman will spend $50,000 in altering the Stewart Building, at Broadway and Chambers Street, in accordance with plans filed yesterday at the Building Department by Architect Charles G. Jones.

Plans have been filed for a new three-story power house to be built by the Edison Company on Twenty-sixth Street, east of Sixth Avenue, adjoining its present station. The new building will have a frontage of 75 feet and a depth of 98.9 feet, and will cost $120,000. The architect is W. W. Wessenberger.

The John H. Dye Company has sold for a client the four four-story tenements, with stores, at the northwest corner of Washington and West Tenth Streets to Ottinger & Brother. This property adjoins the Beadleston & Woerz Brewery and is part of the former site of the State prison.

The estate of James A. Ryan has sold 125 to 129 West Third Street, a plot 69.2 by 100, between Sixth Avenue and Macdougal Street.

William A. White & Sons have leased for Morris Weinstein the building to be erected at 162 Chambers Street to the American Steel and Wire Company for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $75,000. It is to be a modern five-story structure, specially built to meet the requirements of the lessees.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has leased for George R. Pond the small business building occupying the entire block bounded by New Bowery, Oak, and Chestnut Streets, for a term of years, to Mastronardi & Lauara.

G. P. Butterly has leased to S. G. Estabrook & Co., furniture manufacturers, through Frederick Zittel, the entire four-story building, 100 by 75, at the southwest corner of Twenty-seventh Street and First Avenue, for a long term of years.

SCARSDALE ESTATES

THE HOMELAND IN THE HILLS

Home Plots Do the suburbs to you mean a dreary succession of 20'x100' lots? Scarsdale Estates is distinctly different. We do not deal in 100 feet depths, but can sell you a plot 100x200 feet for little more than you would pay for half the space elsewhere. Yet the properties of the are beautifully located, convenient to the City, and are by all odds the most attractive developments in the New York region.

Advantages in Price Having purchased this property over a generation ago, we can and do offer these plots at prices which cannot be duplicated in any other section of Westchester County. You are not paying in advance the profits that the next five years development will bring—but virtually buying at the prices of five years ago. This difference must be of the most vital importance to you when buying for home or investment purposes.

Let us send you our handsomely illustrated booklet.

NEW JERSEY—FOR SALE OR TO LET

THE ORANGES In Jersey

IT MAY INTEREST YOU

to know that you can buy in East Orange NOW for $600, a lot within a stone's throw from one for which $1,200 is asked and received.

¶ In the immediate vicinity of this rapidly growing section, lots which sold for $600 only a few years ago, are to-day worth from $150 to $200 a front foot.

¶ Your business instinct will show you instantly the wisdom of buying in such a place, where values have been increased by improvement and population—not by printer's ink and enthusiasm.

LACKAWANNA PARK

WEST SUMMIT NEW JERSEY

Lackawanna Park, located in the most beautiful section of the Orange Mountains, is an improved and wisely restricted development, where building sites can be bought at the most reasonable prices and upon easy and convenient terms.

This delightful section is less than 30 minutes from Newark and can be reached from New York by the McAdoo Tube and Lackawanna Railroad in about 45 minutes.

We will build you a most charming home for $3,500 to $6,000. A small amount down and the balance in monthly payments, the same as you are now paying for rent, will secure this home for you.

Let us send you our booklet showing pictures and floor plans of our model homes and bungalows.

Live Where Your Children Are SAFE

The number of children killed in the city streets by automobiles, cars and other vehicles is greater this year than ever before. Almost every day the newspapers contain accounts of little ones killed or injured at play in the street.

For your children's sake, then, get them away from congested parts of the city—away from the hot streets and out into the fresh air and sunshine, where when vacation days come—the schools soon close now—they can play outdoors all day long in perfect safety. Come to

C., H. & D. PLAN READY.

Baltimore & Ohio Board Not Yet Ready to Make Any Statement.

Another meeting of the Directors of the Baltimore & Ohio was held yesterday to give consideration to the contemplated arrangement with the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton. At the conclusion of the meeting it was said that the Baltimore & Ohio had not yet any announcement to make, nor was any statement forthcoming yesterday from the representatives of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton security holders.

The matter, however, has for some time been practically in shape for an announcement, but this has been delayed to permit all the parties to the matter to agree upon certain minor details.

ERIE WILL TEST NEW SIGNAL PLAN

It Is an Electric Device Warning a Locomotive Engineer of Impending Danger.

SOUNDS A GONG IN THE CAB

The Same Apparatus Also Enables Him to Communicate with Station Agents While Running at Full Speed.

A locomotive equipped with a device that the inventor asserts will prevent collisions between railroad trains will make a run over a specially prepared part of the Erie Railroad to-day. The test is to be made on a stretch of track twelve miles long between Newark and Paterson. The device is electrical, and it is declared that it will make collisions of every sort practically impossible. It also keeps the engineer in telephonic communication with stations while the train is running at full speed, and, should anything happen to the engineer, it stops the engine.

Ex-Borough President Jacob A. Cantor is the Acting President of the company formed to exploit the new invention, the name of the corporation being the Electrical Automatic Railroad Safety Signal Company. Among those who are interested in the company, as given out by Mr. Cantor yesterday afternoon, are Cornelius Vanderbilt, Perry Belmont, Paul J. Rainey, Clarence H. Mackay, C. W. Bird, and P. St. Goar. The device is the invention of a young man named Lacroix.

Engine 375, which has been especially equipped with the new device, will be used in to-day's tests. The Erie officials who will witness the test include General Manager Stuart, General Supt. Stone, Division Supts. Elston and Roach, Engineer Wilson of the electrical department, Master Mechanic Dewey, Signal Engineer Willis, and Traveling Engineer Sallee. The engine will leave the Pavonia Ferry, Jersey City, at 9 o'clock this morning. This test is the forerunner of a test which will soon be given for the benefit of the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

Mr. Lacroix's system of preventing railroad collisions is based upon the closed-circuit principle. Its primary features are a dynamo current and circuit and a battery circuit and circuit in the locomotive cab, connected by a shoe on the locomotive through a small third rail parallel to the track, and then through line conductors and relays with the ordinary track circuit.

The circuit relays and resistances are so arranged that normally a low current of about ten volts is maintained in the closed circuits of the cab and through the conductor circuits. Any break or defect in either will therefore give a danger signal.

In like manner, any short circuit caused by another train being within the section or the succeeding section gives a danger signal.

The danger signal consists of two gongs on independent circuits and sources of power, placed in the cab over the boiler, and a red light and recording indicator adjacent. When the track is short circuited by a train or an open switch, bridge down, or broken rail, the bell rings loudly, the whistle blows, and the red light flashes, and the recording instrument records not only the signal, but also states the time such signal was produced. This recording instrument consists of an electro-controlled pencil. It writes down each signal in red ink. This is a check on the engineer in the event of a dispute. In addition to these signals, a mechanism called an automatic stop is placed in the cab of the engine. In case the engine driver fails to hear the signals or in event of his sudden death at the throttle, the device commences to work and brings the engine to a full stop.

In the cab of the engine there is also a telephone, which enables the engine driver to communicate with any station agent or engineer on the line while the train is running at full speed.

JOHNSON DIDN'T SAIL.

Pugilist Canceled His Passage—Mrs. Astor on the Kaiser Wilhelm.

Jack Johnson, the colored pugilist, was booked to sail yesterday for Plymouth on the North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, but he changed his mind at the last moment and did not go.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor and Miss Alice Astor sailed on the liner, bound for Carlsbad. They were escorted to the pier by Col. John Jacob Astor, who said that he intended to follow his family across in June.

Mrs. Philip Lydig, who sailed on the same vessel, said that she intended to take several weeks' rest in Scotland and then go to Carlsbad to take the cure.

Boy's Life Valued at $2,000.

By settlement out of court, Axel Lindstrom, father of Howard Lindstrom, 10 years old, who was killed by catching hold of a dangling telephone wire which had come in contact with a live wire, yesterday received $2,000 from the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. Lindstrom owns a flower establishment, and in January, 1907, telephone linemen left a dead wire dangling within reach of the ground which Lindstrom's son tried to pull down. The father tried to release the boy and was knocked senseless, as was a policeman who went to their assistance.

Van Osten, Who Can't Remember, Is Back.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 25.—Weak in mind and body, Charles Van Osten, the man whose mental state and inability to remember his past have puzzled the Grace Hospital authorities, and who disappeared mysteriously about two weeks ago, returned to the hospital to-day.

During his absence, he said, he had worked as a laborer in New York. He had gone to that city by trolley and worked until he fell ill. He then decided to return to the hospital.

After he has had a few days' rest he will be asked to talk more freely about his experience.

James Buckley Fined $25.

James Buckley, manager of the Sharkey Athletic Club, 127 Columbus Avenue, and former referee of the National Athletic Club of this city, was convicted yesterday in Special Session of participating in a prize fight at the club on Nov. 20, 1907, and fined $25. Edward Walsh, son of Inspector Walsh and one of the Inspector's staff, gained admittance on that night and paid the Secretary for their tickets without being members.

SALVATION ARMY CONGRESS.

Commissioner Higgins Brings Greetings from Gen. Booth.

The first meeting of the National Congress of the Salvation Army was held last night under Commander Evangeline Booth at the army headquarters, 120 to 124 West Fourteenth Street. The auditorium was thronged. When, at a few minutes before 8 o'clock, Commander Booth escorted Commissioner E. J. Higgins of London, the international representative of the army, to the platform, the entire audience arose and, to the strains of the National Staff Band, sang the opening song, "Salvation Army, Army of God."

Commissioner Higgins was the first speaker, and he brought the greetings of Gen. Booth to the army in this country.

"We have been celebrating the eightieth birthday of the General," he said, "and I see no change in him. He is as young as ever, and can hold his audience with the same magnetic force. No messages at this time touched him more than the many that came from America. Somebody has asked me if the General is not easing off in his old age, but I tell you that every day of the coming year is filled, including his visit to America."

Commander Booth then said that she had been praying night and day for the last few weeks that the present conference might advance the work of the army all over the world. She then held aloft a 50-cent piece and said that the motto engraved upon it, "In God We Trust," was the true motto of the Salvation Army. She said that without that motto the movement launched by a man, his wife, and two babies could never have succeeded.

FIRE ASSOCIATION MEETS.

One Member Says Losses in the Last Year Foot Up $250,000,000.

Members of the National Fire Protection Association from many States gathered here yesterday to attend the opening session of the association's thirteenth annual convention, which is being held in the assembly room of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, at 32 Nassau Street.

The members of the association were entertained at dinner last night by the Insurance Society of New York at the Underwriters' Club, 16 Liberty Street. A hundred or more attended. A. R. Hosford, President of the insurance society, presided as toastmaster.

F. H. Wentworth, Assistant Secretary of the Fire Protection Association, explained the purposes for which the association was organized thirteen years ago, and outlined the work that has been accomplished. He said that in the last year at least $250,000,000 worth of property had been destroyed by fire, and that by earnest co-operation and harmonious action between those who regulate fire protection this waste could be decreased.

TEST OF BEQUEST TO CHURCH.

Contestants Held That Church Didn't Obey Law of Its Incorporation.

A question of interest to religious eleemosynary corporations was raised in the trial of an action just ended before Justice Stapleton in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. The point involved was whether such institutions could legally keep money or realty left to them by will if they failed to live up to the law of their incorporation.

Adam Schlegel, who died in 1885, left a piece of Brooklyn real estate which was to go to the Roman Catholic Church of the Most Holy Trinity after the death of the testator's widow. At the death of Mrs. Schlegel the church received the property. The Schlegel children sought to establish their right to the property, their contention being that by the law of its incorporation the church should have exhibited within three years after its incorporation an inventory of its holdings in real and personal property to some court, and have also filed a report as to the same with the County Clerk. Justice Stapleton reserved decision.

6,000 Coal Miners Strike.

CHARLESTON, West Va., May 25.—More than 6,000 miners went on strike in the Kanawha field to-day because the operators demand the long ton. There was no violence, and none is expected. The strike affects all the mines in the Kanawha field except those on Paint Creek and Cabin Creek, the latter being unorganized.

Army Usurers Sentenced.

HAMBURG, May 25.—Three money lenders named Mohr, Bein, and Kruschwitz, were sentenced to fines and imprisonment to-day at Hamburg for practicing usury against 190 officers of the army. Each was also deprived of his civil rights for two years from the time he gets out of prison.

Died as She Consulted a Physician.

While consulting with Dr. William E. Rounds in his office, at 44 East Thirtieth Street, yesterday Miss Hannah Louise Burroughs, 66 years old, of Elmhurst, L. I., was stricken with apoplexy and died. She was accompanied by her sister. She was a descendant of a family which has occupied an old homestead in Elmhurst for nearly 200 years.

CITY BREVITIES.

M. Linn Bruce was appointed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Gildersleeve to take testimony in the matter of the sale of property belonging to the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in West Twenty-third Street, in which the Presbytery has asked leave to intervene.

The Rev. George D. Mathews, General Secretary of the General Alliance of the Presbyterian Reformed Church, arrived yesterday on the Minneapolis to arrange for the next meeting of the Alliance. It will take place in the Fifth Avenue Church, June 15, and will be attended by delegates from all parts of the world.

Mrs. Aurora Curtis, wife of John C. Curtis, former chauffeur of Mary Garden, is to have $10 a week alimony and a counsel fee of $50 pending her suit for a separation, according to a decision of Supreme Court Justice Gildersleeve yesterday.

Ambrose B. Tremaine, a lawyer, of 160 Broadway, was arrested yesterday by Central Office detectives on a charge of grand larceny preferred by H. G. Clement, Jr., manager of the Hotel Marseille, at Broadway and 103d Street, who accuses Tremaine of giving a bad check in payment for a board bill. He said he was awaiting returns from a legacy to pay his debts.

10,000 JERSEYITES SEE AN AIRSHIP FLY

Capt. Baldwin Makes a Short Flight at the Opening of the Aero Carnival.

GOV. FORT AND STAFF THERE

Children March Out Singing Patriotic Songs as They Pass School Buildings.

Gov. Fort of New Jersey and Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin, with his new dirigible airship, were the star attractions at the opening of the West Hudson aero carnival yesterday at North Arlington, N. J. It was a great day for New Jersey, and particularly for that part of the State within twenty miles of the 100-acre plateau devoted to the science of aeronautics, and incidentally to the financial profit of a hundred or more small shows that contributed a Coney Island atmosphere of gayety and holiday abandon.

Gov. Fort, in his opening address, referred with pride to the fact that the carnival was the first of its kind ever held in the United States, if not in the world. A little later when the wind had died down somewhat and Capt. Baldwin soared 100 feet above the heads of 10,000 persons, tilted dangerously up and down two or three times and then circling completely around came down 200 feet away from his starting place, a roar of applause broke out from the enthusiastic spectators.

Besides Capt. Baldwin's airship, which is stored when not in use in a big tent, and was inspected by over a thousand Jerseyites at 10 cents a look before it was brought out into the open air, the only other evidences of aeronautical ingenuity were two flying machines stored in sheds. One was the tri-plane made by Morris Bokor. It has had some trials at Morris Park. Mr. Bokor hopes to rise in the air before the close of the week.

The other machine is a strange contrivance. It is constructed of tin, iron, and steel, with two enormous wings stretching out from the top of the tin-inclosed portion of the car in which the operator sits. The machine has aptly been termed the "Jersey Devil." Its builder is Victor L. Ochica, a Paterson inventor.

Miss E. M. Todd of this city, founder of the Junior Aero Club, intends to bring out a new machine of her own construction, and Wilbur R. Kimball may have his eight-propeller machine on the grounds before the $1,000 contest for aeroplane flying begins. To win the money the aeroplane operator only has to travel one mile, and the officers of the West Hudson Aero Club say that they are anxious to get rid of the prize.

More than 5,000 persons were on the field by noon, but the official opening was not in order until the arrival of Gov. Fort with his military staff. He was accompanied by a battalion from the First Regiment. The line of the parade was adorned with hundreds of American flags. The children marched out of the schoolhouses on the road and sang patriotic songs as the State officials passed. Just before Gov. Fort came in sight half a hundred big kites of various colors were sent up under the supervision of Samuel F. Perkins.

It was after 5 o'clock before Capt. Baldwin had his airship pushed out of its tent. It was a trim-looking craft, the balloon being eighty-six feet long. It is an exact reproduction of the dirigible airship he delivered to the United States Government last year. At 6 o'clock he gave the word to let go, and, with Baldwin in the middle of the framework back of the motor, the ship rose gracefully in the air. Suddenly the wind caught it and tilted it downward at an angle of 45 degrees. Capt. Baldwin quickly turned the planes in front of the motor upward, and the ship steadied herself in a second. He sailed off near a clump of trees, circled around, and slowly came back to the ground about 200 feet from where he started. He expects to make a longer flight to-day if the wind is favorable.

The carnival will continue through next Monday. Special aeronautic features are provided for each day, one day being devoted to kite-flying contests by public school children. Capt. Baldwin will make a flight each day.

TENNIS ON HOTEL ROOF.

A Double Court Has Been Laid Out A-Top the Waldorf.

Open-air tennis high up above the city buildings is to be one of the features of the roof garden on top of the Waldorf-Astoria this Summer. Mr. Boldt has arranged to move the old band stand to another place, and thus give room for a double court, on which the game can be played by guests of the hotel without leaving the building.

The roof is now being put in shape for the garden party of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which is to be held the evening of June 3, when there will be dancing and bridge to while away the time in the big new sun parlor on the roof.

MORPHINISM

for drug addictions, successfully applied for many years, involves little of the discomfort and other unpleasant features usually attendant upon the treatment of such cases. The period of residence required of patients averages less than three weeks. A high-class sanitarium is maintained, with skilled specialists and careful nursing.

MARTIN DIVORCE CASE UP.

After counsel for the defendant had refused to go on with the case and had left court because he could not obtain an adjournment, the trial of the suit for a divorce brought by Edwin E. Martin against his wife, Etta H. Martin, was begun yesterday afternoon in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, before Justice Aspinall, despite the protests of Mrs. Martin's lawyer. Asserting that he had not had time to prepare his case, Lawyer J. Arthur Hilton, for the defendant, declared that he would withdraw unless there was a postponement. There was a lively argument between him and Stephen C. Baldwin of counsel for Mr. Martin, which ended in Mr. Hilton leaving the court. Counsel appeared for two of the nine co-respondents named by the husband.

The jury box had been filled when Mr. Hilton left court and the examination of witnesses was begun. The co-respondents include two well-known physicians, a Fall River, Mass., insurance broker, a Boston dentist, and a son of a Methodist Episcopal clergyman. Mrs. Martin is a daughter of a minister who was formerly the pastor of a Brooklyn church. Mrs. Martin is alleged to have met two of the co-respondents at Cottage City, Mass., where there is a Methodist camp-meeting ground, and where she was a soloist in the tabernacle. The trial will be continued to-day.

THE W&H SHOPS

To Men Who Know

YESTERDAY we announced our intention to advertise. To-day we outline our plans somewhat.

We shall say little about Merchandise for the present.

What we are chiefly interested in communicating just now, is a little of the personality of the W. & H. shops, something of the policy back of this business, and a good deal of the principle.

We believe intensely in ourselves, as you see. We believe we have exercised an important influence on the Furnishing business of this city. Men Who Know say we have revolutionized it.

When we have got our story "over the plate," we expect the integrity of our Merchandise to be taken for granted. The integrity that is expressed in our offer to buy back at purchase price any unsatisfactory article.
